SERIOUS GUNNING ACCIDENT.

Mr. Owen C. Smith Shot in the Face While Out Gunning With a Friend.

Mr. Owen C. Smith, a prominent druggist of Baltimore, and a brother of Mr. Charles S. Smith, of Chestertown, and Dr. Frank Smith, of Fairlee, was the victim of a serious gunning accident last Tuesday morning at Fairlee.

Mr. Smith and his family had come to Fairlee to visit his brother and to enjoy several day's sport. On Tuesday morning Mr. Smith and his friend, Mr. Barclay Kilbourne, started out for a day's hunt. They had reached the thicket just back of the creamery, Mr. Smith going to one side and Mr. Kilbourne remaining on the other. A woodcock jumped up in front of Mr. Kilbourne and he fired, little thinking that his companion was directly in line of the shot only about 25 yards distant. As soon as the gun was discharged, Mr. Kilbourne heard Mr. Smith groan, and rushing to him found that he had accidently shot Mr. Smith. Mr. Kilbourne got Mr. Smith to the home of his brother, Dr. Smith, who, with Dr. H. G. Simpers, of Chestertown, examined the wounds, and found that the sight of his left eye is entirely destroyed, but that the other eye is uninjured. A great many shot struck Mr. Smith in the face, arms and neck, none of which are regarded as serious by the physicians. The physicians believe that the load struck Mr. Smith a side glance from the direction many of the shot took in the face. Several shot lodged in the tonsils, but they are not considered serious. Mr. Smith was taken to Baltimore by his brother, Dr. Smith, on Wednesday morning to an eye specialist, and it is thought that the injured eye will have to be removed. Mr. Kilbourne is beside himself with grief on account of the accident. He has the sympathy of his many friends in the county, as has also Mr. Smith and his family. It is sincerely hoped that Mr. Smith will recover. He is one of the most prominent druggists in Baltimore, having been a recent president of the State Pharmaceutical Association and is at present secretary of the Calvert Drug Company, of Baltimore. The latest reports from Mr. Smith are that he is doing well, and that the sight of his right eye is not affected. The wounds in the face and neck are doing nicely.

Accidents.

Mr. George Bacon had three toes on one foot badly mashed on Saturday at the basket factory by a piece of heavy iron falling on them.

Mr. Harry W. Fallowfield, the efficient assistant in Mr. John S. Vandegrift's barber shop, accidentally cut a big gash in his left hand on Tuesday morning, while stropping a razor.

Mr. Owen C. Smith's little girl fell out of a hammock at her home in Baltimore last Saturday week and fractured one of her limbs.

Mr. William Taylo , a machinist of Wilmington, Del., brother of Mrs. Wm. Vansant, of Chestertown, and of Mr. James Taylor, of Riverside, lost one of his hands while at work in a machine factory. The hand was so badly mashed by the machine that the arm had to be removed between the elbow and wrist.

Attention, Grangers.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Klinefelter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Walker, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Anthony, and Mrs. Emma Miller attended the National Grange in Washington, D. C., last week and Messrs. Klinefelter and Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Miller took the seventh degree in the Grange.

The next regular meeting of the Chestertown Grange will be held in their room in Fraternal Hall, on Tuesday next, November 24th. The topics for discussion will be—"Hog raising for profit," Mr. Samuel Brown, leader, and—"Hog cholera—it's preventive and cure," Mr. Thomas Dewberry leader. It is especially desired to have a full attendance of all the members, and those who have not been attending regularly are especially invited to be present. Arrangements will be made for the next meeting of the Pomona Grange at Fairlee.

Fodder Rick Burned.—A fodder rick on Mr. T. E. W. Crew's farm near Lankford was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. Mr. Crew arose about four o'clock and discovered the rick in full blaze. With the assistance of his wife and colored boy, Mr. Crew succeeded in putting the fire out and in preventing other ricks only a short distance away from taking fire. Loss about $150. Insured.

KILLED BY THE TRAIN.

Mr. William G. Parsons, Rural Mail Carrier, Meets With a Horrible Death at Worton Station.

Mr. William G. Parsons rural mail carrier from Worton station was run over and killed by the South-bound passenger train on Saturday morning last at Worton Station. Mr. Parsons, with a number of others, was standing on the platform awaiting the arrival of the train. His horse became frightened at the on-coming train, and in an effort to reach the horse, he jumped from the platform on to the track and slipped and fell directly in front of the moving train, which ran over him terribly mangling his body. Both legs and arms were almost severed from the body, and his head was terribly bruised. Those who saw the accident were horrified, but could do nothing. The almost lifeless body was hurried to Chestertown on the same train by which he was run over, and Drs. W. Frank Hines and Frank B. Hines were summoned. They found that it was utterly impossible to save the unfortunate young man's life, and though the physicians did everything in their power, Mr. Parsons died about one hour after the train's arrival here. The remains were viewed by Coroner J. H. Greenwood, who after examining several witnesses, deemed an inquest unnecessary. The remains were taken to his home in Worton station on the afternoon train, where a grief stricken wife and father and mother awaited them. The deceased was about 30 years old. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison I. Parsons, who are among Worton's most prominent and most highly respected citizens, and had been on the rural mail service about four years. Two years ago he married Miss Jennie Bacon, of Camden, N. J., and only a short while ago they had begun house keeping at Worton station and had just gotten comfortably fixed for a happy wedded life. Mr. Parsons was a young man of exemplary character, and his horrible death is a terrible blow to his wife and aged parents. Funeral services were held from his late residence in Worton on Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. G. A. Morris, pastor of St. James and Lynch M. P. Churches. Interment was made in Chester cemetery. The pall bearers were his brothers, Harry and Lewis Parsons, and Messrs. Edgar P. Beck, J. Elwood Morris, Fletcher Clark and Hugh Wallis. Undertaker Wm. H. Krusen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

A Dangerous Practice.

In connection with the horrible death of Mr. William G. Parsons at Worton station last Saturday, we are reminded by the station master, Mr. William M. Culp, that a similar accident is likely to occur at the Chestertown station, especially during the summer evenings among children. Little boys and girls too, we are told, are in the habit of going to the station "to see the train come in," and while waiting and even when the train is nearly at the station they rip and race up and down the platform, and put pins on the track to see them mashed, etc. Mr. Culp has warned the boys and girls about the danger of the practice, but some of them still persist in the practice. It should be stopped, because no one ever knows what may happen.
