SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1904.

FOR PRESIDENT:

HON. ARTHUR P. GORMAN,

OF MARYLAND.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN will head the delegation from Nebraska to the National Convention in St. Louis, July 6. This will give Mr. Bryan one more chance to make a speech, and we do not think he will allow the opportunity to pass.

DEATH OF MAYOR McLANE.

The death of Mayor McLane, of Baltimore city came as a severe shock to the entire state, equal in its severity to the assination of President McKinley. It is a severe blow to Baltimore city, especially at this critical period in her struggle for rehabilitation. He had just completed one year of his administration as the city's chief excutive and in that short time had proven himself to be a thoroughly capable, efficient and honest official. Why a man endowed with sach intelligence and with such a brilliant career before him should take his own life, is indeed a mystery. We cannot believe that such a man as he had proven himself to be in his short but brilliant career could be a suicide.

GOV. WARFIELD AND SENATOR GORMAN.

That Governor Warfield entertains a high regard for Senator Gorman is indicated by the following interview with Governor Warfield, published in the New York Tribune:

"Upon the general political situation I may say I hope the conservative element of the party will control the action of the St. Louis convention, and that we get back to the old landmarks of oldtime Democracy. I do not believe it will be possible to stampede the convention for any candidate. I think the men who will represent the most influential element of the convention will be ambitious to pick out the most available man—a conservative, able candidate that will appeal to the business men of the country.

"I am not in any sense antagonistic to Senator Gorman, and the question of whether or not I am a delegate to St. Louis will have no effect upon my attitude toward him. He is in high favor in Maryland, and if he is a candidate before the convention the Maryland delegation will support him earnestly as long as he is a candidate. I do not know whether he wants the nomiation, but if he does I shall be pleased to give him my hearty support. He is a man of force, experience and ability, and few men have the fitness acquired by contact with public affairs that is represented in the senior Senator."

TEST OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

"A prominent financial company of this city," says the New York World, "recently advertised for a boy, 16 years old, good at figures, $10 a week salary to commence. '34 boys presented themselves. All had been graduated from the New York grammar schools, and many of them had spent a year or two in high schools. Nineteen were at once rejected because they could neither write nor spell well. The remaining 25 were asked to find the interest on $120.80 for four months and 15 days at 5 per cent. Two were equal to the task. The correct answer is $2.27; 13 of the answers ranged from that to $181.54.

"Commenting upon this incident, a pamphlet issued by the company remarks that the 'curriculum of all our schools, common and academic, is not at all adapted to the needs of the average boy, who, if he succeeds at all, must do so along practical lines.' This is not an exaggerated, an unusual or an unfairly stated case. The trouble exists. What is the remedy?"

Our experience in the education of children warrants the statement that there is a great deal of significance in the above article Our modern school courses are entirely too theoretical. They have ommitted in recent years much that is practical and best suited to a practical and business education, and devote too much of the curriculum to that which is ornamental and aesthetic. For instance in the public schools of our own county, arithmetic, one of the most important studies in the whole school course, is taught only once a week in the eighth grade and not at all except as a review the last half year in the ninth grade. As a consequence, when the graduates of our schools come up for a position in the business world, or for examination for a teachers' certificate, as is generally the case with the large majority of public school graduates, they are deficient in the most practical phases of their education. The fault is not with our teachers, or the county superintendents, or school boards. It is simply because psychology and pedagogy have injected more theory than practice into our modern school courses. They should be changed in order to meet the demands of the masses.

For sick headache take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and a quick cure is certain. For sale by M. A. Toulson, druggist, Chestertown, Md.

UNITED STATES SENATOR QUAY, of Pennsylvania died at his home in Beaver on Saturday last. Scarcely any man in the United States has had such a notable career as has Senator Quay. By some he was called the "Uncrowned King" of Pennsylvania, which, in view of his supreme power in that State, seems appropriate. He was one of the most astute politicians in the country, and his death, following so soon upon the death of Senator M. A. Hanna, of Ohio, is a severe blow to the Republican party. He will be succeeded in the U. S. Senate by Don J. Cameron.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

☞The columns of the TRANSCRIPT are open to the proper discussion of all topics of public interest or importance. Whether the editors agree with the sentiments expressed or not, the people should and may be heard through the TRANSCRIPT'S columns—the paper will be the People's Forum from which they may be heard on all subjects—purely personal matter excepted. The Editors are not responsible in any manner for articles that appear in this column.

OUR PARK.

With the return of summer, attention is again directed to the pretty park and general appearance it gives the town compared with five years ago. Unlike casts of broze or hewn marble it is a growing monument to the possibilities of organized effort and the undaunted zeal of the Ladies' Improvement Society under skillful leadership.

You should come out of every trial better equipped for victory in the next.

OBSERVER.

One of our local papers recently stated that "a local option case dismissed at the last term of court had been carried through ten terms and cost Kent county over $500." The published report of business transacted by the county commissioners on Tuesday, May 22th, gives the sum of $88.49, witness fees in State vs. Kelly. Presuming the cases referred to to be one and the same, in these days of investigations for the benefit of tax-payers, one of them would like to know how to accouut for the balance of the $500.

INQUIRER.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Examinations began Wednesday and will end Wednesday next.

Commencement day comes on June 15. The College of course will be deserted on the 16th, much to the regret of all the students (?)

Prof. E. J. Clarke took a trip to Balmore on Thursday.

There is much rejoicing among the students, as well as faculty, because of Dr. Micou's reconsideration and his final decision. When the Doctor's resignation was first noted in the TRANSCRIPT by the students it was like a thunder-bolt out of a clear sky. Dr. Micou is most lovable, kind hearted and extremely popular with the students. He is fond of his scholars and they in turn adore him. The editorial in the TRANSCRIPT, bearing on the Dr's. resignation, was good but not strong enough.

Mrs. Jas. W. Cain, wife of President Cain, returned to her residence after an extended trip to Conneticut.

Prof. A. B. Burris is preparing to have many athletic sports during commencement week.

Washington College baseball fans were quite cast down last Monday after their team lost the game with the Clifton Athletic Asso. of Baltimore. It was a hard game to loose, because our boys played better ball, except in one fatal inning, when Clifton landed on White's curves, and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away the enemy had eight good prisoners which won the battle. Clifton brought along with them quite a number of Baltimore's fairer sex who enlivened the game immensely.

The second team journeyed to Kennedyville last Saturday (much to its regret) and won from a team of men by a score of 12 to 9.

The Mt. Vernon Society has resolved to get out a commencement number of the Review, with the aid of the other students. This paper which was gotten out last fall by the members of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, under very hard circumstances, although not up to the average college journal in literary work has prospects for a great future, both in the literary and financial line. The Review is printed by the CHESTERTOWN TRANSCRIPT, and of course there has not been a single flaw in the printing line.

Mr. Curtis Long, of Salisbury, was elected President (temporary) of the Mt. Vernon Society, whose next meeting will be held next September. Mr, Long now occupies the Vice-President's chair. He is a student of sterling qualities, a leader in his class and extremely popular with his fellow students.

The gentlemen students are going to give a commencement ball on the evening of June 15th, in Stam's Hall.

Quite a serious accident was averted last Wednesday on the campus. One of the students put a lighted cigarette in to his pocket while he glanced over the newspaper which the janitor had just brought up. In about a minute Mr. Sheridan, who was playing a game of tennis, yelled to him that his coat was on fire. It took the frightened student just about one second to shed his coat and he then proceeded to smother the blaze.

The question that is heard all around the college now is "What did you do?" or maybe "Did you flunk?"
