TOPLESS POTATOES

In a letter received a few days ago by a Brandywine hundred farmer, says the Evening Journal, from a friend in Ohio, the friend says:

"Potatoes without tops are being raised by John Groves, of Salem, Ohio, on a small patch of ground and the fine large 'spuds' are being examined with curiosity and interest by hundreds of citizens and farmers, who have seen a number of them on exhibition. The patch of potatoes was planted by the owner about six weeks ago, after many experiments, and now the bulbs have grown about the size of large hen eggs, without showing the sign of a sprout, but are clean and white and are growing rapidly. Samples will be sent to the state experimental station at Wooster by the grower, who come from their potato bug slaughter to gaze in wonder on the topless crops of tubers.

Ellis Hicks says that when Delaware grows the topless potatoes the farmer may be able to get men to work on farms for $25 a month. The top potato, Mr. Hicks says, drives the farmer's son to the city to accept an $8 a week job with board extra.

A Centreville Couple in Trouble.

As a result of an appeal for aid to the Charity Organization at Centerville by Mrs. Bella Wooden and her five children, Eugene Lee Wooden was arrested Tuesday in Baltimore by Detectives Dick and Dougherty on the charge of bigamy.

Appealing to State's Attorney Keating of Queen Anne's county to help find her husband, who, she said, had deserted her and her five children, Mrs. Wooden tearfully told her tale.

Mrs. Wooden, who was a Miss Andrew, said she was married on April 10, 1889, to Wooden at Aberdeen, by Rev. Henry Smith. About a year or so ago, she said, her husband stayed away from home, and when he returned and she upbraided him he tried to tear up the marriage certificate. Later, she said, he returned after another long absence and destroyed it.

The Baltimore police, after investigating, secured evidence indicating that Wooden had married Miss Eva Nichols, of Centreville, in June last.

After following up clues, Detectives Dick and Dougherty arrested Wooden on description at 612 N. Washington street, where he was living with wife No. 2, while wife No. 1, it is said, with her five children, has been taken care of by the Charity Society.
