DEATHS

Arnold Starr, aged 2 years, died on June 11. Funeral was held Monday. Rev. J. M. Lindale officiating, interment in Chester cemetery. Undertaker C. L. Dodd.

After traversing the Chester River and the classic Chesapeake—in storm and in sunshine—for nearly a half century, the quiet and kindly spirit of Captain William J. Taylor was on last Wednesday morning wafted into the Peaceful Haven, the shores of which never hears the rumble of the tempestuous sea. He passed to the Great Beyond painlessly and quietly in a place which he had known as home for many years. He leaves many warm friends, both here and in Baltimore, and also along the watercourses where he was best known. Wherever he went and wherever his boat touched he made warm personal friends, who were drawn to him by his genial manner, his friendly smile and by his kindly and happy ways. He was a part of the community for many years, making it richer and better and happier by his life. His sudden death has touched to the quick his innumerable friends, but has left behind him a legacy of work well done, friends that were steadfast and communities that were richer from being touched by his contact. May the sweet memory of Captain William J. Taylor linger with us always and become an everlasting and perpetual jewel in the casket of memory.

Capt. Taylor had been suffering for several years with an affection of the heart and had only recently resumed his position as commander of the Ford. He was found dead in his stateroom on board the steamer. It is stated that upon retiring Tuesday night he was apparently stronger and in improved health, and it is stated that he was on the deck of his vessel as late as 1 a. m.

The deceased was born in Chestertown about 63 years ago and had followed the water all his life. He was a skilled navigator and a most affable officer. Interment took place in Baltimore on Friday.

There was a time when an automobile dealer considered the sale of the car as his entire responsibility to his customer.

But in the nature of things it developed that the automobile owner needed more than a new car to be entirely happy.

We are proud of the fact that we were among the first to recognize and accept the dealer's responsibility for the satisfaction of the owner.
