

white buffalo bull in the field which Mr Herrick assured us was not his - all we can say is that he seemed very much at home for a stranger. His sheep were in fine condition but of common stock. His few hogs are large and in good condition, two young brood sows deserve our notice, but we count very much for his chow they look as if a little corn would not hurt them. He found his barnyard neat and clean and every thing around it presents a tidy appearance. His implements were all well housed and in good order.
