PRINTED AND PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY MORNING, BY EDWARD MULLIKIN

PUBLISHER OF THE LAWS OF THE UNION. THE TERMS VERTISEMENTS are inserted three times for ONE ing of the pitiless blast." DOLLAR; and continued weekly for TWENTY-FIVE CENTS per square.

[FOR THE WHIG.]

copy of verses which were sent a few days since to an "Old Bachelor" by a very beautiful and accomplished young lady.

"HE HAS NO WIFE." He has no wife-he's quite alone, Unsought, unhappy, and unknown: His days pass by -nor pleasure give, He "breathes," methinks, but does not "live."

He has no wife-he does not know, The joys, from wedded life that flow, His absence, there is none to mourn, No eye looks bright at his return.

He has no wife-his joys are few Though he is rich and healthy too, How selfish he, who will not share, His wealth with woman, chaste and fair.

He has no wife-no "prattlers" smile Or lisping tongue his hours beguile, His heart no kind attachment knows Regardless both of friends and foes.

He has no wife-and is it meet That man should live to drink and eat, For this did the Almighty hand Form man the Ruler of the land? He has no wife-well, be it so-His days are number'd here below, He soon must go, whence none return, And then-his "dog" and "cat" will mourn.

From the U. S. Gazette. SABBATH THOUGHTS. There's a time when the feeling will gush from the

Like a bright mountain stream to its blue sea o

When the heart with new raptures is rich with de-When each lively emotion is tender and bright. 'Tis when Love is the wild and bewildering theme,

And when Hope as a vision starts forth in a dream-

We may gaze on that cloud as a curtain of light, And we "know" that the prospect beyond it is bright, Thus in youth when the spirits are buoyant as air, And the past in perspective—the present, is fair;

Through the veil of the future no dark cloud ap To plunge the bright smile in a fountain of tears: But the young heart beats high with emotions of

And the fair curtained future seems brighter than

There are times when in manhood, the feeling will

Like the murmuring streams through the valley be-

As they glide o'er their smooth pebbled heds to the

And as mournfully now they come forth from the

But the tear is suppressed that is ready to start

Like the bright hopes of youth-like the joy's I have

that is bright

When our strength shall have failed; and the eye

Shall be dim'd; when we stand upon Life's bleaky

When the journey of Life and its voyage is o'er. To the wicked, how dreadful Death's summons mus

Should no light then illumine a path o'er that sea!

When we plunge in Death's billows, if just, we shall To the mansions of bliss-to the realms of the skies

Phila. Sept. 16, 1530. TREMONT.

[From the Saturday Evening Post]

THE MANIAC. calculated than any other to light the spark of giment which was about to join the Austrian and pathetic appeals, and that several witnesses driven from her throne, and her place usurped mained in the army during two campaigns, du- evidence against her) she was condemned to be mortal nains of a maniae." by phrenzy; and nothing can be more interest- ring which I had risen to the rank of Colonel; executed. She met her late with the fortitude ing to the contemplative mind, than the inves- and on the disbandment of our troops I return- of a martyr; and as the last pulse of life ceas tigation of the causes which have led thereto. ed to my native town, high in hope, and in ex- ed to beat, a curse, "not loud but deep," burst narrative of one, who, although a maniac, had warrier for the more tender and endearing one lucid intervals, in one of which he related the of domestic bliss.

eventful story of his life. travelling in the western part of Ohio, the ga- companion of my sports, and as we advanced in mained for some moments in the same state. thering clouds, the occasional flashes of light- years, we became daily more attached to each | One thing only,' added he, "was wanting " me of the approach of a storm, and roused me mental accomplishments. Possessing a mind been in possession of your family for many coach to London. The stage one minute and a quarter already. I must from a reverie into which I had been thrown well stored with various and useful knowledge years, was confiscated, and you have now no carried inside; and our hero engaged two drive on without ye, it so be you don't like your whilst contemplating the scenery of the sur- she was capable of leading in any circle of life, place which you may call your own. rounding forest. I had been informed by a tra- and her surpassing beauty was admired by all The loss of my property affected me but lit- monly c for himself. The other four seats The students cast rueful glances at each veller, a few minutes previous, that the near- who saw her. Need I add that she had nume | tle, but the consideration of the manner in | were ta by Oxford students. est habitation was five miles distant. In the rous suitors for her hand and heart. The neigh- which I had lost my parent, and she who was Thesouths, being lighter than our mo- tive corners. As the hostler shut the door, he hope that I should be able to reach it before boring Princes paid their addresses to her, and the idol of my soul, bowed me to the earth. dern Laert, arrived at the stage before him found it impossible to compose his features. to his utmost speed; but I had not travelled accept some one who had wealth and power ded knees I swore vengeance against the ty- ner seasying a centre seat on each side va- you grinning rascal," said the future churchmore than about two miles ere the storm burst to make her happy, as far as wealth and pow- rant who had thus made me to outlive all my cant. Tround, good tempered face of John man, stretching out of the window; but the in all its fury. In order to shelter myself in er can produce happiness. some degree, I turned from the road into the I was the favoured idol of her heart. I had ther to witness my oath. Arising, I rushed and, peng into the vehicle and observing My white pantaloons!" cried the lord. adjoining woods, intending to keep the path breathed my tale of love into her ear, and it from the house, and buried myself in the re- the locarangements that had been made, "My beautiful drab surtout!" said the lawin view; but my horse instinctively seeking stole like poison into the utmost recesses of the said a smile: "You see I am of a pret- yer expectant. "The filthy rascals!" the thickest shelter, I found myself entangled her soul. She loved me-yes, with all the fer- my companions, and subsisting myself on ty comfole size, gentlemen; so I have ta- The noise of the carriage wheels and the un- Dinwiddie Court House, Va. by three persons, before I was aware, and all my endeavours to vour of a woman's leve. I went to serve my roots and herbs. In this state I remained for ken tweats. I will be obliged, if one of restrained laughter of the spectators drowned who had blacked their faces to prevent discovrecover the road were ineffectual. Abandon- country in the 'tented field,' with the promise, three days and nights, during which I plan- you wibve into the opposite seat, so that the sequel of the lamentations. ing the reins, therefore, to my horse, (as ma- that if I returned in safety she would be mine. | ned a revolt, that, had it not been for the trea- that I ube able to enter." ny persons have done in a similar predicament,) Little did I think when I parted with her, I chery of one concerned, must have proved fa- "My d Sir," said a pert young lawyer, The sweeps were liberated, the seats shaken with a firm reliance on his instinct, I gave way should never behold her more; 'tis true, she tal to the king. I then issued from my hiding "possessis nine-tenths of the law. You en- and brushed, the worthy sons of the universi- the university of a Bay Pilot Boat off Cape to meditation, from which I was roused by his whispered presentiments that she should see place, and communicated my plan to the most gaged tseats. There they are, one on ty made up among themselves the expense of Charles, and that out of thirteen souls on ed my horse, and then proceeded to give no- | ding her a hasty, yet affectionate farewell, I Un an approaching festival, it was customa- | claims to the seat we occupy are indispu- | seat; and all journied on together, without ed my horse, and then proceeded to give notice to the inmates, if any there should be, joined the army which was on the point of in the evening dancing was introduced in "I do not wish to dispute your claims," said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared, that "to be delayed a said conchee, who declared a said con and haggard-looking being, whose appearance caused me to start and give an involuntary shudder. Recollecting myself, however, I shall there shudder. Recollecting myself, however, I stepped forward, and with as collected an air fore go forward to the moment when the ar Arab, was to display my skill in throwing the "Oh, hang politeness!" said a hopeful young was!" Annum payable half yearly in advance. Ap- as possible, requested shelter from the "pelt- my was disbanded.

enter with a vehemance to which resistance warriors. Near the palace we were met by fiedhim (the King) of his danger, and on our please; I stick to my corner"—and he leaned objected to, among other reasons, for leaving Mr. Mullikin, -Asyou have a number of "Old Bach had been vain) I am a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success, less thank a maniac! -a being whose the King, who congratulated us on our success. clors" in your Town I send you for their comfort a misfortunes and crimes have driven me to my and promised rewards proportioned to that disamed, and thrown into prison. Part of our less composure, in his place.

> ed him into the hut, not, it must be confessed, ed that when I looked up, his face was instant- the sace of one month, on food scarcely suffi- "Will you not accommodate me?" he said: bony clabber." to suffer from the want of conversation. On from within. Amidst the general joy and bus- I feltwas when I reflected on the fate of those ter at the "damned clever joke." whatsoever subject that was introduced, he tle, that was silent and gloomy. My heart who vere condemned to suffer with me. belief that the picture which himself had drawn raised the latch, and found the door unfastenwas too highly colored; but when, after some ed. I entered, and walked through a long it was while pursuing a train of reflections should lose my place; or will you oblige me a clunk. I was chiragrical, and felt a carpal. time thus spent, he suddenly stopped, and the suite of rooms, without meeting an individual. simile to these that the thought occurred to wild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was As I was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was As I was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was As I was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted that the fit was about to go forth into the town to inwild rolling of his eye denoted t upon him, they returned with redoubled force; quire the reason of this strange solitude, I have rought into this abode of misery? | the person addressed; "he's something in the and elipt. His faults were commentitious, and but quickly past; reason once more regained heard the door open, and a man, wrapped in a son devised a plot, which eventuated in way of your profession, quite a physiological as we had been long commorant, I relented her throne; and before we retired to rest it large cloak, stood before me. He started their restoration to their curiosity. You ought to accommodate him." but the conceptacle of my head was injured; been accomplished.

> Spite of my fatigue and the reasonings of my tion, he saidmind, the horrid idea that he might attempt | 'It cannot be; and yet the front, the bearing ing, ahe placed my food by my pallet of straw, I'll engage, in the course of six weeks, by dint than ten hours, over Sunbury Common, some my life haunted my imagination, and drove of my dear master is too strongly impressed I raist myself upright, and having previous- of a judicious course of diuretics and cathartics, time back, performed a task on Monday scarce-"tired nature's sweet restorer" far from me. upon that brow. It is my dear, my young, ly fored the manacles from my hands, I struck to save you hereafter the expense of a double ly less surprising, and certainly unprecedented In the morning I arose with the sun, intend- my now only master.' So saying, he rushed him the earth; then putting my hand into seat. But, really, to take a middle seat in the annals of trotting in this country. ing to pursue my journey immediately, but he into my arms, and I recognized one of my fa- his born, where I knew he kept the keys that month of July is contrary to all the rules of Shortly before Mr. Jackson quitted this counso earnestly urged my stay to breakfast that I ther's old and faithful domestics. Upon ra- unloced my fetters, I pulled it cut, and in a Hygein, and a practice to which I have a pe- try, he sold Tom Thumb to M. Osbaldistone. could not refuse. The food which he set be- leasing myself from his grasp, "tell me," I minut stood at liberty: I then proceeded to cultar antipathy."
>
> Some time since Mr. O. proposed taking a fore me was not such as might have gratified said, "why this desolation? Where is my fastenim therewith, which I had no sooner And the laugh was renewed at the old gen- horse, bona fide his own property, to trot 16 could not refuse. The food which he set be- leasing myself from his grasp, "tell me," I minut stood at liberty: I then proceeded to cuhar antipathy." the taste of an epicure, but hunger gave it a father? Why, if he be dead, have I not heard accombished than his cries and execrations them his cries and execrations them have a not be himrelish which the richest sauces could not excel. thereof?" These and several other questions were it of my power to describe. I heeded By this time, the patience of coachee, who self the driver. This challenge was immediate-Having finished our repast, during which, as of like import were asked without giving time | them at, however, for well I knew that the had listened to the latter part of the dialogue, ly accepted by a gendeman high on the turf. on the evening previous, he discovered him- for an answer to any. Francis (for that was voices the inmates of a dungeon were nev- was exhausted. "Harkee, gemmen," said he, who betted 600 to four against the performself to be well informed on every topic of con- his name) replied, 'It is a sad tale, sir, and one er heal beyond its precincts. I waited with er settle the business as you like; but it wants ance, which had never yet been accomplished versation, I was about to bid him an effection- which I fear in your present state of exhaus- in theell till darkness overspread the land, just three quarters of a minute of twelve; and, by any horse in this country. Mr. O. furate farewell, when, with more calmness than tion you could not bear.' when proceeded to restore my companions with the first stroke of the University clock, ther offered to take four to one that with the I had yet observed in him, he said-plorable being, the unbounded confidence you 'Well, then,' said the good old man, 'come to issu only to be conducted to an ignomin- he mounted his box, took up the reins, called theman, who backed time to a large figure. Which a silvery cloud had concealed from our eyes. have reposed in me would seem to require the where you can be seated, for much I fear you is us dith. Having travelled three nights, for to the ostler to shut the door, and sat listen- Tom Thumb was selected to perform the drink the waters of Lethe, and forever forget lige me to give. a burden which, like the punishment of the sensation, and suffered myself to be dragged, view th General L ----, to whom I had the horses, as if they recognized the sound, return to within half a mile of the starting post. first-born of man, proves greater than I can rather than led, by Francis to an adjoining render an important service in the late war started off at a gallop with the four young Tom Thumb took his daily exercise over bear; for, like him, the mark of a murderer is room, where I sank senseless on a couch. in which I was engaged, and who I felt confi- rogues, to whom their own rudeness and our the ground, so that he become perfectly fa whom all nature must bow."

misfortune than of guilt.

Germany. My father had served him from his the prince had seen Wilhelmina at a ball giv- hinature, in my behalf. I know not that I bags and brooms, and their well known cry. his services were not unrewarded by a man beauty, he had conceived a violent passion prered, as I then should have felt myself gentleman;" what say you to a ride?" whose virtues had endeared him to his sub- for her, and that he had at length become a urr an obligation to him whose life I was The whites of their eyes enlarged into still you looked round, and saw every horse in his jects, and whose wisdom forced them to the suitor for her hand, and was rejected. En- seing. belief that his edicts were oracular. Such is, raged by her opposition (for on that he had length I found an opportunity to satiate their sooty cheeks. "Will you have a ride, tained that he was getting over the ground at Flow these sweet Sabbath musings as calmly from | in few words, the character of a prince who, not counted), he swore she should be his, mrengeance. I had lurked in disguise around my boys, in the stage coach?" though he did not figure in history, pursued 'though Hell should conspire against him.' | theaunts of the King, in the hope of being athe 'even tenor of his life' to his own praise My father had been retained by this prince le strike the fatal blow, but it appeared to to believe the evidence of his ears. and the happiness of his subjects, and whose in the same capacity as he had been by prince nynpatience as though the time for venhighest tribute was the universal tears of the W-; to him Wilhelmina addressed her- rece never would arrive; but it did arrive; nation at his decease. The day of his death self, and implored him to acquaint the prince injustice had her due. From the eye that looks back on the past, which has was indeed one of universal lamentation; for, that she never could be his. like the night in which the tenth and last 'Your father,' continued Francis, 'under- la had become separated from his company:

house had cause to grieve. There's a time when our locks shall grow silvery with a character totally different from that of happiness, to cease from what must evidently de his purse. his father. Proud, haughty, and accustomed prove fruitless, he stabbed him to the heart | curse on thy money,' I exclaimed, at the foot on the steps. "Why, how now, coachee, ver endeavoured to slacken his pace—he pullto see all things bend before him, scarcely had basely and with his own hands did he inflict set time that I dropped my mask. I seek what damned joke is this? Get out, you ras- ed away like a trump, and closed his labours. six months from his father's decease. This not the event, so sudden, so unexpected, stu- - Wh these words I stabbed him to the "My lord, the two middle seats are mine, re- from his trot-never made a false step, or appeared to have totally changed his disposi- with horror. Finding that an impassable gulf tion; but the cloven foot was not long conceal- was for ever fixed between Wilhelmina and when a wessel was ready to embark for this ed, nor the mask long worn, ere he again be- himself, his love gave place to rage, and he came the tyrant, who thought 'man made for studied only how to satisfy his revenge.' been the government of such a Prince; one rested on the charge of High Treason, and subjects; one who, while he nominally held was both judge and jury, she spoke so nobly, the reigns of government, was but the tool of that the souls of all present were melted withweak and designing courtiers. I had always in them. Had you then seen her, O! my dear the finerson who has ever heard my tale, poor youths; you have your corner." displayed a strong inclination for the army, master what your sensations would have been and shortly before the death of Prince W-, I shall not venture to describe. Suffice it to lips. In fast sinking to the grave; soon shall If there be any scene of human woe more my father obtained for me a captaincy in a re- say, that, not withstanding all her eloquence I be follow the worm, a loathsome mass of These remarks are elicited by the following pectation of exchanging the rugged life of a from the assembled crowd.

It was in the summer of 18—that, as I was quainted from childhood; she was the constant could not speak; and when he finished, I reneighing. Looking up, I espied a miserable me never again on this earth, but I combated influential among the nobles, who heartily each sid We engaged one each, came first the postchaise, the young doctor violated for board, only three were saved. The survivors. but, with a shed attached, under which I plac- them with all the cloquence of a lover, and bid- joined me. The plan was simply this:-

"Come in," said he, "and fear nought: I tions may be imagined, but cannot be describ- his freast. am a lone and solitary being in the world, and ed. Full of hope, and foreseeing years of hap- bit how often are our wisest plans frustra- fully; and, besides, one loses all chance of look- on a number just published, of Dr. Webster's would not harm the worm beneath my feet; piness, I entered the city, the population of ted! One of the conspirators, whose heart ing at the pretty girls along the road: Good Dictionary of the English Language; a work and yet (he caught my arm as I was about to which had turned out en masse to behold its mismve him before the appointed time, noti- old gentleman arrange your concerns as you which is stated to possess great merit, but is present wretched state. If, sir, you now think merit which, on a "calm investigation, we planwas that we should enter separately, else Our corpulent friend, though a man not cated. "For instance," says the writer, "on proper to seek the shelter of this hut, to such should be found to possess.' These last words commined we would probably have been an easily discomposed, was somewhat put out by Dr. Webster's authority, any one may be adas it affords you are perfectly welcome." | were spoken in a manner conveying thoughts | overnatch for the guard. There was an indescribable something in totally different from their obvious import. I The next day we were brought before his smart looking youth, with a simper on his face "No longer feeling a carnification, I purthe man's countenance which impressed me had observed his eyes bent strongly on my tribual to receive sentence, which was that —a clerical student, who had hitherto sat in a chased fruit of a carparlogist, and castigated with a feeling closely allied to awe. I follow- countenance whilst he spoke, and had observe we sould be confined in separate cells, for reverie, dreaming perchance of some fat benifice. my appetite by caseous food, my drink being in the most enviable state of mind. Alone ly averted and his voice faltered. "I'was then cien to support life, and at the expiration of "this is the last London stage that goes to-day "Wishing to cheveralise my and unprotected—far from any human habita- for the first time that a horrid suspicion that ime to be brought out for execution. and buisness of urgent importance calls me to (excuse the catasterism.) I praised her catation, except the one in which I was, (if indeed of, I knew not what, crossed my mind, nor left thus to my own reflections, my thirst town." it might be dignified with the appellation,) and could I rid myself of the feeling spite of my for sugeance increased, rather than diminish said the list, hit me a clip. I grew chuffy, for her fin-

was evident that the object above mentioned back and seized his sword. I did the same, estateof all excepting me. I had observed "May I be poisoned if I do," replied the and I quitted the room, not quite so cony, nor -namely, the winning of his contidence-had and without uttering a word, we were on the student of medicine; 'in a dissecting room he so cocket and chirk, as I came in." point of trying our skill in fencing, when his ofker whenever he brought me my food, and I would make an excellent subject; but in a

"I can bear all, tell me at least the cause of to that berty which I had myself obtained. my horses must be off. I would not wait three same horse and on the same day, he trotted "If, sir, you have time and inclination to my father's death; the louger you defer, the This as quickly effected, and we bid adieu to seconds longer for the king, God bless him. It sixteen and a half miles within the hour a Like a star which burts forth in the bright glowing hear the recital of a wretched animal and de- greater agony you occasion to my soul."

those alls, from whence we never expected would lose me my situation." And, with that match which was also made by another gen-> story of my life. Would to God that I could can never stand the shock which you thus ob- in theay we were obliged to keep concealed, ing, with upraised whip, for the expected task, and on Monday it took place. The my sorrows and my woes; but I must still bear I had by this time nearly lost all power of whenel directed a note, requesting an inter- As it sounded from the venerable belfrey, the Trumpington road, towards Royston, and to > stamped upon my brow, and nought can now When I recovered, the good old man was see willing to return the obligation. fat friend's disappointment afforded a prolific miliar with the road. Shortly after twelve give me retter but that dreaded Being before standing over me with a look which I shall Tough his intercession, a pardon was grant- theme for joke and merriment during the whole o'clock Tom Thumb was driven on the ground never forget; a look in which pity, agony, and ech those brave spirits who had embarked stage. I complied and the following recital show- all the finer feeling of human nature were with in the meantime, in which he did the former match of 100 miles. ed the life of a man who, though accusing him- strongly pourtrayed, with a mixture of aston friestoration of their estates; but the prince hired a postchaise, and followed and overtook His coat was sleek and glossy, his mane, fet-> > forced me to this?

plague struck Egypt, the inhabitants of every took it, and he sacrificed his life in the at- lecossed my path, when I instantly seized more, gentlemen come on." tempt; yes, when he expostulated with the libridle and dragged him from his horse .-His eldest son now ascended the throne, prince, and beseeched him as he valued her luosing that I was a highwayman, he offer of the corporation, and passed on to the stage. five minutes to do the remaining half mile. he crossed the threshold of his throne, ere he the mortal wound. It was thought by many ty fe; the heart's blood will alone satiate me. cals, or I'll teach you how to play gentlemen accomplishing the full sixteen miles and a half acted so tyrannically that a party was actually that this act would have caused a revolt, her formy father, and the spirit of the such a trick again. formed to dethrone him, in the short space of which would certainly have been the case, had said Wilhelmina cry aloud for vengeance. had such an effect on him that for a while he pified the people, and rendered them mute har.

him-not he for man.' Judge what must have "Singular as it may appear, he had her arwho cared nought for the happiness of his when brought before the tribunal, in which he branceswhich cannot efface remorse for the

During this recital I laid myself upon the couch, totally unconscious of aught save the With Wilhelmina M___ I had been ac- words of Francis, I interrupted him not; I kindred, and called on Wilhelmia and my fa- Bull soofter appeared at the carriage door; hostler nimbly evaded the blow.

we rehed the Austrian dominions, from stroke.

the ardour of the chase, the King, one amediately escaped to the sea coast, count, in which I took passage, and have, as apprecive buried myself in these wilds; where remote from human observation, I mourin sorrrows and my woes-the rememmurded my prince, and combined they oft timdrive me to frenzy. You, sir, are and blew will ever hear it from my own corrupt. Then should you pass this way,

I pred his hand affectionately, mounted my hor and rode off-to speak was impossible-meart was full even to bursting.

From the Free Inquirer.

A DLAND FOR AN OLIVER. places (in consideration of his size, he com- company.

entered ularly into possession, and our once the rules of hygeia by taking a middle it was said, had arrived at New Point.

my was disbanded.

As I approached my native town, my sensative, I was to draw a rapier and eath it in of a middle seat, and would not take one to Dictionaries Turned Pleasant.—Our reaoblige my grandmother. One sits so ungrace- ders may laugh with us over a jeu d'esprit up-without any means of resistance, I found my utmost endeavors. When the King had could I but have killed him who was graceless youth, with an air of mock gravity: gers were cheliferous, and I chode her well for self wholly in the power of a being who had just cluded, I was obliged to feign fatigue, and my the ause of my woe, I would have died con- some speculation after filthy lucre. Good fa- chowdering at me: declared himself the slave of phrenzy. The wound in extenuation thereof. tentd. Death! thou king of terrors, how did ther, at your age, your thoughts should turn "I attended a caucus, and being characterionly resource now in my power, was to use my The instant I had dismissed my troops, I I the view thy approach with a firm heart heavenward, instead of being confined to the dull zed by comity of manners, I was listening comutmost endeavors to win his confidence; but I bent my footsteps towards the home of my and in unblauched cheek. I saw in thee a heavy tabarnecle of clay, that chains us to placentially to a catenulate discourse—the soon found that he was by no means disposed youth.—As I approached no sound was heard kindleliverer from my wees, and the only pang earth," and his companions roared with laugh- room was cluttered, and a carew approached

A glow of indignation just colored the stran- him on account of his cecity; another came, seemed perfectly conversant, which almost dis- sunk within me as I approached the door and | Mstly men of fortune and of rank. O! ger's cheek, but he checked the feeling in a whose superior celcitude nearly reached the armed me of my fears, and forced me to the knocked; no porter was there to open it. I what change was a palace for a dungeon moment, and said, with much composure, to cespititious roof: the clouterly circemcellion

Sleep was a stranger to my eyelids that night. sword dropped and, uttering a feeble exclama- concided that those which unlocked the range coach, and this warm weather too! Old gen- The celebrated American horse Tom Thumb, of dugeons were among them. One even- tleman! if you'll place yourself under my care, who trotted 100 miles in harness in little more self of crime, proved to be more the victim of ishment which seemed to say, why hast thou cod not be prevailed upon to grant a pardon the coach, at the second stopping place, where lock, and tail neatly trimmed; and his blood tore. 'Tis true I did not ask it; yet General the passengers got out ten minutes for dinner. like points all prominently and beautifully "I was born," said he, "in the domains of When I had sufficiently recovered, he in- le mentioned my case to him, and plead. As the postchaise drove up to the inn door, developed. Prince W____, one of the petty sovereigns of formed me that not long after my departure, edwith all the characteristic generosity of two young chimney-sweeps passed with their youth, both in the councils and the field, and en by one of the nobles; that, struck with her shid have accepted the pardon had it been "Come hither, my lads," said the corpulent his pace.—To a casual observer he seemed the middle scats; so-one on each side."

voice was heard: "Only one minute and a half es at the end of sixteen miles, had just five gularly taken and duly paid for; and these required the slightest punishment. youths are my two proteges .- An English stage- The conclusion of the match was hailed good Sir. It would be uncivil to dislodge the back to his stall he was well groomed, ate a

"You are surely not afraid of a black coat," retorted the other. "Besides, we ought not but rather turn them heavenward." "I d rather go through my examination a second time than sit beside these black devils," groaned the medical student.

friend; and you will not be compelled to violate the rules of bygeia by taking a middle seat .-- Pray get in."

mensionthat is, weighing some eighteen or ness of time by the excellence of the joke, ty. In his behalf, his Counsel, S. D Parker, ning, and the distant roll of thunder, warned other. Her beauty was only exceeded by her complete your misery: this estate, which had twentyse, had occasion to travel in a stage- came forward. "Gentlemen, you have lost me addressed the Court, stating the mitigating and other, and then crept warily into their respecthe storm commenced, I pushed on my horse wonder was often expressed himself of a cor- the storm commenced, I pushed on my horse wonder was often expressed himself of a cor- the storm commenced, I pushed on my horse wonder was often expressed himself of a cor- the storm commenced, I pushed on my horse wonder was often expressed himself of a cor-

At the next stage a bargain was struck.

enough to try the patience of a saint, that it droptical eyes, when she, not being a cathar-

me-he spoke to me cavingly, but I forgave ground chosen was eight miles and a half on by Mr. Osbaldistone, in the same match cart

At the given signal away he went, and nothing could be more easy and graceful than to be doing nothing extraordinary, but when more striking contrast with the dark shade of train in full gallop, no doubt could be entera winning pace. The first eight miles and a "Yees, zur," said the elder, scarcely daring balf were performed in thirty minutes and two seconds. He was now in the highestspirits, and "Well, then-hostler! open the stage door. full of play, and his master having encouraged ity of his movements, put his followers still The guard's horn sounded; and coachee's more upon their mettle; and by the stop watchminutes to spare; thus doing the first part of They came, bowed laughingly to our friend the match in fifty five minutes, and having -The young lord was the first who put his It was in vain, however, that his spirited driin three minutes and a quarter under the time "Sit still, my lads," said the fat gentleman, stipulated. Throughout the animal never broke coach is free to every one. Your lordsnip has with loud cheers, and the best judges who a horror of the middle seat. Pray take the witnessed the incredible speed of this little animal [for he is scarce more than fourteen hands "Over-reached us, by God!" said the law- high; expressed their unqualified astonishment er." "We give up the cause, and cry you athis powers-It was calculated he accomplished two of the miles on his way home in but a "Possession is nine tenths of the law, my few seconds over the five minutes. On going hearty meal, and there is no doubt could have "Heaven preserve us!" said the clerical stu- accomplished the same task over again on the same afternoon.-London Paper,

The Boston Evening Gazette states that Circuit Court, sitting in that city, on Friday morning on an indictment for embezzling the sum of $50,000, the same being the property of the Branch Bank of the United States, in "Soot is perfectly wholesome, my young the city of Boston. Upon being asked whether guilty or not guilty, he handed in a written answer, which was read by the Clerk. Judge At these words, coachee, who had stood grin-by the Clerk, but that the prisoner must say An Eish gentleman, of true John Bull di- ning behind, actually cheated into forgetful- Guilty or Not Guilty. Fuller then said Guilalleviating circumstances of the prisoner's case, and appealing to Mr. Webster, the Solicitor of the Bank, and Mr. Frothingham, the Cashier, both of whom were present, for the truth of his statement. After which, Judge Story addressed the prisoner with much dignity and feeling, explaining the grounds of the sendollars, and 2 years to hard labor in the County Gaol, in Boston, from the 11th October.

> Mr. Osborne Henley was robbed of $4,900 in U. S. Bank notes on the 15th instant, near

The Norfolk Beacon contains a report of