ALL WORN OUT

Does morning find you with a lame, stiff and aching back? Are you tired all the time—find work a burden? Have you suspected your kidneys? Chestertown people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbors. You can rely on their statements.

Mrs. J. E. Allen, 511 W. High St., Chestertown, says: Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I have ever found for kidney complaint. My kidneys were weak and in a disordered condition. I became run down and had no energy. My back often ached and pained me so it was all I could do to keep going. Headaches were frequent and kept me feeling miserable. The action of my kidneys was never regular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills as directed, from Toulson's Drug Store. They just suited my case. I have never had anything to act so quickly and relieve the aches and pains as Doan's. My energy was restored and my kidneys didn't trouble me, either."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Allen had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

BOYS AND GIRLS AND AGRICULTURE

Farmers Are Confronted With Work That Demands Seven Days' Attention Each Week In The Year

It is sometimes said that agriculture is a system of living rather than a vocation. This is true because of the intimate relation that there is between the home life and the actual producing activities on the farm. The farmer's home is an integral part of his industry; each member of his family soonor or later becomes involved and a part of the producing and marketing operations. From early morning till late at night, father, mother, boys and girls, with the hired man, are engaged with the doing of those things upon which the material well-being of the family depends. Unlike the ordinary business man who leaves his business in the city when he returns to his suburban home, or the industrial worker who devotes eight or nine hours a day to his trade or vocation and leaves the shop, the factory or the store behind when he returns to his home, the farmer and the members of his family are intimately associated with and constantly confronted with work that must receive attention not only five and one-half or six days a week, but for seven. There is but little free time. The opportunities for relaxation and social intercourse are necessarily limited.

What are likely to be some of the effects of this kind of life upon the farmers and the members of his family? The world of the agricultural group of citizens is likely to be narrowed, the vision of life may be limited, the social instincts are in danger of being neglected, and the thought is apt to become self-centered. There is danger that productive labor will come to be regarded as drudgery. The big outside world, with its varied interests and allurements, will seem to offer a means of escape, and our boys and girls will look forward to the time when they can get away (and will do it), or they may become resigned and settle down to live a "hum-drum" existence. This may suggest a reason why so many good farms are being abandoned by young men and women.

The remedy, if there is one, lies in giving boys and girls a viewpoint regarding agriculture. This can be done only through education that fits for social as well as economic efficiency in an agricultural environment, with its possibilities and limitations. It requires an ordering of the life which must take into account the elements that constitute character and personality.

The Junior Extension Service for boys and girls seeks to furnish that kind of an education. They learn through instruction and demonstration, both of which set up concrete standards of achievement in terms that the child can understand. They learn the simple principles of business practice and the value of consistent effort and accuracy. Every project deals with the facts of life upon whose observance the well-being of the individual and family depend. It reaches out into life and can be made to affect conduct in an infinite number of ways.

The club project seeks to educate through self-activity. It recognizes the child as a social being, and through his club activities fosters the social instincts and developes capacity for team work. The instinct to acquire and own is strong in boys and girls. By educating them to produce and possess, lessons in thrift and economy are taught. The feeling of security through the developing consciousness of economic independence is fostered, and the life of the individual and the family is thereby strengthened. As the individual becomes socially and economically efficient, leadership is developed, greater service is made possible and the community which is recognized to be the fundamental civic unit, becomes more capable of accepting and carrying responsibility and solving its own problems.

Big Double Circus Has Vast Program

The announcement that the far-famed Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows are to exhibit at Baltimore, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 18, 19 and 20, has aroused no end of interest. It would seem as though practically all the youngsters and grown-ups in this section are planning to attend.

Twice each day for almost two months New York's great Madison Square Garden was packed with those who thronged to see this biggest program in circus history. They saw scores of the jungle's most ferocious beasts, subjugated to such a degree, that these beautiful animals leaped to and rode on the backs of elephants and horses, jumped through hoops of fire, opened their mouths that their men and women trainers might lay their heads and hands inside them, or leaped from pedestal to pedestal like trained dogs. And these marvelous dumb actors are all on tour with the great double circus. The four immense steel arenas in which they perform are set up in the mammoth main tent. There is no additional charge—everything is on the one program. And by "everything" is meant not only the wild animal displays, but the entire circus. More than 600 men and women, embracing the world's foremost arenic stars, take part. There are almost 100 clowns. Aside from the ferocious beasts, the program includes thirty trained elephants. Troupes of camels perform in the rings. There are five companies of trained seals, many dogs, bears, monkeys, pigs and pigeons. Fully seventy trained horses and Shetlands are presented. It is the biggest circus program the world has ever seen given under the largest tent and, in connection, is the famous combined Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey menagarie. The circus will be in Wilmington Saturday, May 21.

—The State Convention of the Daughters of America will be held in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall in Baltimore May 10. Mrs. Horace Reed and Mrs. J. W. Kirby will represent the local order.
