SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1904.

THE ELECTION of Hon. Isidor Rayner to the United States Senate may be regarded as a victory for Messrs. Hope H. Barroll, Elihu E. Jackson and Joshua W. Miles on the Eastern Shore. Mr. Barroll was given an ovation in the corridor of Carvel Hall at Annapolis after the caucus nomination of Mr. Rayner. Mr. Rayner and his friends attribute his victory in a large measure to our new Kent county leader. His services were regarded of such great value that he was requested to take charge of Mr. Rayner's campaign and lead his forces through the fight. This, he declined to do, but nevertheless gave valuable aid in the fight.

THE BALTIMORE SUN has undoubtedly put up one of the greatest fights in its history for the election of Hon. Isidor Rayner for the United States Senate. In its zeal for his election, it may have overstepped the bounds of propriety in some of its declarations, but the fact remains that the Sun has been the safe- guard of the people's rights as well as the ardent champion of their cause in the great contest.

NEWSPAPERS FOR SMITH.

"Two of the able First Congress District newspapers,—the Chestertown TRANSCRIPT and the Centreville Observer, are for Rayner. The others are for Smith."

The above clipping was taken from the Easton Ledger some weeks ago, when the Chestertown TRANSCRIPT was endeavoring to show some of the newspapers the error of their ways. We trust that the Ledger and all other papere that "were for Smith" will get in the band wagon now and join in the tune "Hail to the Chief."

MR. RAYNER'S ELECTION.

The election of Hon. Isidor Rayner to the United States Senate terminated one of the greatest political contests in the history of the State of Maryland. The principle involved in the contest, the character of the various candidates, and the methods employed, all serve to make it a contest long to be remembered in the history of the State. The contest was undoubtedly a fight for the preservation of popular sovereignty, for never has a contest been waged in which the people took a more decided interest than they have shown in the contest just closed. Mr. Rayner entered the arena with the people of the State behind him, the candidate of no organization or faction of the party, and the fight that he has made has been purely and simply a contest for the supremacy of the people. Mr. Rayner's election is therefore a popular one, and will serve more than could the election of any of the other aspirants, to cement the forces of the Democratic party so as to make Maryland a Democratic State in the future. Mr. Rayner's defeat may have been accomplished, but those who are high in the councils of the party could not have acted more wisely than they did in permitting his election, because of the danger that threatened the party by his defeat.

It is but another evidence of the fact that the managers of the party are ready to listen to the voice of the people when they are convinced that the people are in earnest. The other candidates, former Governors Smith and Jackson and Ex-Congressman Miles, were all men of high ability and worthy in most respects to occupy the exalted position of a seat in the United States Senate; but the election of either of these candidates, all coming from the Eastern Shore, would have created a condition of affairs that would have been disastrous to the political interests of the Shore, and the candidacy of Mr. Bernard Carter, a man preminently qualified for the position, did not meet with popular favor. All these conditions made the election of any other candidate than Mr. Rayner a menace to the very best interests of the party, and hence the wisdom of Mr. Rayner's election. No one who has ever considered the fitness of the respective candidates from an unprejudiced point of view, can doubt the fitness of Mr. Rayner to represent his State in the United States Senate. He stands today the peer of any man in the brilliancy of his oratory and in the extent of his knowledge of Jurisprudence and International Law, and whenever the occasion arises Isidor Rayner may be counted upon to do himself credit and be an honor to his State in the halls of Legislation. We have believed from the beginning that his election would be for the best interests of the Democratic party and would reflect honor upon his commonwealth, and for this reason it has been a pleasure for us to hold him up before the people as the champion of their cause, not only in Kent county but throughout the entire State. All honor to our new Senator.

THE TRANSCRIPT COMPLIMENTED.

The friends of Hon. Isidor Rayner were outspoken in their praise of the Chestertown TRANSCRIPT and the noble fight it has waged in the interest of the people on the Eastern Shore. The leaders of Mr. Rayner's fight declare that excepting the Baltimore Sun, the TRANSCRIPT did more than any other paper in the State towards Mr. Rayner's election to the Senate. The TRANSCRIPT may be relied upon at all times to fight for the people's interest as well as to uphold the best principles of Democracy.

HENRY WATTERSON'S TRIBUTE.

Henry Watterson's description of Mr. Rayner in the Louisville Courier-Journal after one of his speeches in Congress:

"If I were asked to select a member of the Fifty-second Congress of the most marked intellectual force, without hesitation I should name Hon. Isidor Rayner, of Maryland. He is as brilliant as Judah P. Benjamin, and as an orator has no superior in either house. His speech on the bill against trusts captivated the House and the galleries. It compares favorably with anything that has ever been delivered in Congress since the days of the giants of the Augustan age. It was argument and eloquence combined, and when it was delivered the most noisy body in the world became hushed, the members crowded about him, the spectators in the gallery leaned over so as not to lose a word, and when he closed the Speaker did not attempt to control the applause that came from the House and galleries."

PERSONAL MENTION.

CHURCH NOTES.

The General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church throughout the United States will convene in Washington in May. One of the most important questions for the distinguished body to decide will be the question of Church Union. So far as the Maryland Conference is concerned opinion respecting the proposed union is divided, and this condition will likely give rise to a lively time in the next session of the conference at Alnutt Memorial Church, Baltimore, when the election of lay and ministerial delegates to the General Conference takes place. The friends and opponents of the question will line up against each other for the control of the delegation.

At the annual meeting of the members of the Kennedyville M. P. Church, Mr. John Medders was elected delegate to the annnal conference which meets in the Alnutt Memorial Church, corner of Chester and Lombard street, Baltimore, on Wednesday April 6th at 9 A. M., and Mr. W. Thomas Jones was elected alternate. The delegate was unanimiously instructed to ask for the return of Rev. R. S. Rowe, the present popular pastor, for the ensuing year.

The officers of Salem M. E. Sunday School, Fairlee, were elected last Sunday morning as follows: Mrs. L. J. Legg, supt.; Mr. A. M. Kendall, assistant supt.; Miss C. I. Smyth, sect'y; Mrs. Wm. J. Leaverton, treas.; Mr. Floyd Ward, librarian; Mr. Edgar Rice, assistant librarian, Mrs. F. B. Warren, organist, and Miss Fannie Ward, assistant organist.

At the weekly meeting of the Methodist Protestant clergymen of Baltimore held Monday last, Revs. Thomas O. Crouse, J. L. Straughn and J. W. Kirk were appointed a committee to prepare a letter of sympathy to be sent to Rev. Dr. A. D. Melvin. Dr. Melvin, who is an ex-president of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, has been ill for several months. Dr. Melvin is now residing at Morgnec, this county.

Rev. L. E. Barrett, of Dover, reports that the matter of arranging for quarters for the delegates to the coming M. E. Conference is progressing satisfactorily. All the delegates to the Lay Electoral Conference have not yet been provided for but no difficulty will follow as thier stay will be brief.

"The Song of Moses" will be the subject at Westminster Presbyterian Church at 10.30 A. M., and at Grace Presbyterian Church at 3 P. M., and at Worton Presbyterian Church at 7.15 P. M., tomorrow (Sunday), Feb. 7th.
