THE DEPARTURE.
From the Baltimore Miner & Saturday Post.
Farewell! Farewell, my father's cot,
Farewell, ye fields of green,
Wherever chance may cast my lot,
I'll think of you I ween.
Thou home of all the wanderings
Of boyhood's pleasant hour,
Thou art the place where memory brings
The trophies of her power.
Old Ballad.

Away, away o'er the bonny blue mountain,
Away and away o'er prairie and flood,
No rest for my foot till it dip in the fountain,
The uttermost spring of the Lake of the Wood.
Away from the home of my father, I'm fleeing
From the mother that gave and that guarded
My being,
The sisters that loved me, the friends that caressed,
I flee to the solitudes far away west.

Calm Lake of the Wood! in thy silver seclusion
How sweet from the toil of the world to lay
My head;
Where free from the fear of all mortal intrusion,
My soul may expand to the verge of the sky—
I'll bound o'er the wave of thy delicate ocean
In its maidenly calm or its boyish commotion—
Thy loneliness leaves to my wishes no more,
Than to live on thy waters & die on thy shore.

At morning's first gleam o'er the top of Warronquin
With my bark in the race for the maid I will dare,
And distance the spirit of the brave Alonquin
Till he give o'er his phantom pursuit in despair.
With my arm so strong, and my paddle so true,
Old I'll row till I grow to my light-winged canoe,
And eye the blue welkin and water between,
A couple more lightsome shall never be seen.

And wearied at last with the day's agitation,
When night has relinquished her star chandeliers,
I'll throw myself down in the couch of creation
And sleep the serene song of the spheres.
No vagabond thought of my home far away
Shall intrude on the thronging delights of the day;
And I care not what visions my sleep may beguile,
If I dream not of her who has caused my exile.

Oh! physics and chemistry, where's your attraction
For my studies, my books, my dull lectures,
What care I!
To toss them aside in disdain and distraction,
To think of the dark-rolling eyes of my Mary—
Though transcendently dark be the hue of her eye,
Her heart its atrocity will may outvie;
And she knows that repose on her brow and her breast,
Are never so cold as the soul they invest.

Yet 'tis vain to regret, tho' my heart I can blame none,
Since gone is the glance of her eye on me thrown,
Like the sun-beam that fell on the statue of Memnon,
Waking music and life from silence and stone.
Then away and away o'er the bonny Blue mountain,
Away and away o'er prairie and flood,
I stake not my thirst, till I drink of the fountain,
The uttermost spring of the Lake of the Wood.

"On the shore at the fathermost end of this Lake, our guides showed us a grave, such as the Scotch call a cairn, a heap of stones thrown over the body of a chief of the Alonquin nation, who drowned himself in disgust of life, after an unsuccessful canoe race for a fair dandelion of his tribe, who had the unfortunate honor of attracting two suitors of distinction. Feeling no preference in her own breast for either, she left them to the amicable adjustment of their claims, and they agreed upon the method just spoken of. At a certain season of the year, early in the morning, his spirit is said to be seen skimming the Lake in his substantial bark, with incredible swiftness, in the direction in which the race occurred." Translation from a manuscript "Narration d'un voyage imaginaire aux rivages des mers Mediteranneennes de l'Amerique Septentrionale, par un officier dans la suite du Baron la Houtan," in the extensive and valuable library of my friend, the Reverend Wilhelm Cronpecker, of Tancy Town, Maryland.

Spunk—Let ancient or modern history be produced they will not afford a more heroic display than the reply of Yankee Stonington, to the British commanders. The people were jilting the balls which the enemy had wasted, when the foe applied to them: "We want balls, will you sell them?" They answered: "We want powder—send us powder and we'll return you balls."

PRIZE ESSAY.
THE MEDICAL AND CHIRURGICAL FACULTY OF MARYLAND, at their annual convention held in the city of Baltimore, on the 7th and 8th June, 1830, passed the following resolution, viz:—
Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed to award a premium of one hundred dollars for such essay as they or a majority of them shall consider worthy thereof. The subject of such essay to be selected by said committee.
In conformity with the benevolent intentions of the Faculty expressed in the aforesaid resolution the committee offer a premium of $100 for an essay upon the nature and sources of the Malaria or noxious Miasma, from which originate the family of diseases usually known by the denomination of bilious diseases; together with the best means of preventing the formation of Malaria, removing the sources, and obviating their effects upon the human constitution when the cause cannot be removed.
The committee have been induced to call the attention of the profession to this subject, because of its vast importance to society at large. The immense extent to which this fruitful cause of disease operates, has not yet been accurately calculated, nor any probable estimate made of the mortality which at occasions. The public attention has been justly directed to other subjects of general improvement, but we believe an adequate effort has yet been made to awaken and direct the public mind to the prevention of the evils dependent upon Malaria, although it is well known to medical men to be extending its influence, and threatening to depopulate some of the finest sections of this country, as it has already depopulated some of the fairest portions of the old world.
Candidates for the prize are to cause their dissertations to be delivered to the subscriber, in Baltimore, (postage paid,) on or before the first day of May 1831. Each dissertation to be accompanied by a sealed letter, superscribed with a motto corresponding with that prefixed to the essay. None of the letters, except that to which the motto of the successful essay shall be affixed, will be opened; the other essays shall be disposed of according to the direction of the proprietors.
HENRY W. BAXLEY, Secretary to the Committee.

INTELLIGENCE, AGENCY, & COLLECTOR'S OFFICE.
THE subscriber impressed with a belief that an Intelligence and an Agency Office, conducted upon proper principles, with a due regard to the interests of society, would be conducive to public benefit, has been induced to open one at No. 48 BALTIMORE STREET, one door from the North West corner of Gay and Baltimore streets, Baltimore, where he will regularly attend to the duties of his establishment, and sedulously endeavour to render justice to those who may favour him with their patronage.
He will promptly and faithfully attend to the negotiations of all concerns confided to his management, as also to the collection of debts and ground rents, and all other kind of claims. He likewise will attend particularly to the selling of REAL and PERSONAL PROPERTY—his office is situated in a central part of the city, which has many facilities in the way of disposing of good slaves by obtaining the highest prices for their owners and securing good places for slaves, without being sent out of the state.
Referring to the subjoined testimonials of character, he respectfully begs leave to solicit a share of patronage, and to remain the public's obedient servant.

KINGSTON TO RENT.
TO Rent for the ensuing year, and possession given on the first day of January next, that well known Farm called "Kingston" situated in King's Creek hundred, Talbot county, and immediately on the great Choptank River, together with the buildings, premises and appurtenances to the same belonging. Kingston has long since been established as a depot for grain and other articles intended for the Baltimore market and is considered one of the most eligible situations on the river for conducting boating business and a Grocery Store, and has been successively used for the above purposes. An investment of a very moderate Capital, conducted with industry and enterprise, would no doubt yield a handsome profit. The situation is healthy, the soil productive and the buildings in tolerable repair and will be made completely so, in the early part of next spring. Terms made moderate to an approved tenant. Persons desirous of renting are invited to view the premises and apply to the subscriber.
