Tuberculosis Sunday.—Perhaps no incident in the great campaign to stamp out tuberculosis is more significant than the proposition to have the churches of the United States take a definite part by establishing a national "Tuberculosis Sunday." The very fact that a large proportion of the 33,000,000 church-going Americans will hear some truths and receive some instruction which will enable them to order their physical lives better seems to bring the subject distinctly within the province of the church. It is to be hoped that every congregation in this community will accede to the request now being made by the Maryland Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis and devote at least a part of one service on Sunday, April 24th, to this great, humanitarian movement.
