There is scarcely a day that some Sunday School from Delaware does not pass through Chestertown en route to Tolchester. Betterton, Kent's other bayside resort, is also attracting large numbers of Delawareans.

Child Injured By Vicious Hog

Master Ringgold Elburn, of Queen Anne's, near Chestertown, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elburn, had a narrow escape from a vicious hog the other day.

The little fellow, accompanied by his older brother, were gathering apples in the orchard of Mr. Ramie Zeisal, who resides near them, last Friday, the older boy being up the tree while the younger one was upon the ground. It seems that a somewhat vicious hog, seeing the boys gathering the favorite fruit, became enraged and made for the boy on the ground, who fled, but before he was able to reach a nearby fence, fell to the ground. The animal jumped upon him and began to bite and bruise him with its feet.

The screams of the youngster quickly brought Mrs. Ramie Zeisal and Mrs. Jacob Zeisal to his aid, who seized clubs and beat the hog from the hepless form of the boy.

After carrying the child to the house and washing his wounds, the ladies sent him home, where he was put to bed.

Besides badly frightening the boy, he was bruised in the side and his head was cut. The timely arrival of the two ladies probably saved the life of the boy.

Kent County Man Burned

Earle Lockwood, 23 years old, of Millington, was taken to Union Hospital, Elkton, Saturday night, badly burned about the body, arms and the hands.

Qoung Lockwood was under the auto attempting to stop a leak in the gasoline pipe. His clothing became saturated with gasoline. Another young man who came to his assistance lit a match to enable him to see, and immediately his clothing caught fire, and before the flames could be extinguished he was burned. Dr. Scott, of Galena, was summoned and took the young man to the hospital, where his condition has been serious.

A Storehouse Of Plenty

While every day or two the sad news comes across the seas of some country being in the throes of famine, Kent county is favored in many ways. Chief, perhaps, among these is the vast num- of delicacies which are raised in this section.

Fried chicken has long been a regular part of the daily diet; sugar corn is on the local market in vast quantities; peaches, apples, pears and plums contribute their part, while soft crabs, canteloupes and watermelons have now appeared on the market.
