KENT NEWS.

THE KENT NEWS

CHESTER TOWN, MD.

Saturday Morning, July 19, 1845.

V. B. PALMER,

South East corner of Baltimore and Calvert streets, Baltimore—No. 59 Pine street, Philadelphia—No. 160 Nassau street, (Tribune Buildings,) New York, and No. 16 State street, Boston, is our authorized AGENT for receiving advertisements for, and subscriptions to, the "KENT NEWS," and collecting and receipting for the same.

PUBLIC Meeting.

The Whigs of Kent County are requested to meet in their several election districts, on Saturday the 26th instant, at three o'clock, P. M. for the purpose of nominating three persons from each district to meet similar committees from Harford, Cecil, Queen Ann's and Caroline counties, in the town of Millington, on Wednesday, the 30th instant, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress, for the fifth Congressional district of the State.

The meeting of the lower district, will be held at Stone's Spring; in the middle, at the Court House; in the upper, at James T. Dunbar Esq's. Hotel

Committee of Arrangements, appointed in 1844.

Kent County, July 12, 1845.

The Weather.

During this week the weather has been more intensely warm than at any other period during this or last season. On Monday afternoon the thermometer stood at 96° in the shade.

Drought.

We have had no rain since the third instant—during the most of which time the weather has been excessively hot—the earth has become arid—corn is suffering materially, and the pastures are parched up.

Political.

We see from our exchanges that the Whigs in the different counties in this State are buckling on their armour preparatory to the contest in October next. In Cecil they have nominated their County ticket, and in Queen Ann's, Harford, Anne Arundel and other counties they have called primary meetings. Let them act but as Whigs should act—with energy and unanimity—and they will not only have a large majority in the State Legislature, at the approaching election, but they will also elect a majority of Representatives to Congress.

The Whigs of Kent will bear in mind that District meetings are to be held on Saturday next, to appoint committees to meet in Millington, to nominate a candidate for Congress. We hope that the true Whig spirit may prevail and that our friends will turn out on the occasion. We presume that meetings will soon be called by the committee of arrangements for the purpose of nominating delegates and a Sheriff for the county.

A western editor commences a long exhortation to bachelors with the following words: "Come, you poor, miserable, lonely, dissentious, fractional parts of animated nature, come up here and be talked to."

FROM MEXICO.

The Washington Union of Monday afternoon remarks—

"We see nothing in the last news from Mexico that increases the probabilities that she intends to attempt active measures to carry out her threats."

The decree of the Mexican Government, issued in reference to the annexation of Texas to this country, is as follows:

"The National Congress of the Mexican Republic considering that the Chambers of the United States sanctioned, by a decree of the Executive, have resolved to incorporate the Territory of Texas to the American Union, and that this mode of appropriating foreign territories, of which other foreign nations are the rightful owners, introduces a monstrous novelty of great importance to the peace of the world and detrimental to the sovereignty of nations.—That this usurpation, thus consummated to the prejudice of Mexico, has been insidiously preparing for a length of time, whilst the most cordial friendship has been proclaimed, and whilst this Republic has scrupulously respected the existing treaties between her and the United States.

"That the aggregation of Texas to the United States tramples under foot all the conservatory principles of societies, attacks all the rights that Mexico possesses on said territory, is an insult to her dignity as a sovereign nation, and threatens her independence and political being. That those principles which served as the basis to the treaties of friendship, commerce and navigation, and especially that of the precise limits even in treaties previous to 1832, being threatened on the part of the United States are considered violated by that nation.

"And finally, That the unjust despoliation of which she wishes to make the Mexican nation the victim, constitutes a just right to use all her resources and power to resist said aggression to the utmost."

DECREES.

1st. The Mexican nation convokes all her children (hijos) to the defence of the National Independence threatened by the usurpation of the territory of Texas, which is intended to be carried into effect by the decree of annexation passed by the Chambers and sanctioned by the President of the United States.

2nd. In consequence of which the Government will put under arms all the force of the army, conformably to the authority conceded by the existing laws—and for the preservation of public order, sustaining the Institution, and if necessity requires, to serve as reserve to the army; the Government using the faculties conceded on the 9th December, may raise forces, of which the said decree speaks, under the name of Defenders of the Independence and of the Laws.

MEXICO, 4th June.

APPREHENDED DEATH.—CONFESSION.

We learn that Wm. Stewart, who was convicted some years since of the murder of his father, and now confined in the Penitentiary, is hourly expected to die from a pulmonary affection, and that in view of his death, he has made a "confession" of all knowledge in his possession, of the most foul and unnatural deed with which he stands condemned by the law of the land. We are not permitted to gratify the public in their curiosity to ascertain the facts in connection with a matter which seemed to involve so much mystery, as did the circumstances surrounding this most horrid murder, by any statement founded upon the "confession" of Stewart, but presume that, in due course of time, it will be put forth. We may state, however, that it will not be published until after his death.—Balt. Clip.

A writer in the National Intelligencer, speaking of the alarming prevalence of intemperance in Virginia, notices the noble stand taken by Gov. McDowell, the present Executive of the State, on the side of temperance, in strong terms of approbation.—"He has had the moral courage," remarks the writer, "amid innumerable frowns and thwartings of the great and the fashionable to exhibit upon his table and throughout his mansion, to guests, however numerous or exalted, no stronger drink than pure water. His name is signed to the pledge of abstinence from all that can intoxicate; and his eloquence, unrivalled now in Virginia, has repeatedly been heard in the cause of such temperance."

The Frankfort, Ky. Commonwealth of the 1st inst. says—

It is the universal remark that there never was grown in Kentucky a better wheat crop than the present.—The frequent rains lately have somewhat retarded the harvesting, but we do not learn that they had caused serious damage to the crop. Kentucky has for years imported considerable quantities of wheat and flour, but it is generally believed that she will export a surplus from the present crop.

HOMICIDE.

Two gentlemen went out recently near New Orleans to hunt deer. One of them, Mr. Heno, was accidentally shot by his companion whilst in the bushes, in mistake for a deer which had been started up.—The body of Mr. H. was not seen by his friend at the time he fired. The shot was aimed at the rustling bushes. The unfortunate man died in 24 hours after being wounded.

John Randolph Clay has been selected by Mr. McLane as his Secretary of Legation. Mr Clay has the advantage of experience, having already filled the post of Secretary under Messrs. Dallas and Buchanan in Russia, and Muhlenberg and Jennifer in Austria.—N. Y. Gaz.

THE GREATEST PIECE OF PEDESTRIANISM EVER PERFORMED.—A foot race came off on Friday in the neighborhood of Stonington, Conn. in which Major Champlin performed a mile in the astonishing and almost incredible time of four minutes and ninetsen seconds.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

This being the season for the ravages of the summer complaint among the juveniles, a correspondent encloses us the following recipe, which, by the way, originally appeared in the columns of the Sun more than two years since, and has been published more than once since:—

"Take ¾ of a teaspoonful of powdered rhubarb, one ditto of magnesia, and one of ground cinnamon, put the whole in a cup, pour it full of boiling water, cover it and let it stand until cooled; pour the liquid off and add three teaspoonfuls of good French brandy; sweeten it with loaf sugar, keep it in a bottle and use when necessary."

As to this recipe being a remedy for the summer complaint after it has fairly fastened its fangs on a child, we know from personal obsevation that it is not, though as a prevertative it has been used in hundreds of cases without once failing, and as "an ounce of preventative is worth a pound of cure," it may be considered the more valuable. If freely used, say a teaspoonful every hour for a child over two years of age, or one teaspoonful in two hours if under the age of two years, on the first symptoms of disordered bowels, it may be considered almost an infallible preventative. As to the brandy and cinnamon, it will be found equally, and perhaps more effective, without either; though when bottled, and kept for future use the brandy should be used to prevent its fermenting. If well sweetened with loaf sugar children are generally fond of it.—Sun.

THE PRINTING TELEGRAPH.

The New York Commercial says:—"Our readers were informed that we had seen the work of this new instrument—a slip of paper, having on it some words printed by the telegraph. We have since had an opportunity of seeing the machine, itself—seen it at work. And a most ingenious, wonderful thing it is, and, so far as we can judge, perfectly efficient. We are restricted from telling how its operations are performed, or from giving any intimation of its construction; but of its doings we may speak, and surely there is nothing we can say that would go beyond its merits. Its advantages over Morse's telegraph are, greater rapidity of action, greater certainty, and facility of use by any person. For Morse's telegraph there must be a person at each end capable of translating the hieroglyphic marks and dots; but the printing telegraph makes the ordinary letters, arranges them in words and can be governed by any person who can spell. We shall say no more at present, understanding that no very long time will elapse before the printing telegraph will be open for every body's inspection."

AN EMPTY JAIL.

The Kent News states, that "the jail in Chestertown is without a tenant, except the worthy proprietor, who we hear is desirous of renting it out. We understand that since it has been in possession of the present manager, he has conducted it upon the total abstinence principle, and made it the only temperance hotel in the town.—He has now a number of rooms to let—a choice can be had with the usual accompaniments upon early application. Board 30 cents per day."

It is strange that the jail should be empty, considering that it is "the only temperance hotel in the town"—for it is notorious that liquor fills the jails and penitentiarries of the country, but we presume that the good people of Chestertown are either teetotallers or moderate drinkers. We are glad to see that the jail of one county of our State is without tenants, for it shews a moral condition of society in that section of country greatly to be praised.

DISCOVERY IN THE PREPARATION OF COFFEE.

It having been known in Prague, that the water in the wells of that town is better adapted for the use of making coffee, than the river water, a comparative analysis of the water indicated that this depended on the carbonate of soda contained in the former. It has since been found that a small quantity of the carbonate added to the coffee much improves its flavor; and it has therefore been recommended by chemists, that an addition of 43 grains of the pure carbonate of soda added to each pound of roasted coffee is an improvement to the flavor, and also to the therapeutic effects of this beverage, as it neutralizes the acid contained in the infusion.

NAUVOO.

The Warsaw Signal contains numerous statements of violence in and about Nauvoo William Backenstos, late sheriff of Hancock, has been ordered to leave the holy city. He is accused of being the correspondent of the Warsaw signal. Patriarch Bill Smith, of Nauvoo, brother of the prophet, whose wife died about four weeks since, was again married on last Sunday week—having been a widower about eighteen days. His bride is about 16 years of age and he is 35. The split among the Nauvoo saints is growing wider. Bill Smith heads one party, the twelve disciples the other.

A NEW INVENTION.

A couple of enterprising young gentlemen of St. Louis have invented a new kind of ladder, to be used by the fire department. The ladder is made of chain, and by a simple motive power, in the space of a few minutes elevates a man and four lines of hose to the top or any part of the highest building, at the same time spreading out and resting two other ladders of any size or height upon the building on which the main ladder is thrown.

The Philadelphia Gazette of the 15th instant has the following paragraph—

RESIGNATION OF MR. BUCHANAN.

Gentlemen from Washington state with confidence that the Hon. James Buchanan has resigned the Secretaryship of State, and that the President has selected Andrew Stevenson of Virginia, to fill the place. Differences of opinion as to the Oregon negotiation have induced this step on the part of Mr. Buchanan.

FEVERS.—Fevers of all kinds are peculiarly under the control of Clickener's Sugar Coated Pills, owing to their unrivalled efficacy in purifying the chyle, and thus depriving the blood of the nourishment that feeds its inflammation. The various Fevers are indicated by as various symptoms, but cold shiverings, succeeded by a dry heat with pains in the head, bones, and limbs, are features common to all.

Mrs. Ann Seymour, of Troy permits us to state, that being far advanced in the first stage of the Typhus Fever, she had recourse to Clickener's Sugar Coated Pills, which completely expelled every symptom of the disease in a week. She adds that they are the only medicine she could ever get to remain on her stomach.

AGRICULTURAL.

PRESERVATION OF PEACH TREES.

The Conversations at the New York Farmer's Club, are generally of quite an interesting character. Some valuable hints may probably be gathered from the following remarks made at its meeting on the 20 ult, on a subject in which almost all have an interest. The use of tobacco around the roots of peach trees was recommended by a corespondent of the Farmer's Cabinet, in the 9th No. of our last volume, page 274.—ED

Cheever Newhall Esq., Vice-President of the Masschusetts Horticultural Society, in the Chair.

Mr. Wakeman—I present a paper on the Peach tree, from my worthy friend Geo. F. Hopkins The well known havoc made by the enemies upon that delicious fruit tree, renders every suggestion for its defence and preservation most acceptable. The letter recommends tobacco tied around the bodies, and the application of alkalies, of whale oil, and of blacksmith's cinders to the roots. I noticed a case in Philadelphia, of a tree on the roots of which hot water had been poured, and soot and lime applied, and the tree bore good fruit every year for 20 years. I refer to Mr. Depeyster's statement at a former meeting, of his success in consequence of placing anthracite coal ashes around the roots of peach trees.

Col. E. Clark—Lime recently burned, placed at the root of a tree, has the effect of killing worms; many of them are desolved, when in contact with the lime; being moist, they afford the means of their dissolution. Common tansey, planted next to the roots, is said to keep off the worms. When lime is sprinkled at the root, it must be wet either by rain or by hand. I know of no better remedy.

Mr. Wakeman—I ought to mention that the tree in Philadelphia was annually white washed.

Ethan Campbell, Esq.—I applied quicklime to the roots of 10 peach trees, annually since 1839, and those trees are healthy. I planted tansey at the roots of 20 peach trees; they were not attacked by worms. The worm bores a hole through the bark at the edge of the ground; its eggs are hatched in June, and I have taken 30 worms out of the bottom of a single tree. The trees protected by tansey give me full crops of fruit, and fine too, annually. Ten peach trees to which I applied nothing, all died the third year.

Col. Travers—I planted on my farm in Jersey, 900 peach trees. I treated them every way, ashes, lime I cleared the roots—and had 120 left. One near my home, I cultivated as I would a cabbage, leaving no grass or weeds near it, that one is a healthy and vigorous fruit bearer—cultivation does that for it. The tree and all plants must, like animals, have good and proper food. The grub worm does not mind ashes, or lime, or salt, he will crawl out of it, and I have tried by wrapping him in these substances to kill him, and he don't mind it. I tried it on bots taken alive from a dead horse—the bots were not killed by it, nor by any of the articles given to a horse as remedies for bots. This animal does not die either in or out of a horse, by being enveloped in the articles. As to the peach tree, I wrapped a bandage and a mat over that, around the body of the tree, just under the forking of the branches, yet the worm eat down to the ground. All the remedies applied at the roots of the trees were I have no doubt useful to the soil—they invigorated the tree, but they do not kill worms.
