CORONER'S JURY INDICTS D. C. PHYSICIAN

Dr. James Theophilus Blue Held For Alleged Illegal Operation

16 YR. SCHOOL GIRL DIES

Several Freedmen's Physicians Called To Testify In The Case

Washington, D. C.—A coroner's jury Tuesday ordered Dr. James Theophilus Blue, of 1825 Thirteenth St. held for the action of the grand jury in connection with the death of Helen Houston, 16 year old school girl, 1211 K street, S. E.

ILLEGAL OPERATION

He is charged with having performed an illegal operation that resulted in her death at Freedmen's Hospital on April 18th. The operation is said to have been performed in his office on Saturday, March 14th.

The girl was removed from her home to Freedmen's Hospital upon the advice of Dr. William G. Lofton, 1337 Eleventh Street, N. W., on April 16th. She died two days later.

She was first arrested last Friday, April 17th, on a charge of having performed an illegal operation. Detective Sanders, who was released on $3000 bond. After the death of the girl, he was again arrested about 1.30 o'clock Saturday morning and was released on $3000.

Girl's Statement

At the inquest Tuesday morning Detective Sanders, who was detailed to investigate the case, told the coroner's jury that on April 17th he went to Freedmen's Hospital where found Helen Houston in a critical condition.

The girl told him, he said, that on Friday night, March 27th, she asked her mother went to the office of Dr. Blue at 304 F Street, S. W. The doctor did not give her any treatment that night, but told her to return the next day and he would give her an examination and bring some money with her, Detective Sanders testified.

On Saturday evening, she returned for treatment with her sister, Mrs. Sallie Ingram.

Detective Sanders said the girl stated she paid him $30. The detective produced a copy of this check.

She returned to her home and that night she was taken with severe pains, the detective said, and the next day, Sunday, March 29th, she had her mother call Dr. Blue but he did not come until Monday evening.

Drew Savings

Detective Sanders also produced copies of several copies of prescriptions, which had been given the girl. One of these prescriptions which had been given and filled after the abortion is supposed to have occured, contained a mixture of opiat, codeine and opium.

The mother of the dead girl testified that on Friday, March 27th, she went with her daughter to see Dr. Blue, but at that time she did not know what the trouble was other than her daughter complained of pains in the stomach and headaches.

At o'clock Sunday morning, following her daughter's second visit to the office of Dr. Blue, Helen complained and told her that Dr. Blue had used an instrument.

She said that she called Dr. Blue early Sunday morning, but he did not show up until about 8 o'clock Monday night. He promised to return the next day, she said, but did not.

Another Doctor Called

On Easter Sunday, Dr. Lofton was called in. He wanted to send Helen to the hospital, but she did not want to go. Thursday, Dr. Lofton was again called, and he sent the girl to the hospital.

While Dr. Lofton was there Tuesday, Dr. Blue came up, the mother testified, and when she informed him that she was going to send Helen to the hospital, he said it was not necessary. When she insisted, Mrs. Houston stated, Dr. Blue became angry, whirled around, took his grip off the table and told her to go ahead, send her to the hospital.

Internes Testify

Dr. Dorothy E. Bowling, an interne at Freedmen's hospital, testified as to the hospital examination of Helen by Dr. Ross, the visiting physician. She said that her condition was critical when she was brought to the hospital, her temperature was about 100, her pulse about 148 and her respiration about 48. The girl, she said, complained of severe pains. A tenderness in the abdomen was found.

Physicians Disagree

Dr. Bowling said that so far as she was concerned the examination did not show that abortion had been performed on the girl.

Dr. Albert H. Armstrong, another interne in the same ward with Dr. Bowling, in whose presence the examination had also been made, said emphatically that the history of the case and symptoms showed that criminal abortion had been performed.

Dr. Lofton testified that when he examined the girl on April 12th, his diagnosis was pregnacy.

Dr. Edwin J. Watson, of 1645 12th Street, N. W., testified as to his attending Helen on February 1st and again on March 8th, at which times, he said, her mother directed his attention to her delicate state.

Sister On Stand

Mrs. Sallie Ingram, the sister who accompanied Helen on her visit to Dr. Blue on March 28th, corroborated the testimony that the girl had drawn $30 from the bank and paid Dr. Blue. She said that Helen remained with Dr. Blue in his private office for about a half hour, but did not describe the treatment when she came out.

The autopsy, it was testified, showed that girl had recently had an abortion followed by an infection. Death was due to this infection causing septic matter to be taken into the blood and causing peritonitis.

Dr. Blue has retained Attorneys Wm. E. Leahy and August W. Gray to represent him.

Wife's Plea Loses Her Alimony

Washington, D. C.—Justice Hoehling in equity court No. 1, last Friday denied temporary alimony to Littie Berry, who is suing her husband, David Berry, of 1733 Oregon avenue, northwest, for a divorce.

Mrs. Berry was granted temporary alimony on March 6. Shortly afterwards she filed an amended bill, in which she claimed that David Berry had a wife from whom he had not been divorced at the time of their marriage.

Attorney John Wilson, who represents Mr. Berry, immediately asked the court to set aside its previous order granting temporary alimony on the ground that the marriage was invalid and she was not entitled to it.

Both Mr. Wilson and Attorney Charles E. Robinson, who represents Mrs. Berry, submitted briefs and on last Friday Justice Hoehling set aside the order granting her temporary alimony.

Mrs. Ada Hawkins Claims Her Husband Is Their Father

MRS. GOODRICH MOTHER

One Born Recently Says Wife, Who Makes Sensational Charges

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Ada Hawkins, of 2325 Champlain street, northwest, through Attorney George E. C. Hayes, has filed suit for an absolute divorce from her husband, John H. Hawkins, who was named as the co-respondent in a suit recently filed by Richard H. Goodrich, of 107 Bates street, northwest, against his wife, Beatrice Goodrich.

Charges Repeated

Mrs. Hawkins names Beatrice Goodrich as the co-respondent in her suit and repeats the sensational charge made by Mr. Goodrich that his wife had given birth to a child whose father is Mr. Hawkins.

In her bill of complaint, Mrs. Hawkins says that she and her husband lived happily together after their marriage at 329-A Elm street, northwest, but after a short period his attitude changed and he showed signs of having tired of her and would not contribute sufficiently toward her support and maintenance. She says that his regular weekly contribution to cover her clothing and food was only $6.

He gave his time and attention to others, Mrs. Hawkins says, and would come into the house and get his meals and go immediately into the streets and remain until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning.

Corespondent Displaced Wife

It came to her attention, says Mrs. Hawkins, that her husband was paying unusual and improper attention to Beatrice Goodrich.

In conducting a confectionery concession in the Pythian Building, Twelfth and U streets, northwest, he discontinued her services, she claims, and put in her place the Goodrich woman.

Mrs. Hawkins claims that she was forced to leave her husband because of his neglect on October 22, 1922, since which time she has been entirely without support from him.

Shortly after her forced separation from him, Mrs. Hawkins alleges that a child was born to Beatrice Goodrich, which she has since been informed and believes is the result of the illicit and adulterous relationship between Hawkins and Mrs. Goodrich, whom, she says, was living separate and apart from her husband at that time.

Lives With Corcoran

After she left him, Mrs. Hawkins charges that her husband moved to 2903 Sherman avenue, northwest, and Beatrice Goodrich likewise moved to the same address and he held Mrs. Goodrich out as his wife. She also claims that he is now living and cohabiting with her in this adulterous relationship.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were married in the District of Columbia by the Rev. Friend Jarvis, on October 18, 1917. Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich were married here on November 14, 1908. The latter couple lived together until April 14, 1921.

Mr. Goodrich claims that his wife bore two children for Hawkins. The first, he says, was born about September 16, 1922, and the other about July 15, 1924.

They were married on June 11, 1914, by the Rev. Father Richie, of St. Cyprian Church. They have no children.

Druggist And Wife Ready To Fight

Washington, D. C.—James W. Douglass, a druggist, whose wife is suing him for a limited divorce, has retained Attorneys T. Morris Wampler and Robert E. Lynch to defend the suit. He has not yet answered his wife's charges.

His wife, Mrs. Dorothy E. Douglass, is represented by Attorneys Lambert, Yeatman and Canfield. She charges cruelty and failure to provide properly for her and her children. She also says that Dr. Douglass is addicted to drink.

Dr. Douglass is the proprietor of a drug store at Fourth and Elm streets, northwest.

All of the attorneys in the case are white.

W. B. & A., Hated For "Jim Crow" Is Haled In Court Again

D. C. LAWS ARE CITED

Regulations Expressly Forbid Discrimination On Ground Of Color

Washington, D. C.—As a result of the refusal to permit colored persons to ride on the "Bowie Special," an electric train run over the lines of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway Company direct from the terminal at 12th street and New York avenue, northwest, to the Prince George's racetrack at Bowie, Md., three suits for $10,000 damages each were filed in the District Supreme Court last Monday against the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway Company and J. G. Faircloth.

Reputations Injured

The suits were brought through Attorneys Charles H. Houston and J. T. Settle by Charles H. Flagge and Thomas H. R. Clarke, real estate agents, 810 F street, northwest, and J. T. Settle, lawyer, 613 F street, northwest.

They allege that by reason of the discrimination against them on account of race or color, they were subjected to and did suffer deep humiliation and shame, great mental anguish, and their reputations as reputable and respected citizens were seriously injured.

They say that about April 1, 1925, an advertisement of the "Bowie Special" inserted in local papers and in accordance with it they made their reservations on it for April 4, personally purchased their tickets at the general ticket office at the terminal and presented themselves shortly before train time to board the train as passengers.

When they attempted to board the train, they alleged that the agents of the defendants unlawfully discriminated against them and publicly embarrassed, humiliated, insulted and intimidated them, and excluded them from the train, repudiated their contracts and refused to transport them in breach of their obligation to them as common carriers. This was done, they say, solely on account of the fact that they are persons of Negro blood and descent.

Discrimination Prohibited

They further allege that the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway Company as common carriers of passengers for hire was bound to receive them for carriage without discrimination.

They say that it is expressly prohibiting in its business from making or enforcing any regulation excluding Negroes or persons of Negro blood from any car, which it maintains, operates, manages or controls.

Two sections of the laws governing common carriers by railroad in the District of Columbia are cited in their declarations. One provides that there shall be no regulation excluding any person from any car on account of color.

The other section provides that the provision prohibiting any exclusion from any car on account of color already applicable to the Metropolitan Railway Company shall extend to every railroad in the District of Columbia.

The wounded man and body of his wife were taken to Freedmen's Hospital, where Dr. Marsman officially pronounced the woman dead. Stewart is not expected to recover.

Detectives Fowler and Flaherty, Sergt. Dalhouse and Policeman Lineberg investigated the shooting. They were told that Stewart appeared at the house, went to his wife's room and engaged in a minute's conversation before the woman was heard to scream.

He was released in bonds of $1,500.

The indictment, on which he was arraigned, charges him with the illegal manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor on July 25, 1924. It was returned by the grand jury on April 6, last.

Jackson was the storm center in the controversy between Columbia Lodge No. 85, Improved Benevolent Order of Elks of the World, and Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson. Traffic Judge Warns

Night court in the traffic division, which opened here April 1st, has been doing a tremendous business. If persons violate a traffic regulation at night they are immediately taken into the night court and tried.

Monday night, Judge Isaac Hitt heard 22 cases. He said, "men and women, too are soon going to jail before they know it," in a lecture to a large audience on the new traffic rules.
