AT a largely attended meeting of the tax-payers of Queen Anne's County, which meeting was called by the Co. Commissioners to consider the bonding of that county for $88,000 for school purposes, the proposition was unanimously voted down.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

Items Gleaned From The Proceedings Of The General Assembly That Will Interest Our Readers

Maryland's Anti-Cursing Law, enected in 1793, will remain on the statute books so far as this General Assembly is concerned. The bill to repeal the law was killed in the House. Generally known as the Blasphemy Law, the existing act prohibits using the Lord's name in blasphemy, cursing or profanity under maximum penalty of $100 fine or six months' imprisonment. Another section of the act imposes a fine of 25 cents for the first curse word and 50 cents for each succeding oath in the presence of any justice of the peace, sheriff, coroner, county clerk or constable.

As announced in this paper some time ago, Centreville will receive a $50,000 armory from the State of Maryland. The bill introduced to give Baltimore City control of the entire fund to be received from the sale of property in Baltimore was defeated.

The squabble over the distribution of the money expected from the North avenue lot was continued in the Senate Monday when Senator McDaniel, of Talbot, offered a substitute for the amendment submitted by Senator Robins, of Somerset, which provided that all in excess of that expended for the four armories named in the bill be devoted to the building of an armory at Crisfield. This substitute left it discretionary with the Board of Public Works and Adjutant General to build an armory at Crisfield or Easton, or at both.

Neither the Anti-Saloon League's Prohibition Enforcement Bill nor the Anti-Gambling Bill, prohibiting betting on horse races, will be taken up in the Senate this week, it is thought. These measures passed the House last week. It is understood that neither side is sure of its ground as the situation stands now, and that both are willing to delay action on the two important measures.

The Anti-Saloon League's Prohibition Enforcement Bill was introduced in both branches of the Assembly—in the House by Delegate Funkhouser of Washington county and in the Senate by Senator Robb, of Allegany. The measure which has gone to the Senate is not quite the original bill.

The Anti-Saloon League's Enforcement Bill, which has come over from the House, was schedulted to be referred by President Norris to the Senate Finance Committee. The committee has 15 days in which to make its report, and it may be that the report will not be unduly rushed.

The Senate Committee on Judicial Proceedings on Tuesday reported unfavorably a bill introduced by Senator Harrison, of Worcester county, providing for taxes on motor vehicles. The bill would add a new section to read as follows:

Section 5A.—For all the purposes of this act, a motor vehicle shall be deemed to be a motor vehicle used in the public transportation of passengers for hire, and operating on a specified route over state, state-aid improved county roads and streets and roads of incorporated towns and cities in the State of Maryland, even when it is so used and so operated in the transportation of only a particular class or group of individuals over such streets and roads, provided that it is habitually employed in the transportation of such class or group of individuals over such streets or roads under some continuous contract or arrangement written or otherwise with such class or group of individuals. On motion of Senator Harrison the bill was placed on the hold-over file.

Washington College practically passes to state control under the terms of a bill which passed the Senate Tuesday. Introduced by Senator Russell, at the request of the college authorities, the bill provides that the governor of the state and the aulmni association of the institution shall each name twelve members of the Board of Governors. Each of the nine counties of the Eastern Shore will have two representatives on the Board, one selected by the governor and the other by the Alumni Association. In addition to those 18 members, the governor and Alumni Association shall select three each, either from outside the state or from counties other than the nine on the Eastern Shore. These 24 members shall annually elect a president, who will be an ex-officio member of the Board of Governors. The controlling board, so appointed, shall serve in rotation, no member holding office longer than six years.

That the taxpayers of the state will not take kindly at this time to the creation of additional offices was the opinion expressed on the floor of the Senate Tuesday by Senator McIntosh, of Baltimore county, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Upper House.

The Anti-Saloon League's Prohibition Enforcement Bill and the Anti-Gambling Bill, prohibiting betting on horse races, as passed by the House last week, are now in Senate committees.

Republican members of the General Assembly went on record Tuesday as disapproving the course of Senator France in opposing the Four-Power Treaty, and while the Senator's name does not appear in resolutions adopted, it is connected by implication and the rebuke administered is as pronounced and as effective as if it were personal.

In its consideration of the budget submitted to the General Assembly by Governor Ritchie, the House Ways and Means Committee is reported to be preparing to make sweeping and drastic cuts in the salary increases allowed by the Chief Executive.

A further hearing on the Sheppard-Towner Act Concurrence Bill has been granted by the Ways and Means Committee following the receipt of a veritable flood of petitions for a favorable report by Delegate Gambrill, chairman of the committee.

A get-together movement was proposed Wednesday by Delegate J. W. Wolfinger to his colleagues for the purpose of deciding upon a course of procedure in the selection of a Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

The United States government has declined the invitation to participate in the Genoa Economic Conference in Europe.

Intended, according to the author, to prevent the recurrence of such gruesome spectacles as have frequently occurred at hangings at Towson and elsewhere in the state, a bill was introduced in the Senate Wednesday by Senator McIntosh providing that all executions take place after the first of next year in the House of Correction.

Among the twelve bills killed in the House Wednesday was the measure introduced by Delegate Grannan, raising the age of consent from 16 to 18 years.

Uniformity in the various county fish and game laws is being sought in the General Assembly as the only practical means of enforcing the laws.

A bill was introduced in the Senate Wednesday by Senator Fox adding 15 articles to the Constitution of the state and designed to grant "equal rights to men."

The bill for fewer elections in this state has been agreed upon at a conference of legislative leaders and Gov. Ritchie. The chief provisions of the bill as agreed upon are:

To hold all state elections with the "off-year" Congressional elections, as distinguished from the Presidential elections.

To elect all county officers at the same election at which the state officers are named.

To elect all state Senators at the same time, for the present four-year terms, instead of half of the Senate each two years, as at present.

To arrange all appointive offices, state and county, to suit the new system.

To change the terms of all state and county offices to four years instead of two, three, four and six, as at present.

The proposed changes, if enacted, will eliminate all elections every other year in the counties of the state.

It is proposed to make the changes effective in the following manner:

If the new article to the Constitution, through which the changes are proposed to be made, is adopted by the voters at the Congressional elections next November, then all state and county officers who are to be elected at the regular state election to be held in November, 1923, shall be elected for different terms. That is, the Governor and Attorney-General shall be named for three years, instead of four; members of the House of Delegates for three years, instead of four, and so forth, in order to bring the state elections up with the Congressional elections by 1926. After that time all of those elected, including members of the House of Delegates, shall be named for four-year terms, thus doing away with the session of the legislature in 1926. The law, if passed, by the Legislature, will be presented to the voters of the state in the form of a referendum at the election in November of this year.

There is talk that another racing bill may be introduced in the Assembly.

The various oyster law bills introduced in the House will be made special business next Tuesday. All the bills except one were reported favorably.

Further reductions in the estimates submitted by Governor Ritchie in the budget are looked for when the House Ways and Means Committee resumes its work of consideration of that voluminous document next week.

—George Evans, a 16-year-old boy from Baltimore, was taken into custody by Sheriff Hadaway on Thursday upon order from Baltimore and returned to Baltimore. The youth is said to have run away from home.

ATLAS
PORTLAND CEMENT

A NEW industry comes to town, or an old one moves into new and better quarters. Either is a credit to the community and to the merchant who thus gives evidence of his progress.

One man has played a possibly unnoticed, but no less essential part in this community improvement—your building material dealer. His investment in a slow moving stock, building materials, is a definite pledge of his belief in the community. His stock and ability to deliver promptly enable you to take advantage of weather conditions, and rush unexpectedly needed construction. Your building material dealer's judgment deservedly has weight. He is the man who has called Atlas Portland Cement "the Standard by which all other makes are measured."
