EASTON, MD.

TUESDAY MORNING, August 10, 1830.

We noticed in our last, a meeting which had been held in Easton, by a few of the would-be leaders of the "Anti Caucus" party, in a private room of Mr. Lowe's tavern, to which none were admitted except the patricians who were privately notified. Matters then settled will be brought before the people to-day, and their humble acquiescence demanded-solicited. We have since learned, that two of the gentlemen then nominated, and who have since been waited on, secret Caucus, was not for the public ear, it have declined serving. We presume they don't like was to be confined to the elect. the call. There is a little too much of aristocracy in it for these old disciples of the Democratic school. Whom they have since selected, we have not yet learned, but it is all fixed, and the people must submit. Bank at Easton:

In Saturday's Gazette, is published over the sigpature of "A Voter," a piece stating that on the preceding Sabbath, a meeting had been held by the Jackson leaders at the old establishment over the river, meaning Mr. Lloyd's, and intimating that arrangements were then and there made for the Jackson party, &c. As this communication was made on "good authority," the same authority will oblige the Jackson party, by naming their would-be leaders; and by stating also the nature and objects of the meet-

The Editor of this paper has not spoken to, seen, nor heard from Mr. Lloyd, for the last two weeks, nor does he know who are the gentlemen who are said to have been at Mr. Lloyd's; but from his knowledge Free Males of the open day manner, in which Mr. Lloyd and Free Females every member of the Jackson party is in the habit of Aliens regulating their political conduct, he has no hesitation in asserting, that the communication made to the Gazette, is false; and that no meeting of a political character was there held, or intended to be held. We think that party, which, to justify itself in any course it has taken, is driven to slander another: to publish falschoods, (communicated on good authority or not): to invade the private domicile of a gentleman, and attempt to close the avenues to social life, Free colored Males by exciting suspicion around every act of the domestic circle, is hard run for justification. We envy not the man whose mind will stoop to make such inications, nor the party who will sanction The census of 1820 gave

We published in our last, an extract from a Baltimore paper, speaking of the proceedings of certain gentlemen, who availed themselves of the opportunity when assembled in that city, attending a meeting of the Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, to constitute themselves the consevators of the public weal and safety. In the publication of this article as well as the extract in this day's paper, we would not be understood as animadverting on the conduct of the Delegates to the Convention generally. Of tain no fear; we have understood that some six or changed signals with the British and Ameri- opinion, and by excluding every body who These were drawn to it from different motives, some innocently no doubt; but we humbly conceive, that they have done wrong; that they were deputed for a more worthy, more holy purpose than that of exciting strife, dissention and wrangling. In all bodies there are restless and ambitious men who seek their own aggrandisement, and who suffer no opportunity to slip which can give them the direction of the storm. Such men find cause for alar and suspicion in the incidents of every day. T seek to stir up the angry elements. If any su crept into the Convention, and, when they should have been engaged in promoting and forwarding the interests of our Holy Religion, have been caucusing, plotting and conspiring to elevate themselves, and to delude the people, we would only say, the Church has committed her safety into the hands of such as would slay her. May the people not do like-

THE FORCERY .- It is now reduced to a certainty that the letter purporting to be from Mr. text for most of the Clay prints for a month past, is a sacrilegious forgery. A party of men who can descend to such practices for the purpose of furthreing their designs, must be far gone in moral degradation, and assuredly cannot expect their most veracious statements to obtain credence with any one that knows them. We are glad, however, that there are those in the ranks of Mr. Clay, a few, who have too high a sense of honor to lend their countenance to such base acts. We wish such were in Clay.
