"HE DROVE ME FROM HOME AFTER THREE MO." SAYS WIFE

"DROVE ME AWAY AFTER 3 MONTHS" DECLARES WIFE

Young Wife Granted Divorce and Alimony From Post Office Employee

CROSS BILL DISMISSED

Husband's Charge of Desertion Dismissed, Ordered to Pay $10 a Week Alimony

Charging that her husband put her out of their home three months after they were married, Mrs. Genevieve Marshall, 1743 Druid Hill avenue, was granted a divorce and alimony in Part 2 of the Circuit Court Monday.

Honeymoon Short

Testimony produced at the hearing showed that the Marshalls were married in July, 1923, and that they separated three months later. Mrs. Marshall declared that she was forcibly put out of the home and that she had to return to the home of her parents on Druid Hill avenue.

She also claimed that from the time of their separation she had received no support from her husband and child.

Cross Bill Dismissed

Edward Marshall, husband of Mrs. Marshall, filed a cross bill in which he charged that his wife deserted him. This bill, however, was dismissed and Marshall ordered to pay his wife $10 weekly alimony. Marshall is an employee at the city postoffice.

PRISONER WANTS SOME KIND LADY AS CORRESPONDENT

Asks AFRO To Help Him Find Some Single Lady With Kindly Heart

Here is a friendly young man in prison who desires the acquaintance of some kind hearted young single woman as correspondent. The following letter found its way to this office this week:

Madison, Iowa, Nov. 16, 1924.

My Dearest Beloved,

My mind is drifting and trusting on my request to some good kind hearted woman who wishes to correspond through mail to a kind friendly young man. I am a single man; Jesus says, not with rightness I come to save sinners; I come to seek only. So it is with this letter; it calls not to married women but to single women only. I speak sincerely and you will do me the favor to answer this letter.

Yours truly,
LOUIE HORTON,
Register number 12261,
Iowa State Prison.

Things Heard And Seen In Domestic Relations Court

Smart, But Wont Work

"Judge, I like my husband, he's very nice and smart, only he wont work steady," said Mrs. Fannie Foote, in the Criminal Court Wednesday.

"What do you think of her," asked Judge Gorter.

"She's a right nice girl, but she wont leave her people; and I can't stand her mother," said Charles Foote, the husband, 1103 Ashland avenue.

"You didn't expect me to stay with you and live off air, did you?" responded the wife.

After a talk with the Judge a reconciliation was brought about and they left the Court House hand in hand. The couple had been married nine months.

A Jealous Husband

"Judge, my husband is a very jealous man. He accuses me of having other men; he came home one day and came near killing me," said Mrs. Fannie Taylor.

"Well, do you pay attention to other men?" asked the Judge.

"No, indeed," responded Mrs. Taylor, emphatically.

"But, Judge, there is something wrong somewhere," said Rufus Taylor, 2123 Division street.

"Do you want to go back," asked the Judge.

"I don't," said the wife, hastily, "and I want $12 a week."

"I only make $15," wailed the husband.

It was decided that he was to pay $8, with the privilege to make up if his wife was so inclined.

Mrs. Washington Complains

"Judge, I didn't leave that man when he blacked my eye and kicked me in the stomach, but when he took all the food and went to live with another woman, that was more than I could stand," said Mrs. Evylene Washington.

"Your Honor, I never harmed a hair of my wife's head," said James Washington, aged 26.

"Well, what about that other girl," asked the Judge.

"I have no other girl," said Washington.

"Do you want him back?" inquired the Judge of Mrs. Washington.

"No, Your Honor, I have tried him too often."

They finally agreed, however, and everybody was happy.

MASONIC FIGHT IS SETTLED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Bill to Restrain Annapolis Is Dismissed In Anne Arundel County Circuit Court

PENDING FOUR YEARS

Trouble Grew Out of Split In Annapolis Masonic Ranks Four Years Ago

A Masonic fight which has reflected itself in the social and religious life of the quiet little Maryland capital for four years came to an end when the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel County dismissed a bill against the defendants in the case.

The bill, which was filed by the Universal Lodge No. 14, F. A. A. M., of Annapolis, against William E. Fletcher and nine other men to obtain an injunction preventing the defendants from using the corporate name of the lodge and requiring them to return their charter,

Split Caused Action

The court proceedings was the outcome of a split in the organization which caused W. E. Fletcher, John T. Stepney, William R. Taylor, Lewis B. Thomas, James W. Hardesty, Benjamin Briscoe, William Miller, Nathan Ross, Charles Turner and Walter Murray to draw out of the lodge. These men also took the charter and called themselves Lodge No. 14.

It was a bill against this action that was dismissed in the circuit court.

WRITER OF POISON PEN LETTERS IS ASKING DIVORCE

Rev. Cyrus W. H. Briddell, Former Kent Island Pastor, Accuses Wife of Infidelity

SERVES PRISON TERM

Action Follows Return From Federal Prison After Serving 18 Month Term

Charging that his wife has been unfaithful and naming two co-respondents, Rev. Cyrus W. H. Briddell, alleged writer of a number of "poison pen letters" that stirred the little Kent Island to white heat more than two years ago, is asking the Circuit Court to grant him a divorce and the custody of two children.

The court action follows the return some time ago of Rev. Mr. Briddell from the Federal prison, where he has been serving an 18 months' term following his conviction of writing the letters.

Co-respondents Named

In his petition Rev. Mr. Briddell states that his wife, Mrs. Raymond Briddell, has been guilty of undue relations with a number of men, naming Charles Oscar Green and Alfred Dunn. Intimate details of the irregularities will be disclosed at the trial is also made by the minister.

The Briddells were married in 1913, according to the petition, and lived together in several places here in Maryland. They have two children, William, age 7, and Eva E., age 5. He also asks the custody of the two children.

Recalls Noted Case

The petition recalls the noted case of the poison pen letters which created such a furore two years ago. At that time Rev. Mr. Briddell, a prominent young minister, was pastoring three A. M. E. churches on Kent Island.

For a period of three years white women in the community received anonymous "poison pen" letters, filled with the most passionate and depraved details imaginable. Several fights and a near murder followed in the wake of these letters and the whole affair was a mystery and baffled the entire white community.

Suspicion fell on various white men and husbands and relatives of the women who received the letters employed detectives to ferret the matter out. But no one for three years ever cast suspicion towards Rev. Briddell, who was well known, highly respected and generally liked by both white and colored people. Then like a bolt out of a clear sky, a government detective set a trap that caught the young minister in the act of mailing one of the letters here in Baltimore.

Was Strange Case

Just what prompted Rev. Briddell to write these notorious letters which reeked with vile and sordid sexual descriptions, presented a problem in human behaviour. His life was spotlessly clean and wholesome, according to all who knew him. He was a model father and a quiet dignified minister. His entire school record was blameless and even the women to whom the letters were written regarded him as an exceptionally courteous man, according to their testimony on the witness stand.

But submitted in court was the mute evidence in his own handwriting of numerous letters written under the spell of ardent passion.

Following a trial which created wide comment, Rev. Mr. Briddell was convicted and given a sentence of 18 months in the Federal prison.

Did Not Surrender

Warfield Keyler, of 1429 Woodyear street, arrested some time ago for shooting to death Edward Savage, 919 Wilmer alley, did not surrender himself, as reported in a recent issue of this paper.

Capt. Charles Lasmer of the Northwestern Police Station, stated that it required the very best teamwork his men have ever used to bring about the arrest of the accused man. Keyler is awaiting action of the Criminal Court.

Workman Falls 30 Feet

While working for the H. A. Long construction company, at the Bernheimer-Leader Stores, on Saturday, John Harrison, age 26, of 26 Eighth street, Fairfield, Md., fell a distance of 30 feet to the cellar. The injured man was taken to the University Hospital, and treated for a lacerated eye and bruises about the body. He remained at the Hospital in a serious condition.

HOWARD'S NEW PLAYS GAVE CROWD A THRILL

Coach Morrison Always Depended Upon To Produce The Spectacular.

LINCOLN SWEARS BY YOUNG

Lincoln's Mentor Is Given Credit For Producing A Wonder Machine.

The 1924 Football Classic is now history and the whole country is aware of the terrible defeat Howard suffered at the hands of the Lincoln Lions.

To those who have followed the work of the two teams throughout the season it could be readily seen that Lincoln was far superior to the Buffalo squad in every department of the game. Some fans are of the opinion that the fatal injury of Haywood in Howard's first game, had something to do with the morale of the eleven, but the effect of a fatality happening so early in the season, could have been destroyed by proper coaching long before the Thanksgiving game, and besides Haywood's death had a demoralizing effect on every team in the country, altho Howard was nearer to the scene.

The direct cause of Howard's downfall was too much Byrd. This son of a preacher is in a class all by himself. Byrd alone gained a total of 121 yards in the Lincoln-Howard game. Howard men had been fed up on this youngster and they went in the game to stop him and when they failed and Byrd continued his uncanny running and ground gaining, the Buffaloes were bewildered and acted like men dealing with the supernatural.

BYRD'S AMAZING SQUAD

Byrd's speed is his main asset as he weighs only 143 pounds. This speed in conection with gray matter makes him the most outstanding player in the country.

No other player uses the same system Byrd uses in eluding tacklers, he is the only player who looks where he is going, and if one hole is blocked he continues to keep on the lookout out until he finds another, then he makes the most of it.

Most players work like a machine, Byrd works like a human. The plays are all cut and dried before the game and according to signals the various plays are to be executed. Like a well oiled machine most players go thru their paces according to the rules and when they find the way blocked that's the end and they are downed.

THROWS RULES AWAY

Byrd follows the rules until they fail to work, then he uses his own resources and wit to outguess the other fellow, when he finds his interference down, one hole is as good as another to reach his objective, he turns around, backs up, gives the lay of the land a quick "once over" and scoots for the nearest path, always headed for the goal, while the other guy wonders why he doesn't play according to Hoyle, comes on thru behind his interference and be downed like a man, but Byrd doesn't see it that way, and has the time of his young life laughing at the stupidity of the tacklers.

To bring out the best qualities in a man, coaching is one of the most important factors. Young of Lincoln is that rare bird known as a "popular coach," and a good mixer. He doesn't drive his men, but leads them, he tells them what to do then goes in and does it.

BEST COACH IN WORLD.

Lincoln players believe Young is the best coach in the world and will swear by him. That spirit has helped to make Lincoln a winning team.

In Byrd, Lee, Taylor and Goodman, Lincoln has one of the fastest backfields in the country. Outside of Jimmy Shields of Union, the speed of these backs have not been equalled. Howard's backfield is rather light, only averaging 148½ pounds and they failed to take advantage of several opportunities offered on November 27.

Howard's line has the advantage of 11 pounds over Lincoln, but what the Lions lacked in weight, was made up in speed.

In Crudup with his educated toe, Lincoln has a kicker that has only been equalled by Garbisch of West Point. His placement kicks were perfect and went straight to the mark, with unerring accuracy.

HOWARD GIVES THRILLS

The thrill of seeing a "hand over" formation, brilliantly executed went to Howard.

Coach Morrison gave his team a new forward pass formation which with a team other than Lincoln, should have been a ground gainer.

His huddle play with the whole team five yards back in a mass and swaying dizzily back and forth like a rocking chair was not only absolutely unique and original, but it was highly spectacular. Nothing could fool the well coached and experienced Lincoln team. It was fool-proof.

Every year, Howard and Coach Morrison give us a thrilling new play that is worth going miles to see.

Howard Unable To Stop Byrd, Lancaster Shares the Limelight, Old Grads March Behind Band

Washington-Griffith Stadium, Thanksgiving Day.—A crowd of 18,000 persons who came to the Capitol from nearly every State of the Union saw Lincoln's football warriors crush Howard, 31-0.

Never before in 30 years of football history of the two schools has a Howard team suffered such a defeat. Back in 1916 Howard beat Lincoln, 26-0, and four years later 42-0, but the best Lincoln has ever been able to beat Howard until today has been 13-0.

The defeat was complete. Lincoln scored the first touchdown in 15 minutes, and at intervals thereafter added 3 additional scores and a goal from placement. Howard athletes fought gamely, but the defeat became a rout, a disaster, and well nigh a debacle.

Jazz Byrd Gets Loose

Over and through the broken Howard cohorts flitted the spirit like "Jazz" Byrd, son of a New Jersey preacher, for runs from 10 to 50 yards.

Time after time the whole stadium arose and cheered as this twenty-year-old youth apparently defying all laws of gravitation as propound by Sir Isaac Newton, dodged and twisted his way goalward.

Like a drop of mercury, Howard men put their fingers on Byrd only to find out he had slipped to one side. He sidstepped, dodged, skipped, jumped and twisted from the grasp of eleven men as if they never existed. Downed, he rolled over, crawled, was up and gone again with the speed of the wind.

Before the end of the game he was one tired young man. Knocked unconscious, his comrades picked him up to tote him off the field. He recovered before they reached the sidelines, and was back in the game apparently as fresh as ever.

"Red" Grange and Fritz Pollard have to take a back seat in the race for world's champion football ground gainers. That honor belongs to Byrd only.

Some Lincoln Team

Backing him up were Bal Taylor, of Baltimore, Lee, Anderson and Goodman in the Lincoln backfield—fast—lions on the defensive—experts at clearing a path for Byrd.

At the ends Lancaster and Captain Crudup followed every play with the scent of a bloodhound, recovering Howard fumbles, hurrying forward passers and generally making life miserable for Howard's backfield. Besides kicking four goals from touchdown, Captain Crudup kicked a placement goal from the 30 yard line and barely missed another, winding up his college career in a blaze of glory.

Big Morgan Shines

Morgan was billed to play centre, but he was all over the field and with Calloway, Wilson and Henry caught Howard runners before they started.

To Grasty, a left tackle, went the honor of breaking thru in the first period and blocking Dodson's kick, which Lancaster recovered on the 6 yard line and later carried over for a touchdown by the forward pass route.

LANCASTER MORE HERO

The second score came in the second quarter when Lancaster blocked Dodson's punt. Captain Crudup recovered and ran 25 yards to Howard's 10-yard line. A pass, Goodman to Lancaster, gained 9 yards and Taylor took the ball over.

Lancaster made the third score by himself, when he picked up Dodson's fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

BYRD'S LONG RUN

Byrd ran around right end 43 yards for Lincoln's fourth touchdown early in the third quarter. Crudup also kicked a placement goal from the 25 yard line in this period.

"WATCHING" BYRD ON EVERY PLAY

First Period

Byrd ran kickoff back 15 yards.

Byrd unable to gain at right end.

Byrd failed to gain at left end.

Byrd caught Dodson's kick on his 43 yard line and ran it back 6 yards.

Dodson's kick went over Byrd's head and at midfield and rolled to Lincoln's 30 yard line. "Jazz" could not get a chance to pick it up and run. Dodson's kick traveled 66 yards.

Dokes and Miller stopped Byrd without gain.

Second Period

Byrd intercepted McLean's pass on his 35 yard line.

Byrd got under Dodson's kick, but too many men were around him and he made no effort to catch the ball.

Byrd fumbled a pass from centre. Campbell was on him and nearly recovered. The play lost 5 yards.

Third Period

Byrd got 9 yards in a twisting run around right end.

Byrd and Crudup dropped back for a goal from placement. Byrd took the pass from center and threw to Crudup who started to run with the ball and then forward passed to Byrd. Howard men broke threw and the pass grounded.

A pass from Crudup to Byrd on the same formation was knocked down by McLean on the 5-yard line.

Byrd ran around right end 43-yards for a touchdown. His speed was amazing so long as anyone was in front of him. When he reached the 10-yard line he slowed up to a walk.

Byrd ran around right end for 9 yards. Slaughter made a diving tackle and Byrd jumped over his head.

Byrd tried to get through center, but Howard's forward was too fast for him and he struggled and tussled, throwing off four or five tacklers until he was down on Howard's 41-yard line.

Campbell threw Byrd for 10-yard loss.

Byrd trotted through right tackle for six yards.

Byrd's pass to Taylor added 2 yards at right end.

Byrd and Crudup dropped back for placement kick from the 38-yard line. The ball was under the goal post.

Fourth Period

Byrd crawled through right tackle for 5 yards.

Byrd ran around right end for 40 yards to Howard's 5-yard line, first down. The ball was called back to the 20-yard line where he stepped outside.

Byrd got 1 yard at center.

Dodson standing behind his goal post kicked over Byrd's head to the 30-yard line, where Byrd was thrown by Sallie and Mitchell. He jumped up and started to run again, but he was nailed.

Byrd nailed by Brown behind the line of scrimmage. Byrd got up like he was tired.

Byrd started around left end, he was tackled by Dokes, then by Dodson; he finally twisted away but was caught by Dokes after the latter got up.

Byrd tried a run around left end and was thrown by Brown for a 10-yard loss. The ball was called back, but Byrd was hurt. His fellows were carrying him off the field when he recovered and hobbled back swinging his head gear in his hands.

Byrd and Crudup dropped back for placement kick and the ball went to the right of goal post.

Byrd's long forward pass caught by Crudup, who was downed on the 10-yard line.

A thousand fans rushed on the field and swept Byrd off of his feet to the dressing room.

SLANG REPORTER IS KEPT BUSY AT THE BIG GAME

By MATTHEWS

The following is a complete statistical report of the game, for which we feel that we should get a great deal of undeserved credit for compiling this useless information to add to the store of public ignorance:

There were 2,967,848½ cigarettes smoked, 1,245 of which were bought by the smokers themselves, the rest were bummed.

We learned by questioning that 15,479 people had forgotten the scors of last year's game. The others never knew.

There were 8,993 married men in the bleachers. 8,993 wouldn't admit it, but we knew them by the scars. The poor boob who did own up was persuaded by a gentle tap from his wife that broke his collar bone.

There were 99 Millionaires in the crowd, then there were those who thought it was wrong to bootleg.

We found out that some people's idea of higher education is to climb to the top tile of the grand stand at a football game each year. Others think college life consists of only goal posts, shoulder pads and cleated shoes.

There were 742 bald headed men at the game. They didn't take their hats off that's how we knew.

When the college boys came out on the field with their Cow Boy hats and wide leg pants it looked more like a Texas Rodeo than a football game.

ANNUAL CLASSIC WAS A BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

Cream of Nation Represented In Colorful Stadium Crowd of Nearly 20,000 People

RIOT OF SPORT SPIRIT

Howard and Lincoln Followers Made Big Spectacle In Field Group Marches

With a brilliance that eclipsed all previous "annual classics" socials East and Mid-West America turned out from many sections to witness the big Howard-Lincoln game Thanksgiving day.

Profusion of Color

Against the gray sun-streaked sky there was a profusion of color, but looking over that vast throng of perhaps 20,000 men and women, it seemed that by common consent a tinge of brown and crimson had been agreed upon as the color scheme. There were other colors, many of them, but they only served to emphasize the predominance of crimson and brown.

The usual array of fur coats, this year worn also by men, helped to make the crowd a genuine football group.

The Big March

Led by the R. O. T. C. band, hundreds of Howard followers began the big march around the field amid drowning cheers from the grandstand. They were followed by the Lincoln group headed by the Community Center Band.

At this time the spark of enthusiasm had kindled the whole stadium crowd into a tense mass of fighting humanity. Every look, every wave of the hand and every yell from the vieling Lincoln and Howard groups were defies and spirited urgings that the eleven well trained young men on each side that formed the first line trenches of the year's greatest combat.

All Frills Complete

There was also the usual array of photographers and up in the press stand, many Negro journals had corps of reporters ready to cover every feature of the big push.

Every box was filled to capacity. Lincoln-Howard parties were also formed in many sections in both tiers of the great stadium.

Over in the center of the Howard side sat Dr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Durkee and Dr. and Mrs. Emmett J. Scott, flanked by boxes containing many of the institution's old grads.

Banners representing various college groups set off their parties in various sections of the grandstand. This same formation made up the Lincoln side.

Many Social Features

Following the game many social affairs that filled Washington and overflowed into Baltimore ended the eventful occasion. Even before the game several breakfast dances were staged in various parts of the city. The usual formal affairs at the university claimed the attention of a large number of Howardites and visiting guests.
