Dozier's Horses To Play Wonderland

Educated Animals Locally Trained To Be "Free Act," Sunday

Wonderland Park got away to a wonderful start on last Sunday. Crowds of pleasure-seekers filed thru the turnstiles and were entertained by Dixon's Orchestra and the other attractions.

Easter Monday, the attendance while somewhat below the preceeding day was of sufficient size as to bring no fronws to the brow of the management.

With the fast approach of real outdoor weather park officials look forward to a banner year. Next Sunday, Dozier's Trained Horses, trained by Will Dozier, of Wilson Park, one of the best animal acts now performing will appear as the "free act." These two educated animals, Major and Starlight perform in a manner that is starflinly human. Their routine consists of counting, waltzing, and other tricks that can only be duplicated by the best trained circus horses.

Much favorable comment was heard about the extension of the entrance to the car line and other innovations introduced this year.

CEVELAND COP BROKE UP BURGLAR GANG

Harvey Cited As Example Of Race Officer Who Has Made Good

THREE YEARS ON FORCE

Officials Recently Assigned Him To Detective Bureau In Plain Clothes

Ninth of series of AFRO articles on Colored cops in cities who have made good.

Cleveland, Ohio—Hampton Harney, of the Cleveland police force stands out as one of the most outstanding resourceful of Cleveland's sworn guardians of the law.

Joining the forces in July, 1922, Harney was detailed early in December to surprise and capture four hold-up men who were reaping a harvest from drug stores all over the city. These desperadoes had visited the Carnegie Drug company, East 36th and Cedar avenue, and were famous for returning to the scene of their robberies for a second time. Accordingly he was assigned to guard the store on the inside.

Shortly after Harney's death watch began the four men entered and backed the proprietor almost into the muzzle of Harney's gun. In the shooting that followed, Harney shot two of the robbers and captured the other two. For this he was cited by the department.

Since February 1st, Harney has been assigned to the plain clothes squad of the force and now has been assigned as detective in the Detective Bureau.

Miss Olga E. Mills spent the week end in Washington, the guest of Miss Alma Edwards.
