COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS VALUED

PROVE THEIR VALUE AS MONEY SAVERS AND IN WEEDING OUT POOR STOCK.

FAIRER MILK PRICE POSSIBLE

County Demonstration Agents Do Valuable Work in Organization Of Such Associations.

College Park, Md., Feb. 1.—The rapid growth in the organization of cow testing associations in dairy sections of Maryland during the past year has been an important part of dairy extension work. In co-operation with G. E. Wolcott, dairy extension specialist, county demonstration agents are carrying on an active campaign in the organization of cow testing associations out of which in many instances milk producers associations are developing. The records kept by these associations working in co-operation with the county demonstration agents have made it possible for the dairy farmer in Maryland to place his business on a more profitable basis and demand an increase based on accurate figures regarding the cost of producing his milk and maintaining his herd.

In Montgomery county an association representing 565 cows, distributed through 19 herds was organized last spring, and is now being followed by a second organization to meet the needs of the dairymen who could not be included in the first association. Similar developments are being reported in other milk producing counties and are proving most beneficial in welding the dairy interests and in making a better grade of product possible. Dairymen are realizing more and more that their demands for higher prices must be supported by facts tending to show that they are producing milk as economically as is consistent with reasonable sanitary requirements. The cow testing association and the County Demonstration Agent are opening the way to more efficient milk production and fairer returns. The dairyman who is not a member of a cow testing association has no one but himself to thank for poor returns for his capital and labor if he has not read the Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin on Cow Testing Associations, consulted his County Demonstration Agent, and urged his neighbors to join with him in forming a local association.

The Successful Beekeeper.

College Park, Md., Feb. 1.—In a recent correspondence course on bee keeping issued by the State College of Agriculture, the writer, E. N. Cory, says of beekeeping in Maryland, "More bees should be kept in the State, but only those persons willing to care for and manage them properly should think of taking up this profitable line of farming.

Bees demand a great amount of study, thought and sympathetic care in their successful management. The qualifications, therefore, of the beekeeper, who would be successful, should be considered with great care."

"In the first place, studious habits are essential. Though the literature of beekeeping is a vast storehouse of information about the life processes of the bee, the underlying causes of many of the activities of the colonies are little understood. Study of bees, themselves, and the literature pertaining to them are the cardinal points in successful beekeeping.

"Energy is the second qualification. Without a study, however, much energy may be wasted in unprofitable directions. The performance of the proper operations at the right time is of vast importance. Sometimes it may seem that a thing may be put off, but you may be sure that everything that is to be done in the apiary has a definite time for its accomplishment, that will not admit of delay. Putting on supers a day too late may make a big difference in the amount of comb honey produced.

"Patience is another valuable attribute. Things are sure to go wrong at times. The honey flow may be bad for several years at a stretch. Patience therefore is of great importance.

"Though these attributes are necessary, they may be developed one or all, by the mere association with the bees, the most energetic, patient and careful workers in the lower animal kingdom."

Prepare to keep an account of the year's business. Open an account book. Transcribe the farm inventory onto this book. Keep a daily account of receipts and disbursements. If time permits carry separate accounts with the more important phases of the farm operations, such as dairying, poultry products, hog raising and the like. Separate accounts should be carried with each farm laborer and with the neighbors and others with whom continuous transactions are made.—From Lessons in Elementary Agriculture, issued by the Maryland State College of Agriculture.

DEATH OF MR. PORTER, OF ROCK HALL.

Mr. Porter, who was found dead Saturday morning of January 27th last along the public road leading from his home at Edesville towards Rock Hall, was one of the oldest residents of lower Kent, being in his 75th year, and was a well known citizen of that locality.

His was a life of loving sacrifice and untiring devotion to his family and country, for nothing else claimed his attention more than the comfort and welfare of these. He was a kind and affectionate husband and father.

In early life he answered the call of his country to the colors, and on October 1, 1862, enlisted as a private in Company D, Eastern Shore (Md.) Infantry, and was honorably discharged June 15, 1865, during which time he was in some of the most important engagements of the Civil War, one among these being the battle of Gettysburg.

The remainder of his life has been spent in the pursuit of various domestic occupations, one particular that of beekeeping, in which he was exceptionally adept. Over half his life was spent in this county.

He is survived by his second wife and four children, two boys and two girls, and a daughter (Mrs. Josephine Diehl) by his first wife.

The funeral services were held at Wesley Chapel M. P. Church, conducted by Rev. J. W. Prettyman, pastor of Rock Hall M. E. Church, assisted by Rev. E. C. McCullogh, pastor of Wesley M. P. Church. Casey Bros., funeral directors, in charge. The bearers were Samuel T. Burgess, Joseph Hynson, Nicolas Drear, Wm. Bramble, A. Casey and Charles Downey. The interment was in Wesley cemetery.

"OLD EASTERN SHORE"

I came from a land of corn and wine,
Of peaches and apples and fruits divine;
Of roses and scrubberies, all manner of kind,
Fill the air with perfume in the glad sunshine.
Where oysters and crabs lay thick at your door;
That land is called, "The old Eastern shore."

Old dear Eastern Shore, the land of my birth;
Where the angels guard over our parents who sleep in its earth.
Which fill us with memories of days of yore,
Of our first youthful hopes on "Old Eastern Shore."

Where the frogs in the meadows "croak" as one passes by;
Where the "Diamond Back" terrapins are caught on the sly.
Where the negro was reared from the bonds of a slave,
To distinction and honor on life's political wave.
Where the swan paddles by with its beauty of yore,
And ducks and wild geese pass by with a roar.

Oh! That beautiful shore, just over the bay,
Where the children are taught in the old-fashioned way.
Where governors and statesmen are proud to say,
"This is the land of my boyhood days,"
When Heaven decrees that time shall be no more,
May God in His mercy bless "Old Eastern Shore."

WAGES?

There is high authority for the statement that the laborer is worthy of his hire. It may be assumed that this calls for a careful weighing of the wage against the net result of the labor, and that it is as unjust to pay too much as too little for work done. On this basis will some one kindly suggest what should be paid to the members of the Pennsylvania legislature for the month just closed? Their record of achievement on February 1 was summarized by a leading daily paper as follows:

Number of days since legislature convened, 31. Number of days it met, 5. Time it was actually in session, 8 hours and 45 minutes. Number of employees paid by the day, 200. Average daily wage, $7. Total hours employes had been in attendance, 1,750. Number of hours for which employes had been paid (at 24 hours a day) 148,800. Accomplishments of the legislature, 0.

The farmer is accused of being inefficient, unbusiness-like and wasteful. Granting that he is at times, how long would he permit his hired men to continue on such a record as that quoted here?

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. NELLIE FISHBACK, 1521 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.
