STABLER'S

Is a pleasant Mixture, composed in agreement with the rules of Pharmacy, of the peculiar agents, long known and celebrated for their peculiar efficacy in curing DIARRHŒA, and similar affections of the system. In its action, it ALLAYS NAUSEA and produces a healthy action of the LIVER, thus removing the cause at the same time that it cures the disease.

Opinion of Dr. JOHN ADDISON, Physician to the Baltimore Southern Dispensary.

Having a trial of your "Diarrhœa Cordial," and being also acquainted with the ingredients of which it is composed, it gives me much pleasure in adding my testimony to that of others in favor of its EXTRAORDINARY EFFICACY in the cure of "Diarrhœa and Summer Complaints in children and adults."

With respect, &c.,
JOHN ADDISON, M. D

☞Price 50 cts. per Bottle.

STABLER'S ANODYNE CHERRY
EXPECTORANT

Is confidently recommended to invalids, as UNSURPASSED by any known preparation for the cure of COUGHS, HOARSENESS, and other forms of common colds; BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CROUP, CONSUMPTION in an early stage, and for the RELIEF of the Patient even in advanced stages of that Fatal Disease.

It combines, in a scientific manner, remedies of long esteemed value, with others of more recent discovery, and besides its soothing and tonic qualities, acts through the skin gently, and with great efficacy; for the cure of this class of diseases.

A number of the most respectable Physicians, to whom we have communicated a knowledge of the constituents of these medicines, have been pleased to favor us with their opinions, (some of them in writing,) that they are the best remedies they have ever been acquainted with for the cure of the diseases for which they are recommended.

OPINION OF Dr. SAMUEL B. MARTIN,
One of the most experienced of the faculty in this city, and long celebrated for successful practice:

GENTLEMEN—I have carefully examined the component parts of your Diarrhœa Cordial, as well as your Anodyne Cherry Expectorant, and find them BOTH valuable compounds, the doses are safe and consistent with medical practice, and I do not hesitate to recommend them.

Your friend, &c., S. B. MARTIN, M. D.

Baltimore, June, 1852.

Certificate from Doct. JOHN ADDISON, Physician to the Baltimore Southern Dispensary.

HAVING been made acquainted with the ingredients which enter into the composition of your "Anodyne Cherry Expectorant," and having also made trial of its virtues, I have no hesitation in recommending it to the confidence and patronage of the public, as a most VALUABLE medicine in the treatment of the various diseases for which it is intended. JOHN ADDISON, M. D.

We beg leave, as convincing evidence of the highly valuable properties of the above named medicines, to refer to the annexed complimentary notice from sixteen of the most respectable Apothecaries and Pharmaceutists in the city of Baltimore, whom we have appointed our agents, and who have the several articles for sale.

The subscribers, Apothecaries and Pharmaceutists in the city of Baltimore, are satisfied that the preparations known of "Stabler's Anodyne Cherry Expectorant" and "Stabler's Diarrhœa Cordial," are medicines of great value, and very efficient for the relief and cure of the diseases for which they are recommended: they bear the evidence of skill and care in their preparation and style of putting up, and we take pleasure in recommending them to our customers.

STABLER'S
DR. CHAPMAN'S WORM MIXTURE.

Prepared from a Receipt invented by DR. JOHN CHAPMAN, a member of the Royal College of Surgeons of London

A Remedy more efficient than this is not known.

Many (perhaps one-half) of the diseases from which children suffer are occasion by the presence of Worms in the system; and if neglected, give rise to the most uncomfortable and irritating feelings, violent pains, sickness at the stomach, emaciation and frequently to vomiting.

This medicine is an efficient, safe and pleasant remedy for their extermination; it contains all the virtues of the most approved vermifuge, and although it has been used by many thousands, and has been before the public for several years, it has never been known to fail in effecting a complete cure.

Extract from a letter received from S. S. FORTE, M. D., member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London

To E. H. STABLER & Co. October 20th, 1851.

Gentlemen,—I some time last year, by accident, got hold of a few bottles of your Stabler's Dr. Chapman's Worm Mixture and used it in my practice with much unequalled success as I proved me to send for 50 dozen. * * * Last month I ordered, through the same gentleman, 100 dozen. * * * You can ship me 50 dozen every three months from date of receipt of this, and draw for the amount, &c., &c.

Numerous certificates of cures of the most aggravated cases of disease could be readily appended hereto, but we feel assured that they would add but little to the strong and respectable evidence here given by persons competent to judge of the merits of these remedial agents.

'COME, LET US REASON TOGETHER'
ORAL TESTIMONY.

THOUSANDS feel it a duty to talk to their afflicted friends of the benefit derived from HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE.—From day to day we have given the certificates of cures performed on our best known citizens, and still we have a perfect avalanche of letters pouring upon us, all, all giving a weight of testimony that must convince the most skeptical. All are invited to call and read for themselves. The letter below is from one of the first mercantile firms. To those who know them, it must carry conviction, and induce many sufferers to give this Tincture a trial:

PORT ROYAL, VA. July 27, 1852.

Messrs. Mortimer and Mowbray: Gents: We have again to send an old settler, more of our truly wonderful Hampton's Vegetable Tincture. Since it was first tried it has sold without an effort, and we have not seen the first person who has not been greatly benefitted by its use. A gentleman of our neighborhood was induced to try the "Tincture" for a violent palpitation of the heart. He had suffered so much it told him that he said he had prayed for death. He had taken but three doses when he assured us he would not take five hundred dollars for the benefit he had received, and that he should never cease to remember us with gratitude for calling his attention to so valuable a medicine.

Yours, truly, GRAY & PENDLETON.

The Whole World, Attention!—Hear him, ye sick, and do likewise!!

BALTIMORE, Feb. 9, '52.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray: Gentlemen: It is with real pleasure that I am able to attest to the general healing and curative powers of Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture. Sometime during last November I was taken with a very bad and serious cough. I was advised to take Cod-Liver Oil, and did so; but getting no better, I was induced to try your Tincture. I got one bottle, and before I had used it all my cough left me. Permit me also to state that, for the last fifteen years, I have suffered very much from Acute Rheumatism and Vertigo confining me at times to my bed—I am fully convinced that I owe my present good health to the use of the Tincture, and a kind Providence.

You are, my friends, at liberty to use this as you may think proper; and believe me, yours very respectfully.

G. DUNN.

N. B.—I can be seen at any time at the Mayor's office. G. D.

THE ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURES made by Hampton's Vegetable Tincture on our most respectable citizens—men well known and tried—we challenge the world to show anything on record in medicine to equal it. Many hundreds who have felt its healing powers bear the same testimony.

BALTIMORE, July 6, 1852.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray: Gents: Last September I was attacked with erysipelas, from which a dreadful ulcer formed on my right leg. Getting better of this, last November I took a deep cold, which led to what my physician told me was bilious pleurisy, which left me with a constant, deeply seated, and painful cough, having no rest day or night, and constantly throwing up from my lungs a thick matter; I became much emaciated, growing weaker every day, and keeping my bed the greater part of the time.—My friends thought I had the consumption, and at times I was also of the same opinion. At this stage of my disease, after having tried many and various remedies, without success, a friend advised me to try Dr. HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE, and procured me a bottle, which I now pronounce the greatest medicine I ever took. Before I had taken half the contents of one bottle I felt much improved; and now, having taken but two bottles, my cough and pains have entirely left me, and I am enabled to attend to business. I can truly say that, with the blessing of God, I have been restored to the health I now enjoy by the use of this most invaluable medicine.

Truth stranger than Fiction!—None need despair!—A Lady's Testimony after thirty-eight years of suffering

Were there not real virtue in this wonderful medicine, could it perform the astonishing cures made by it?

NORTHAMPTON Co., April 13, 1852.

Messrs Tyler & Adair: I have been afflicted with Rhumatism, at times, from my twelfth year; I will be fifty years of age the 18th of this month; the attacks were at times so severe as to render me helpless; I have tried various remedies to very little effect. Last October I was attacked in my shoulders, sides, back, and hips; I could not rest, day or night; I could not move any part of my body without crying with pain; at this time I also tried many remedies, internal and external, without receiving any relief; I was at last advised to HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE; before I had taken one bottle of which I felt much better, and as I continued taking it I felt strength coming into my back and limbs, and my stomach strengthened and revive every way; I have taken five bottles, and am much better than I ever expected to be. I intend to use it whenever I need it, and would recommend it to the afflicted, believing it unequaled. Yours,

ELIZABETH BAGWELL.

POETRY.

From the National Intelligencer.

The Last Journey of Henry Clay.

He passed on his way,
The Man to Senates dear,
The silvered voice, whom gathered throngs
Still held their breath to hear;
He hath no warrior's crown,
No laurel on his brest,
But Peace her drooping Olive binds,
Amid his stainless crest.

He shrank not at his post
Till the Spoiler grasped his hand,
And sternly chained the silver tongue
Whose music charmed the land:
'Mid Summer's glorious pride,
With the tramp of iron steed,
He sweepest on, o'er the realms he loved—
But his closed eye take no heed.

Our cities veiled their heads
As through their gates he passed,
And the mournful voice of tolling bells
Wailed out upon the blast:
And forth our noblest came
To guard the sacred trust.
And weeping woman cast her wreath
Upon his honored dust.

He passeth on his way
In more than kingly state,
And silent children press to gaze
Upon the fallen great;
While from the ramparts proud,
Where his country's banners fly,
The booming cannon speak his praise—
But he deigneth no reply.

There's sorrow on the wave
As the coffined dead they bring—
The pausing ships their pennons furl
Like an eagle's broken wing;
And as the rippling streams
That precious burden bore,
The murmuring rivers tell their grief
To every shrouded shore.

He passeth on his way,
To his own cultured lawn—
The shadow of his planted trees
That bloom when he is gone—
And agonizing Love
Beholds with stifled moan,
A Nation's tears upon the bier,
That mingles with her own.

Bow down in reverent woe
Beside his sable pall,
The Friend of Man, who fearless sought
The brotherhood of all!
Strong in a Saviour's strength
When life's frail web was riven,
The Truth and Peace he loved on earth,
Made him at home in Heaven.

Hartford, (Conn.) July, 1852.

From the New Orleans Campaign Republic.

"A FEW MORE" NEW WORDS,
To that some old tune of Yankee Doodle.

Three cheers brave hearts for noble Scott,
Who won immortal fame,
And fought the foeman how to yield
At dear fought "Lundy's Lane.

'Twas there that victory crowned his arms,
And there the boys so handy,
Made all who thought to whip them run,
To Yankee Doodle dandy.
So Yankee doodle, doodle, DO
Elect our fighting "dandy,"
And Yankee doodle, doodle, "DON'T"
Elect that "stick of candy."

For years we've known the warrior bold,
The statesman firm and true;
Then fight for him in this campaign,
As he has fought for you.

We point to conquered Mexico,
Where war raged wild and fierce,
Our Scott was there amid the fight,
And so was General Pierce.
So Yankee Doodle, &c.

And prodigies of valor, he
Would have performed of course;
That is, if he had had the luck
To keep upon his horse.

He'd better now retreat in time
To the 'place' he calls his 'natal,'
Or he will surely get another fall—
And the third we know is fatal.
So Yankee Doodle, &c.

For though the "Greasers" missed his head,
He better far remember—
No hat will e'er protect his "poll"
On the second of November.

Three cheers, then, boys, for General Scott,
And faithful Graham too.
We know full well what they have done,
And trust in what they'll do.
So Yankee Doodle, &c.

Yazoo City, (Miss.) July 10, 1852.

POLITICAL.

FORGOTTEN FACTS.

In the house of Representatives, on the 27th December, 1833, FRANKLIN PIERCE voted against a resolution for the benefit of the old fighters in the Indian wars.

On the 11th of the following February, Mr. PIERCE voted against a bill extending the operation of an act giving pecuniary relief to "surviving officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians, soldiers, and Indian spies of the old Continental line or State troops, volunteers or militia," who had served two years during the war of the revolution, and had not been provided for by the act of 1828.

In 1836 Mr. PIERCE repeated his vote against an act "for the relief of certain officers and soldiers of the revolution."

In the Senate, in 1841, Mr PIERCE opposed a giving five years' half-pay to widows or orphans of officers, non-commissioned officers, soldiers, &c., who had died in the service of the United States after the 20th of April, 1840.

These votes of Mr. PIERCE illustrate the magnanimity of his political career. They show his friendship for the few remaining patriots who had purchased our liberties with their blood, and the strength of his regard for women and children whose protectors had sacrificed their lives in the service of their country. Mr. PIERCE'S principles of governmental economy recognised no claim on their part to consideration at the hands of Congress. The idea of relieving soldiers disabled in war, and of succoring soldiers' widows and orphans, had no place in the creed of the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

ANOTHER SLANDER REFUTED.—The Norfolk Courier publishes the following letter, addressed to a gentleman in that city, giving a denial to a remark said to have been made by General Scott in a conversation with Gen. Wade, of Ohio, and which has been recently blazoned at the head of nearly every democratic paper South, for political effect. Thus every charge against the old hero is falling to the ground, and his enemies and defamers will soon be compelled to abandon, altogether, these despicable attempts to make political capital. Here is the letter:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18, '52

SIR: I had the honor to receive your note of the 16th inst., stating that at the head of a Democratic paper, published at Elizabeth city, N. C., called the "Democratic Pioneer," is the following: "I WOULD SOONER CUT OFF MY RIGHT HAND THAN LEND IT TO THE SUPPORT OF SLAVERY."—Gen. Scott to Senator Wade."

All I can say of the above is, (what I have frequently said of it since it has been floating about in the papers,) that General Scott never made such a declaration to me or in my hearing, nor did I ever say, or pretend that he ever did, and I believe it to have been fabricated with a view to prejudice the Southern people against the old General. And permit me to add, that the morbid sensitiveness of the Southern mind, on this subject, rendered it peculiarly liable to such impositions; and Northern demagogues knowing this, will not fail to take advantage of it.

Very respectfully, yours,
B F. WADE.

WM H. GRANBERY, Esq.

The Norfolk News, (a Democrat paper in publishing this letter, says:

We are sincerely glad that this denial has been made public, and would like to see all false issues on either side scattered to the winds. As for ourselves we have never placed any reliance on the truth of the report, and have not suffered the charge to appear in our columns, though we can readily imagine how it has been believed by others.

From the Chicago (Ill.) Journal.

The Prospect in Illinois.

From all parts of the State we have the most cheering intelligence of an expression of public sentiment among the masses of the people, favorable to the election of General SCOTT and our State ticket. This is not from 1 or 2 partial and zealous friends of the cause, whose go-ahead gait and sanguine temperaments we might have occasion to make allowance for—but it comes pouring in from all directions; from the rivulet of a half-line "P. S." to a four-sided closely-written sheet—each with the same expression of confidence that the Whigs can carry the State, if they will go to work and keep at it from now to the election.

The popularity of General Scott in the northwest loses nothing in Illinois through the selection made by the whigs for State officers of men well and favorably known to a large proportion of the voters and in whose hands they are willing to entrust their local interests, having entire confidence that in the event of success those interests will be well guarded and properly protected.

In a short time, and as soon as the busy season of harvest is over, and the candidates of both parties for Congress nominated, the canvass will commence with activity, and we have the assurance that on the part of the Whigs the fire will be kept up till the day of election. In traversing the State, our standard bearers will be everywhere found ready and willing to meet their opponents "on the stump," and discuss the issue that divided the parties, and for them, in such a contest, we have no fears to express.

The work of preparation, then, should be complete and thorough in all the branches of organization, and we cannot too strongly urge the necessity of such action without delay upon our friends.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Courting in the Right Way.

"Get out, you nasty puppy, let me alone or I'll tell ma," cried Sally ——— to her lover Jake ——— who was about ten feet from her pulling dirt from the chimney jam.

"I aren't teching you, Sal," responded Jake.

"Well, perhaps then you don't intend to either, do yer?"

"No, I don't."

"Cause why, you're too tarnal scary, you long legged, pigion toed, gangled kneed fool you; you haven't got a tarnal bit of sense, get along home with you."

"Now Sal I love you, and you can't help it; and if you don't let me stay and court you, my daddy will sue you'en for that cow he he sold him tother day.—By jingo, he said he'd do it."

"Well, look here, Jake, if you want to court me, you had better do it as a white man does that thing—not set off there, as if you thought I was pizen."

"How on sirth is that, Sal?"

"Why, sit right up here, by my side and hug and kiss me as if you had some of the bone and sinner of a man about you. What, do you suppose a woman's only made to look at, you fool? No, they're made for practical results as Kossuth says, to hug kiss and sich like.'

"Well," says Jake drawing a long breath, "if I must, I suppose then I must, for I do love you, Sal;" and so Jake commenced sliding up to her, like a hog going to war. Laying his arm gently on Sal's shoulders, we thought we could hear Sal say:

"That's the way to do it, old hoss; that's acting like a white man, too."

"Oh, Jerewsalem and pancakes!" exclaimed Jake, "if this ain't better than any punkin pie marm ever made—crackey! buckwheat cakes and maple sugar ain't nowhere along side of you Sal, now I love you?" Here their lips came together, and the report that followed was like pulling a horse's foot out of the mire.

BLOOMER COLONY.—A friend up North closes a letter thus:—"As I was passing up this side of the White Mountains, near Conway, I came upon a nest of Bloomers from Boston; some fifteen or twenty young ladies from that city having hired a house there for the season, and were keeping 'bachelor's hall.' They wore the Bloomer dress, to enable them the better to get round here among the sharp and high places, and spend their time chiefly in sporting. I met one with a light fowling piece another with several woodpeckers or birds, a third with a basket of berries, a fourth with a string of trout, &c. You would take them at first to be a party of the b'hoys, but they are all fine young ladies from the city of notions, who prefer the mountains and streams to brick wall and scorching pavements during the hot season."—Lowell Journal.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.—We have now in our possession, says the Schuylkill Haven Home Miscellany, a piece of wood about an inch long and one quarter of an inch wide, which was extracted from the eye, or rather socket of the eye, of Mr. J. Jones, Minersville, by our skillful friend, Dr. P. R. Palm, of this place. The "beam was lodged by a fall on a stump in the upper part of the ball immediately below the brain and was completely imbedded in the tissues of the eye. The strangest part of the case is, that during a surgical treatment of some five or six weeks, neither the surgeon nor the patient new that there was a "beam" there. The ball was perfectly immovable previous to the operation performed by Dr. Palm, and he entertains hopes of being able to restore the eye to sight.
