Household Suggestions

When fruit has fermented, reheat it, add a little sugar, and make into pies or tarts. Before heating milk in a saucepan, rinse the pan with water, and it will not scorch so easily. To freshen shredded cocoanut, soak it in sweet milk a few minutes before using it. Bread should never be wrapped in cloth, as the latter absorbs moisture and imparts an unpleasant taste. To oil a jelly-roll without cracking it, turn it out of the baking-pan on a cloth wrung out of cold water. As you spread with jelly, the steam from the wet cloth will prevent cracking, and help you do a neat job.

How many ever tried adding a little baking powder to boiled icing for cakes? It is also good to add to mashed potatoes, as it makes them light and fluffy. Try pouring a cupful of kerosene down the sink; it will kill roaches and will not injure the pipes.

When you have overalls to wash, try soaking them for several hours in year, cold water, then lay them on the washboard, and scrub with a kitchen scrubbing-brush. You will find the lather greatly reduced, and the color will remain fast through a good many washings. Rinse and hang in the shade, dripping; after a thorough shaking, they will dry smooth.

Have you a pair of silk stockings in which a thread has been dropped, making a run? Try using a fine crochet-hook to mend it. Pick up the dropped stitch and continue crocheting all along the raveled part, taking care to pick up every thread as you work, and fasten the last stitch securely with needle and thread. If two or more stitches have been dropped, the stitch is wider, but continue working each stitch, in a straight line. If the work is carefully done, the mend will hardly be detected.

When making nightgowns for the baby, use snaps to fasten them. They are much handier, and save sewing on buttons or hunting safety-pins. Blackberries and apples make a nice combination for pie, as does rhubarb and pineapple. Take a can of shredded pineapple, and a can of rhubarb, sweeten and bring to a boil, then add a tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a little cold water. Bake with two crusts. I have three little ones, two boys of four and two years, and a baby girl of five months, and greatly appreciate any suggestions on child-training.

A Novel Pocketbook

Don't throw away old inner tubes, or very handsome pocketbooks can be made of them. A leather punch and a pair of scissors are the only tools required. Cut in two pieces and lace together with narrow strips, through holes punched evenly on the edge. Cut deep fringe which may be added or a part of original pieces. There are many shades of tubes, and the bags can be decorated with any design cut with leather punch. They are more beautiful than can be imagined, and being sold for $1.00 each.

Try This Sometime

Instead of gathering lace pull the second thread from the top until sufficiently full, then tie and break off thread, sewing through the first.

Adhesive Tape for Electric Iron Cord

When the cord of your electric iron becomes worn and frayed just bandage it with adhesive tape, and it will last months longer.

Raising Raisin Bread

If you are not always successful making raisin bread, try heating the raisins in hot water for ten minutes before putting them in dough. The warmed raisins act as little heaters, prompting the raisin process.

Buy Cider Vinegar Now

If you like pure cider vinegar to put up your pet pickles, then buy 2 or 3 gallons of it now. Put it in gallon bottles, jugs or fruit jars and put away and forget about it until next August. The vinegar will be so strong it will be necessary to dilute it.

MORE VOODOO

dropped along with the statement of his seven-year-old daughter. However a charge of practicing medicine without a license has been preferred against him.

Saturday the "voodoo" man was visited by a local theatrical man who desired the "doctor" to place his name on a contract for his appearance at a local theatre. The police authorities declared they would prevent his appearance on the stage in this city. But it was not known whether he did so or not.

Cop Under A Spell

Patrolman Howard Fisher, the colored officer who arrested Hyghcock, and exposed one of the greatest sensations in this city declared Friday that he had begun to feel the "spell" of the smallone man's curse, was reported worse Saturday.

Fisher remained on duty Friday morning, although he declared he was seeing stars, ringing bells ringing and felt the spell of the witch doctor gripping him.

Friday night, Fisher requested permission to report off duty, with the announcement that he was getting worse. It was granted.

Samuel Brown, a former patient of the medicine man, levied on the effects of Hyghcock's house to satisfy a judgment of $1,134.88 obtained here in November, 1924.

Bought Love Powder

He sued to recover money paid the doctor for treatments and love powders. In addition to paying $75 for a belt which the voodoo man said would keep away evil spirits, Brown bought a powder which the "doctor" attributed would make his girl love him more. He also bought a powder to use on his hands to enable him to lick an enemy. When he tried it the enemy licked him. Brown also bought powders to cure disease. The attachment was secured by former Judge French as counsel for Brown, and stipulated that everything in his house be seized.

Practically Wrecked Home

"Dr." Hyghcock, may bring some kind of a suit against somebody for wrecking his house, destroying his personal property and allowing an enthusiastic souvenir-hunting public to trample through his place and carry off everything but the voodoo himself.

If the medicine man's lawyer can decide who is responsible for general trespassing, the destruction and the alleged disregard for Hyghcock's property rights, a suit for damages may be instituted, all that is needed is a good defendant, attorneys admitted.

Up To Grand Jury

The charge against Hyghcock will go to the grand jury. He is accused of practicing medicine without license and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Hyghcock's houses are in a state of confusion, bureau and trunks dumped out, beds upset and partitions constructed by the voodoo man have been ripped from the walls and thrown into the street.

Window frames were removed from the buildings to make it easier for firemen to get rid of the refuse and even these have not been replaced.

Fill Up Tunnels

The back yard has been left a gasping chasm where firemen and police tore the roof from the voodoo caves and only partly filled the hole.

Late this afternoon, the police department was notified by the owner of the property to fill the large holes in the rear yard of Hyghcock's houses in which he rented. Workmen began to carry out the order.

Traffic Halted

Hyghcock caused quite a stir on Market street shortly before noon when he appeared with his seven-year-old daughter. Traffic was at a stand still and officers were unable to keep it moving. While Hyghcock seemed greatly amused at the excitement, he was causing on the busy thoroughfare.

Neptune Swimming Club Formed At Druid "Y"

The club will be composed of the city's human fish and create added interest in water sports. The members are De'Loss Berry, Ivan Morris, Wm. Dorsey, Albert Burwell, Turner Stevenson and Charles Turter. The Neptunes will compete in a dual match with the boys of Washington during the month of June.
