HAPPY WOMEN.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble, but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

Cow Peas as a Summer Crop.

The cow pea is a crop that is planted from the middle of May until nearly August, as the vines may be plowed under at any time should frost threaten the crop. They are planted in rows and cultivated, or may be broadcasted, as they grow rapidly and soon cover the ground. They are bushy in growth and stand up firmly. If cut for ensilage, just when the pods are forming, they make a cheap and valuable addition to the contents of the silo. The vines will grow to the height of from two to four feet, according to the quality of the soil, but they also grow on very poor land. On some farms, after the corn is laid by, cow peas are then planted between the rows as a catch crop and they do not seem to affect the corn crop in any manner, two crops (corn and pea hay) being secured the same season. There is a good market for cow peas but they are more valuable for feed for stock, than the price that can be obtained, about one dollar per bushel.

Like clover, the cow pea has the ability to use the free nitrogen of the air and assist in adding nitrogen to the soil. The pods may be picked off the vines by hand when very dry and in the field or the vines may be pulled up, stacked and flailed on the barn floor later on. For plowing under, make the soil fine, sow from one to two bushels per acre, roll the land so as to cover the seed well and harvest the crop for hay just as the pods are beginning to change to a yellowish tinge, as the vines are then more nutritious than when mowed earlier. They may, if preferred, be plowed under at that stage of growth, being an excellent fertilizer, supplying both humus and nitrogen to the soil which will be fully available for the crop of the following season.

Appreciates Our Bay.

Col. Robert Mitchell Floyd, formerly of Boston and now of New York, is making his usual summer visit to Montreal. The Colonel during his stay in that city is a regular attendant each day at the Board of Trade, being one of the few Americans who are members of that body. Each year Colonel Floyd spends a great portion of his time traveling, and he probably has seen more of Canada than half the people who reside here permanently.

To-day Colonel Floyd was discussing the merits of that section of the United States which is contiguous to Chesapeake Bay, and from which he has just returned. For some years back this section has been on the back track, but now all has changed. Farms which a few years ago were apparently worth little or nothing have been rejuvenated as it were, and are now paying properties. Fine old farms, the buildings on which had practically gone to ruin, have been rebuilt; hundreds of miles of fences have been either built or rebuilt, and the ground is being worked in such a manner that handsome returns are being secured.

The numerous waterways leading into Chesapeake Bay Colonel Floyd pronounces to be second to none from the point of beauty, and, taken altogether, the country is desirable from a residential standpoint.—Montreal Star.

Thinks People Should Have Chance.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

I have to add my approval of the course the Sun has taken in the matter of electing Senators by popular vote. But the Sun and "Yours Truly" approach the same end by different means. Heretofore the lobby, etc.—a big etc."—have gobbled all the waste lucre and divided it among the hardy party workers, according to the Irishman's division when he found the potato. Says he, "Half for you, half for me; but half of your half comes to me for finding it and half of what's left is mine by rights, because if I wasn't with you we wouldn't find it." Now, by popular vote we can deal direct with the prospective Senators, and the more of them the more we can deal; but we think a Senator should be elected every year, so that if the oyster planters take up all the natural bars we will not be worried about enough funds to help along the unnatural bars which furnish that extract of rye and hops that degrades and ruins the brainless. Keep up the fight and leave it to the people, and men will not be willing to pay so much to get elected to the General Assembly the years there is a United States Senator to elect. Give the people a chance for the money.

Mr. Bosley and Family Will Summer at Bolingly.

Mr. Wm. H. Bosley, former president of the Queen Anne's Railroad, and his family moved to the Bolingly at Queenstown several weeks ago and will spend the summer there. Mr. William Bosley is justly considered the benefactor of the section of the country through which the former Queen Anne's Railroad and its branches, naw the M. D. & V. pass, as it was his foresight, energy, perseverence and financial ability that the road was built and rapid and cheap transit furnished to Baltimore and to the ocean. His many friends wish himself and family a pleasant summer in Queen Anne county.

THE PLANS FOR THE BRYAN RECEPTION.

Parade Up Broadway to Central Park to Be One of the Notable Features.

Plans for the reception to be tendered to William Jennings Bryan in this city upon his return, the last week in August, from a tour around the world, were mapped out to-day by the plan and scope committee appointed by the Commercial Travelers' Antitrust League. Lewis Nixon presided.

On his arrival at the Battery he will be met by the reception committee, and will be escorted up Broadway to Central Park, across to Fifth avenue, and then to the Victoria Hotel, where he will rest until the evening reception at madison Square Garden. Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, will preside in the evening.

Governor Folk, of Missouri, is chairman of the reception committee, on which Democratic United States senators and congresmen, Democratic governors and mayors and chairmen of Democratic and national committees will be invited to serve as honorary members.

Former Governor William L. Douglas, of Massachusetts, on motion of Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, was selected to head a committe to secure the co-operation of the business interests of the country in the reception.

Alexander Troup, of Connecticut, has announced that he would bring a state delegation from his state, and many other state delegations are expected.

What's in McClure's?

A really notable series of articles begin in the August McClure's under the title "The Story of Montana." The history of that remarkable commonwealth, with its picturesque early mining days, when the roadagents held sway and robbed and murdered wholesale the miners and settlers, and the conflict of more recent days between the two great copper kings, William A. Clark and Marcus Daly, which was fought in business and politics, chiefly within its borders, furnish the author, P. Connolly, himself quite an early Montana settler, with the material for a stirring and absorbing article. This historical series represents a new departure in magazine editing, and adds one more to the important lines of thought in which McClure's has been the pioneer.

Carl Schurtz's reminiscences continue with a chapter on impressions of Rachel, the great French actress; Burton J. Hendrick gives a fifth instalment of "The Story of Life Insurance" which discloses the iniquities of the Tontine policies that Henry B. Hyde developed. Rudyard Kipling tells in his "Robin Goodfellow" series an interesting tale of the iron-founders in the Weald of Kent, Hal o' the Draft, Sebastian Cabot and the great pirate Sir Andrew Barton. "Cancer—Can it be Cured?" by C. W. Saleeby, M. D., F. R. S., is an important contribution to curative science, detailing the experiments made by a Dr. John Beard in the treatment of cancer by trypsin, an extract of the pancreas. The stories are especially good; a powerful one by Jack London, based on the actual facts of the hanging of a man by a woman in Alaska, called "The Unexpected." an amusing yet thought-compelling one about New York shop-girls, by O. Henry, entitled "The Trimmed Lamp;" an East Side school episode "A Soul Above Buttons," by Myra Kelley; a comedy of a Rocky Mountain mining town, "The Lady Peddler and the Diplomats," by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow; a psychological comedy, "Mrs. Archer'a Feelings," by Abby Meguire Roach; "Archie's Baby," by Viola Roseboro', and "Casabianca," by Montague Glass. Andre Castaigne illustrates the Kipling stories, Frederic Dorr Steele draws Miss Kelly's amusing East Side infants, N. G. Wyeth has a frontispiece in color sympolizing the "Reign of the Road-Agents" in "The Story of Montana," and Blumenschein furnishes four remarkable pictures reproduced in color for Jack London's impressive tale.

A Bit of Allegory.

(From Punch.)

She came toward me rather dubiously, as though not sure of her reception.

"Who are you?" I asked.

"Truth," she said.

I apologized for not having realized it.

"Never mind," she said, wearily, hardly anyone knows me. I'm always having to explain who I am lots of people don't understand then."

"A little later I met her, as I thought, again.

"Well, I shan't make any mistake this time," I said. "How are you, Miss Truth?"

"You are misinformed," she replied, coldly; "my name is Libel."

"But you're exactly like Truth," I exclaimed—"exactly!"

"Hush!" she said.
