ROCK HALL, MD.

THIS ADVERTISING is a sort of mutual affair, which has a tendency to strengthen the confidence which must exist between the seller and the buyer. Little profits and judicious advertising is the foundation upon which a successful business can be built. We call the KENT NEWS readers attention to our special sale of MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING. A summer suit at reduced prices right in the height of the season is somewhat of an innovation, yet a call for these goods will convince you that they are extra values at our reduced prices. Then our SHOE BUSINESS is a hobby of ours. We try to keep the Shoe to please each and every patron. This necessitates us to carry a very large stock of shoes, and from this stock the most fastidious can be suited.

We carry a full stock of MEN'S HATS, LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS, DRY GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, CARPETS, MATTINGS AND OIL CLOTHS. A nice line of GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

We hope to receive a liberal share of your patronage in the future.

We are yours for business,
M. KRAMER, = ROCK HALL, MD.

MAKING SILK HATS.

A Workman Explains Why His Forefinger Nail Is Malformed.

The nail of his right forefinger was long, yellow, horny, and the finger tip had so thickened and hardened that it seemed to be covered with pale leather. He was a silk hat maker, and it was from curling hat brims that his finger had changed so strangely. Describing the processes of a silk hat's manufacture, he said:

"The belief that cardboard forms a silk hat's foundation is an error. The hat is first built up of various thicknesses of linen—layers of linen, soaked in shellac, that by means of wooden molds and hot irons weighing twenty pounds apiece are welded one on the other till a perfect shape, brim and all complete, is obtained.

"The silk is next put on. This silk costs from $10 to $15 a yard. It looks like plush in the piece. The hatmaker cuts it off on the bias and molds it round the stiff linen foundation. The strips must be very accurately cut, and great care is used in their ironing and cementing, so as to give a perfect diagonal joint. Look at your silk hat's seam the next time you wear it. The joint's perfection will, perhaps, amaze you.

"The brim, up to this point, is flat. Now its curling commences. That is where my queer forefinger comes in. The shaping of a hat brim is purely a matter of hand and eye and taste. The brim while being shaped is highly heated so as to give it pliability.

"And of course working on this hot material, patting and prodding it, the forefinger thickens and the nail gets horny.

"Nevertheless hat curling is pleasant, artistic work. Hat curlers have reputations the same as artists. Their work is distinctive. An expert can tell it at a glance."—New York Press.

THE UPPER LIP.

A Theory About the Furrow Which Runs Below the Nose.

Below the nose runs a furrow parting the upper lip. In the faces of babies and children this furrow is very noticeable. From the evolutionist's point of view it is one of the most remarkable characters of the face. It tends to become obsolete in old age, and it is not seen among the catarrhine monkeys. Among the platyrhines it is but feebly developed, but in lemurs it is in a more pronounced state. There is a depressed septum, to which the two side pieces are joined. The upper lip, in fact, is nearly split in two, but held together in a depressed piece of flesh. In the marsupialia and rodentia the lip is practically in two pieces, and each piece is capable of being moved separately. This is the "hare-lip," and its method of use may well be noticed in a hare or a rabbit when eating.

The furrow, therefore, in the child's lip points to this—that our ancestors possessed not a single upper lip, as we do now, but two upper lips, one beneath each nostril, both capable of independent movement. In the course of time these two lips have, owing to the nonrequirement of independent movement, grown together to form the single lip we now possess, but the line of junction is not perfect, and so the furrow results, and sometimes there is a distinct scar down the middle of the furrow.

The possession of the furrowed upper lip by children is one of the strongest pieces of evidence against the descent of man from any catarrhine and in favor of his descent from platyrhines or from lemurs through the intervention of platyrhine-like ancestors, of which there are no exact living representatives.—Nineteenth Century.

Long Lines.

Dumas pere, who was proud of the prices he received for his work, was once boasting of the fact.

"Beyond a doubt," he remarked, "I am the best paid of living men of letters. I receive 30 sous a line."

"Indeed, monsieur?" said a bystander. "I have never worked for less than £5,000 a line. What do you think of that?"

"You are joking," responded Dumas in irritation.

"Not at all."

"For what do you receive such rates per line?"

"For constructing railways," was the answer.—Harper's Weekly.

What Peace Means.

"Can you tell me the meaning of the word 'peace?'" asked Miss Gray of a little boy who had just recited a patriotic poem in which the word occurred.

"Peace means when you ain't got no children," answered the child.

"How is that?" asked Miss Gray.

"When my mother has washed and dressed us six children for school in the morning she says, 'Now, I'll have peace.'"

Torturing Him.

"You say you think your girl is going back on you? What leads you to such a supposition? Did she snub you?"

"No, but she called her little sister into the parlor last night and had her recite to me."—Houston Post.

The Hero's Reward.

Miss Cutter—I hate to repeat gossip, Mr. Dubber, but just before you left us last evening I heard Miss Clipper say that she was dying to get rid of you. Dubber—Ha! Then I saved her life. I'll go at once and claim her hand.—Chicago News.

WE, FOR THE 60TH SEASON PRESENT

...Our Fertilizers...

TRADE MARK

TO THE FARMERS AND PLANTERS OF KENT and adjoining counties. With pride we say that we are better equipped than ever, this year to give you your money's worth.

Many cannot understand why, after so many years doing business here, that Wilbur W. Hubbard's Fertilizers are more extensively used year after year. But the mystery is solved by a visit to our factory, which is always open for inspection to the public, and those who go down to our works marvel at the pains taken in manufacturing the goods.

First the bone is shoveled in the crusher with a scoop shovel and prepared for the Denmead mill, then it is dissolved, and after getting in good mechanical condition, if making a dissolved bone goods, so many pounds of bone is put in the mixer. The nitrate of soda, fish and high grade potash are added, the whole thoroughly mixed, passed through a phosphate mill and screened and thrown up in bulk, to remain until it is shipped, and then it is bagged in new treated acid proof bags and sent out in splendid shape. We are often asked, "why don't you run the goods when first mixed, right in the bags, and not go to the expense of treating the bags, as do other manufacturers?"

We are often asked if this is not a needless extreme, but we reply—it pays to make the best.

Whilst there is some loss by evaporation by bulking, an additional expense in rebagging and an expense to treat the bags, when we remember that a farmer appreciates a good goods, and in first class mechanical condition it pays to go to extremes as it is impossible to make a first class fertilizer otherwise, and by treating our customers right in their purchases, making the time of payment of the bill to suit them, we have gotten a personal hold upon our trade.

The Fertilizers for 1905 are the best we have ever put out. Each year has its experiences. We learned something in 1904—the users of Wilbur Hubbard's Fertilizers will get the benefit of it. A poor article may sell rapidly for a time if it is pushed energetically, but a record of steady gain over a period of 60 seasons among the same people, can only be achieved by a good, reliable article. You can only judge the future by the past. If you have used Wilbur Hubbard's Fertilizers in the past you may be assured they will give you satisfaction in the future. If you have not tried them, we ask you if a record of Thirty (30) successful years with the farmers of the Middle States is not a sufficient guarantee to justify you in using the goods.

Soliciting your patronage, and thanking all our friends for their substantial support in the past, we remain

Very truly yours,

Wilbur W. Hubbard,
Manufacturer of Standard Bone Fertilizers,
