

COMMUNICATION.
[FOR THE WHIG.]
TO THE CITIZENS OF CAROLINE COUNTY.

As the subject of the money expended in recording the Chancery papers, appears to be agitated in our county, and as a right understanding of the matter may be of importance, I have determined to give the facts in the case as they appear from official documents. You already know that upwards of twenty five thousand dollars have been expended in recording the papers alluded to, and that at each session of the Legislature something more is appropriated to the same purpose; whereas if the superintendent and those persons who were employed to record the Chancery papers had understood their duty and acted up to it, the whole amount would not have exceeded the sum of fifteen thousand dollars. It will appear by reference to the report of the joint committee of the Senate and House of Delegates at December session 1828, and the documents accompanying the same, and Gov. Kent's letter, (page 21 of the report) "that the contract for the recording those papers did not extend to all the unrecorded papers in the Chancery office, but only to such of them as are required by law to be recorded, in the very language of the resolution of the General Assembly, under which the contract was made." What papers then are required by law to be recorded? This is the key to the whole subject. The laws of Maryland require that in all cases in which land is sold, or when the controversy in a suit is concerning the right to land, then for the safety of the purchaser, as well as to inform the whole world who is the legal owner of land, the papers and proceedings should be recorded at length; but they never yet did require the recording the papers and proceedings when personal property alone was concerned, or the subject of controversy. But in recording the Chancery papers, under the contract with the executive all the papers were recorded, whether concerning land or personal property, contrary to law and the meaning of the contract. And when we consider that not more than half of the suits in Chancery concern real estate, and consequently not more than half the papers which were recorded ought to have been, and of course only half the money expended, Mr. Culbreth is certainly to blame to the amount of twelve thousand dollars and more. Did this proceed from total neglect, ignorance of the duty assigned the superintendent, or from a desire to pocket a large sum of money, which was never designed to be spent in that way? Perhaps all these causes had some effect. Thomas Culbreth, Esq. then Clerk of the Council was appointed to superintend the work, and it will be seen by reference to the report, that at the time he was receiving fifteen hundred dollars as clerk, he was also receiving the immense sum of more than five thousand dollars for rendering little or no service; for Mr. C. employed Joseph Mayo, (who it is notorious was incompetent to the duty confided to him, as will be seen by the deposition of R. Waters the Register in Chancery, that he, Mr. M. was trusted to make abstracts for office records but never for records of any importance; see also L. Gassaway's testimony page 49-55 and 67,) to do what Mr. C. ought have done, and paid him for it. It was Mr. Mayo who made out the abstracts, and superintended the recording Clerks, he at the same time being appointed one of them. Here was indeed a strong temptation, and Mr. C. could not resist it—and it need not be repeated how to squeeze in more papers than ought to be recorded, recourse was had to forgery; that the Grand Jury of Anne Arundel found a presentment for it, and that Gov. Martin made the laws against crime wholly inoperative by his grant of a nolle prosequi. Did the executive think at the time of employing Mr. Culbreth, that he was to employ a deputy and do nothing, or did they repose the special confidence in his abilities as being equal to the task? In either case he disappointed the Executive. For Mr. C. in his examination before the committee (see report page 56, 7, 8, 9) acknowledges that he done little or nothing. The course he should have pursued would have been to have resigned when he found from any cause he could not attend to his duty, and let another be appointed in his place who was competent and who would have attended to the business. But by his not attending to it, and appointing one who was incompetent, the sum of more than twelve thousand dollars of the people's money has been expended to reward a few of the followers of John Q. Adams. Mr. Ramsay Waters, a Jackson man, to whom the work was first offered, agreed to do it at the same price as paid for the like work by suitors in the Court of Chancery, that is, at ten cents per side;—but afterwards he agreed to do it for twenty per cent. less, that is for 8 cents per side, a cent less than the price given to Mr. Culbreth, "and furnish stationary and every thing which may be necessary for the faithful execution of the work (see page 34 and 35 of the report to the House of Delegates.) And as his competency to do the work cannot be doubted, and from his personal attention no papers would have been recorded but what the law required, and his finding the stationary which cost more than one thousand dollars (see Kent's letter page 31,) there is no doubt but that at this day there would have been in the treasury at least ten thousand dollars more than is; and this for no other reason than to reward a man who had already been rewarded by an office worth fifteen hundred dollars per year, and a few more favourites of President Adams. Time does not allow more; but I invite the attention of the citizens of Caroline to the report and the testimony taken before a joint committee of the Senate and House of Delegates, at the session 1828 and 9, which accompanied the votes and proceedings of the session to the Delegates.

INTELLIGENCE AGENCY, & COLLECTOR'S OFFICE.

THE subscriber impressed with a belief that an Intelligence and an Agency Office, conducted upon proper principles, would be conducive to the interests of society, would be open one at No. 48 BALTIMORE STREET, one door from the North West corner of Gay and Baltimore streets, Baltimore, where he will regularly attend to the duties of his establishment, and sedulously endeavour to render justice to those who may favour him with their patronage.

He will promptly and faithfully attend to the negotiations of all concerns confided to his management, as also to the collection of debts and ground rents, and all other kind of claims.

He likewise will attend particularly to the selling of REAL and PERSONAL PROPERTY—his office is situated in a central part of the city, which has many facilities in the way of disposing of good slaves by obtaining the highest prices for their owners and securing good places for slaves, without being sent out of the state.

Referring to the subjoined testimonials of character, he respectfully begs leave to solicit a share of patronage, and to remain the public's obedient servant

JOHN BUSK.

Having been solicited by Mr. John Busk to permit him to refer to us in support of his character and standing, we take pleasure in complying with his request. We have known him for a long series of years in various capacities, and have always found him correct in his department and honest in his dealings. Understanding that he is about to commence the business of a General Agent, Collector and Intelligence Office Keeper, we wish him every success in his business, believing that he will, by his conduct, merit the approbation of those who may employ him.

PRIZE ESSAY.

THE MEDICAL AND CHIRURGICAL FACULTY OF MARYLAND, at their annual convention held in the city of Baltimore, on the 7th and 8th June, 1830, passed the following resolution, viz: "Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed to award a premium of one hundred dollars for such essay as they or a majority of them shall consider worthy thereof. The subject of such essay to be selected by said committee."

In conformity with the benevolent intentions of the Faculty expressed in the aforesaid resolution the committee offer a premium of $100 for an essay upon the nature and sources of the Malaria or noxious Miasma, from which originate the family of diseases usually known by the denomination of bilious diseases; together with the best means of preventing the formation of Malaria, removing the sources, and obviating their effects upon the human constitution when the cause cannot be removed.

The committee have been induced to call the attention of the profession to this subject, because of its vast importance to society at large. The immense extent to which this fruitful cause of disease operates, has not yet been accurately calculated, nor any probable estimate made of the mortality which it occasions. The public attention has been justly directed to other subjects of general improvement, but we believe no adequate effort has yet been made to awaken and direct the public mind to the prevention of the evils dependent upon Malaria, although it is well known to medical men to be extending its influence, and threatening to depopulate some of the finest sections of this country, as it has already depopulated some of the fairest portions of the old world.

Candidates for the prize are to cause their dissertations to be delivered to the subscriber, in Baltimore, (postage paid) on or before the first day of May 1831. Each dissertation to be accompanied by a sealed letter, superscribed with a motto corresponding with that prefixed to the essay. None of the letters, except that to which the motto of the successful essay shall be affixed, will be opened; the other essays shall be disposed of according to the direction of the proprietors.
