Proposals for Carrying the Mail in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Ohio.

Extract from the Act of Congress, of the 3d of March, 1845, section 18.

"And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Postmaster General, in all future lettings of contracts for the transportation of the mail, to let the same, in every case, to the lowest bidder tendering sufficient guarantees for faithful performance, without other reference to the mode of such transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty and security of such transportations; nor shall any new contractor hereafter be required to purchase out, or take at valuation, the stock or vehicle of any previous contractor for the same route.

☞ Bidders will be careful to read the forms and instructions appended to this advertisement. They are requested to state in their proposals, the mode by which they intend to convey the mail. Where the size and weight of the mails, or the speed called for in the schedules, shall require it, the contracts will be made for coach, steamboat, or railroad conveyance, as the case may be, and, consequently, such routes will be let to bids proposing such mode of conveyance. In all other cases, the routes will be assigned to bids proposing the cheapest mode of transportation.

☞ Railroad companies are especially notified that their regular bids are to be understood as including the supply of each office on the line of their respective roads not over a quarter of a mile from a depot. Separate proposals for offices more than a quarter of a mile off will be considered.

Form for a Bid where no change from advertisement is contemplated by the bidder.

"I (or we, as the case may be) [here write the name or names in full] of [here state the residence or residences] hereby propose to carry the mail on route No. from to as often as the Postmaster General's advertisement for proposals on the same, dated September 22, 1851, requires, in the time stated in the schedules contained in such advertisement, and by the following mode of conveyance, to wit: [Here state how it is to be conveyed.] for the annual sum of [here write out the sum in words at full length.]
Dated [Signed.]

Form of a Guaranty.

The undersigned undertake that if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No, be accepted by the Postmaster General the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July next, enter into the required obligation to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.
Dated [Signed by two guarantors.]

Form of Certificate.

The undersigned, (postmaster, judge, or clerk of a court of record, as the case may be,) certifies that he is well acquainted with the above guarantors and their property, and that they are men of property and able to make good their guaranty.
Dated [Signed]

INSTRUCTIONS,

Embracing certain conditions, the substance of which will be incorporated in the contracts, so far as the Department shall deem expedient.

1. Seven minutes are allowed for opening and closing the mails at all intermediate offices where no particular time is specified; but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is necessary to deliver and receive the bags.

2. Post office blanks, mail bags, and the special agents of the Department on the exhibition of their credentials, are to be conveyed without further charge, on mail lines admitting of such conveyance.

3. Mail or route agents are to be conveyed without charge on railroad and steamboat lines, when required by the Department; and, in that case, a separate apartment, for the exclusive use of the Department and agent, and for the assorting and safe-keeping of the mail is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

4. In all cases there is to be a forfeiture of the pay of the trip when the trip is not run; and of not more than three times the pay of the trip when the trip is not run and no sufficient excuse for the failure is furnished, a forfeiture of at least one-fourth part of it when the running or arrival is so far behind time as to lose the connexion with a depending mail; and a forfeiture of a due proportion of it when a grade of service is rendered inferior to that in the contract. These forfeitures may be increased into penalties of higher amount, according to the nature or frequency of the failures and the importance of the mail.

5. Whenever it is satisfactory shown that the contractors, their carrier or agent, has left aside the mail, or any portion of it, for the accommodation of passengers, they shall forfeit not exceeding a quarter's pay.

6. Fines will be imposed unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained in due time, for failing to take from, or deliver at, a post office, the mail, or any part of it; for suffering it to be wet, injured, lost or destroyed; for conveying it in a place or manner that exposes it to depredation, loss, or injury; for refusing after demand to convey a mail by any coach, railroad car, or steamboat, which the contractor regularly runs, or is concerned in running, on the route beyond the specified number of trips in the contract, and for not arriving at the time set; and for setting up or running an express to transmit commercial intelligence in advance of the mail a penalty will be exacted equal to a quarter's pay.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures; for violating the post office laws; for disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department; for assigning the contract without the consent of the Postmaster General, or for setting up or running an express as aforesaid, or for transporting persons conveying mail matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may alter the contract and alter the schedule, he allowing a pro rata increase of compensation, within the restrictions imposed by law, for the additional service required, or for the increased speed if the employment of additional stock or carriers is rendered necessary; but the contractor may, in the case of increased expedition, relinquish the contract, on timely notice, if he prefers it to the change. The Postmaster General may annul the contract, or discontinue or curtail the service and pay, when he wishes to dispense with the service in whole or part, or to place a higher or different grade of service on the route, or whenever the public interests require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause, he allowing one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with.

9. The payments will be made through drafts on post offices or otherwise after the expiration of each quarter—say in February, May, August and November.

10. The distances are given according to the best information; but no increased pay will be allowed, should they prove to be greater than is advertised.

11. The Postmaster General is prohibited by law from knowingly making a contract for the transportation of the mail with any person who shall have entered into any combination, or proposed to enter into any combination, to prevent the making of any bid for a mail contract by any other person or persons, or who shall have made any agreement, or shall have given or performed, or promised to give or perform, any consideration to do, or not to do, any thing whatever to induce any other person not to bid for a mail contract. Particular attention is called to the 28th section of the act of 1836, prohibiting combinations to prevent bidding.

12. A bid received after time, to wit, the 5th February, 1852, next, at 10 a m, without the guaranty required by law, or that combines several routes in one sum of compensation, cannot be considered in competition with a regular proposal not adjudged to be extravagant.

13. A bidder may offer, where the transportation called for in the advertisement is difficult or impracticable at certain seasons, to substitute an inferior mode of conveyance, or to intermit service a specified number of days, weeks, or months. He may propose to omit an office that is inaccessible, or is not on the stage road, the railway, or at a steamboat landing, as the case may be; or he may offer to substitute an inferior mode of supply in such cases. He may propose different days and hours of departure and arrival, provided no more running time is asked, and it is obvious that no mail connexion or other public accommodation is prejudiced. He may ask for more running time to the trip, during a specified number of days, at certain seasons of peculiarly bad roads, but beyond these changes, a proposal for service different from the advertisement will prevent its being considered in competition with a regular bid not set aside for extravagance, and where a bid contains any of the above alterations, their disadvantages will be estimated in comparing it with other proposals.

14. There should be but one route bid for in a proposal.

15. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the bidder's name and residence, and the name of each member of the firm, where a company offers, should be distinctly stated; also the mode of conveyance, if a higher mode than on horseback is intended.

16. The bid should be sent under seal, addressed to the First Assistant Postmaster General, with "Mail Proposals in the State of ———" written on the face of the letter; and should be dispatched in time to be received by or before the 5th of February next, at 10 o'clock A. M. It should be guarantied, and the sufficiency of the guarantors should be duely certified. (se forms)

17. The contracts are to be executed by or before the 1st of July next.

18. Postmasters at offices situated upon or near railroads, but more than eighty rods from a depot, will immediately after the 5th February next, report that fact to the Department, stating the exact distance from the railroad depot, and how otherwise supplied the mail, to enable the Postmaster General to direct the proper supply to be made from the railroad by mail messengers from and after the 1st July next.

19. Under the act of March 3, 1845, the route is to be let to the lowest bidder offering sufficient guaranties for faithful performance, without other reference to mode of transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty, and security of such transportation.

When the lowest bid proposes a specific mode of conveyance that is insufficient for the route in respect to the celerity, security, and celerity of the mail, or from any accommodation for the public will not be entitled to the route.

20. When the bid does name a mode of conveyance, it will be taken and understood to be for the lowest mode of conveyance, to wit, on horseback. When it proposes to carry according to the advertisement, and no mode of conveyance is stated for the route in the advertisement, it will be considered as offering to carry on horseback conveyance.

21. Since the passage of the act of March 3 1845, a new description of bid has been received. It specifies no mode of conveyance, but engages to convey the mail with certainty, celerity, and security using the terms of the law. These are called, from the manner in which they are designated on the books of the Department, "star bids." The experience of the Department enables it to lay down the following rules, viz:

When the mail on the route is so large as to require two-horse coach conveyance, a star bid, if the lowest, may be preferred to the specific bid.

When the mails are of such size and weight as to render it necessary, in order to them alone, to provide two-horse coach conveyance, the specific bid, if the highest, for coach conveyance, the star bid, through the high street, for service, if adjudged to be entirely sufficient for the route, will be preferred. The star bid, in case the difference is such as to interfere with the policy of 1845 which is to keep down the cost of transportation. Exceptions, however, may be allowed, where the star bid is made by the owner of the stock used on the route in the performance of such service.

On routes of the highest class, where four-horse coach or stage transportation is required by the size, importance of the mails, and the star bid is adjudged entirely sufficient for the route, the preference for the specific bid will be, if necessary, carried to a great extent of difference than on the lower coach routes.

22. A modification of a bid, in all its essential terms, is tantamount to a new bid, and cannot be received, so as to interfere with regular competition, after the last hour set for receiving bids.

23. Postmasters are required to be careful and not to certify the sufficiency of guarantors or sureties without knowing that they are persons of sufficient responsibility; and all bidders, guarantors, or sureties are distinctly notified that on a failure to enter into or perform the contract for the service proposed for in the accepted bids their legal liabilities will be enforced against them.

24. The contracts will be substantially in the forms heretofore used in this department, except in the respects particularly mentioned in these instructions; and on all railroad and steamboat routes the contractors will be required to deliver the mails into the post offices at the ends of the routes into all intermediate post offices not more than eighty rods from the railroad or landing.

25. Present contractors and persons known at the Department must, equally with others, procure guarantors and certificates of their sufficiency substantially in the forms above prescribed. The certificates of sufficiency must be signed by a postmaster, or a judge or clerk of a court of record.

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE

THE undersigned, Collector for Kent County, State and other Taxes, for Kent County, has appointed the following persons, Deputy Collectors for the respective districts in the said County to wit:

For the Lower or first election District James H. Edes Esq.—For the Middle second election district Thomas Lusby Esq.—For the Upper or third election district John T. Hurtt Esq. The Assessments and Levies have been made, and the Collectors are now authorized to proceed and close their respective districts. The liabilities of the County are large and some of them pressing. The State Tax is considerable and payments are required semi-monthly, under penalties. The Collectors are therefore authorized and have full power to close their collections as soon as possible. I cannot interfere in any case between the Collectors and persons indebted, and none will therefore apply to me, my arrangements with my Collectors will preclude me from any interference to delay a single day in any case.

Unless accounts are paid off before the first day of January next interest will be charged from the first day of September '51. A deduction on account of State Tax will be made if payments are promptly tendered. The earlier the payment, the larger the deduction.

The public are earnestly requested to make prompt payments.

WILLIAM MOFFETT,
Collector.
