Bevo

A BEVERAGE

—the home drink

Besides its popularity at drug stores, fountains and restaurants, Bevo has found a welcome place in the home. A family beverage—a guest offering—a table drink that goes perfectly with all food.

As a suggestion for Sunday supper—Sweet red or green peppers stuffed with cream cheese and chopped nuts or olives, served on lettuce leaves. French dressing. Cold meat. Toasted crackers. Bevo for everyone. A beverage that tastes like no other soft drink. Pure, wholesome and nutritious.

Bevo—the all-year-'round soft drink.

BELL TELEPHONE VOLUNTEERS

Over ten per cent. of the male employees of the Company are now engaged in military service. A large portion of the 6,000 Bell System Volunteers are telephone engineers and technically trained men. They leave gaps in the Bell ranks not easily filled. One of our great problems is to readjust our organization, and at the same time to take care of the tremendous increase in telephone traffic with as little impairment to the service as possible.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN FATALLY STRICKEN

World's Most Popular Ring Gladiator Dies Suddenly From Heart Attack.

John L. Sullivan is dead. The former heavyweight champion of the world and the most picturesque figure the prize ring ever knew, passed away Saturday at his home, Doneles Ross Farm, at West Abington, Mass. He was taken ill with heart trouble three weeks ago, but his health improved and he was able to go to Boston Friday. Saturday he fainted and did not recover consciousness for ten minutes. George Bush, a friend who lived with him, applied ice bags to the former champion's head and he rallied.

Sullivan's game fighting spirit was with him to the end. When Bush sent for a doctor John L. said: "I don't want any doctor; I've listened to a lot of them in my life and I know I am all right and I can doctor myself." Sullivan protested when his doctor ordered him to go to bed. "Is the bathroom warm?" asked Sullivan. "Well, that's fine. I want to take a bath." Ten minutes later the white-haired old pugilist was dead. At his bedside when the end came were Dr. Rann, his friend, George Bush, and Willie Kelley, the 15-year-old boy who was adopted by Sullivan.

The prize ring never brought fame to any man as it did to John L. Sullivan. For a period of more than ten years, from the time he defeated Paddy Ryan in 1882, in a bare-knuckle fight under the London prize ring rules, until he was defeated by Jim Corbett in 1892, his personality and methods of fighting dominated sporting circles in this country.

Sullivan was born in Boston on October 15, 1858. His father, Michael Sullivan, was a native of Tralee, County Kerry, Ireland, and his mother was born at Athlone. Sullivan was a rough and tumble fighter in his early days and a terror among the lads of his generation.

Knocks Out First Opponent

The first time he ever took part in a boxing match was when he was 19 years old. A strapping young fighter named Scannell appeared on the stage of a Boston theatre and offered to fight any one in the house. Sullivan, who was in the gallery, accepted the challenge, and in the fight which followed Sullivan knocked out his opponent. Then Sullivan took up prizefighting as a livelihood. He was known as the Boston Strong Boy, for he could lift heavy weights and juggle beer kegs, and one time he is said to have lifted a piano in a test of strength.

John L.'s first fight as a professional was against a scrapper named Cockey Woods. In 1878 Sullivan knocked out Woods with his terrific right. His fame as a fighter spread to other cities, and in that same year he boxed Mike Donovan in Boston, and, after Sullivan had knocked him down two or three times, Donovan had a hard time saving himself from being knocked out.

Sullivan's greatest fights were with Paddy Ryan in 1882, a 39-round bare-knuckle draw with Charley Mitchell, of England, in 1888, and his famous fight with Jake Kilrain in 1889. It was largely through Sullivan's achievements in the ring that the championship title became a great money prize. In the early days of his career $1,000 a side was considered a heavy purse. Sullivan received only $53 for his fight which gave him the right to challenge Paddy Ryan for the championship.

Won Title From Ryan

Sullivan knocked out Paddy Ryan at Mississippi City, Feb. 7, 1882. It was a bareknuckle fight for $5,000 a side and the championship of America. At this fight the expression "knockout" was coined by Billy Maden, Sullivan's trainer. On March 10, Sullivan fought a 39-round draw with bare knuckles against Charlie Mitchell at Chantilly, France. Sullivan's hardest fight was with Jake Kilrain, at Richburg, Minn., on July 8, 1889. The fight lasted 75 rounds and was the last championship fight held in this country under London Prize Ring rules.

That fight practically decided the uselessness of trying to beat Sullivan at his own sledge-hammer style. Charlie Mitchell, a vary, skillful boxer, showed fight managers that John L. would be vulnerable to a man who could box and stay away from him long enough to wear him down.

This opportunity fell to the lot of Jim Corbett, the pompadoured bank clerk of San Francisco. The famous fight was held at New Orleans before the Olympic Club. For twenty rounds the agile, youthful Corbett danced and pranced around the great John L., who became so infuriated that he threw all caution to the winds and made frantic efforts to flatten the youngster with his sledge-hammer right, only to so tire himself he was easy prey for Corbett, who won the championship in the twenty-first round.

In his day Sullivan made more than a million at prizefighting and he admitted that most of it was spent for whisky. After his defeat by Corbett Sullivan changed from the gruff, ruff-and tumble fighter. In spite of his dissipation, Sullivan's remarkably strong physical constitution withstood the ravages of drink. In later years John L. became a mild-mannered, jovial old gentleman. He settled down on his farm in Massachusetts and became a country squire.

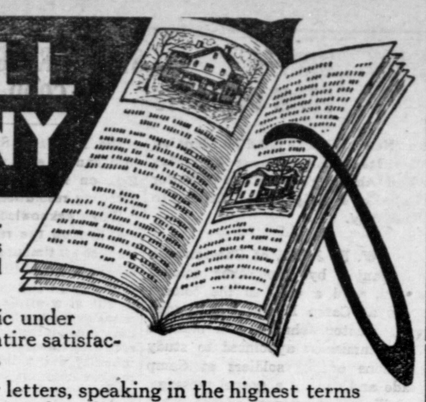
A BOOK FULL OF TESTIMONY



Thousands of Caloric Pipeless Furnaces are owned by as many people—in city, town and country, all over the land.

These owners installed the Caloric under a distinct and definite guarantee of entire satisfaction, or the removal of the furnace.

Hundreds have written voluntary letters, speaking in the highest terms of the Caloric. These letters have been gathered into a quite sizeable book that you may read for yourself if you will call and ask for a copy. This book is for the operator. In fact, the Caloric is guaranteed to make a warmer house on less fuel than any other furnace or heating system. The average amount of fuel saved—as these letters show—is 35%, and the average comfort obtained is 100%.

Do you know of any house-heating system that will beat this record?

The Caloric is a one register furnace. It heats by a natural warm air circulation. Its heat isn't cooled down passing through long crooked pipes, but rises freely and without hindrance from room to room till the whole house is delightfully comfortable. Scientists say that circulated heat is most healthful, and Caloric owners find it true—The Caloric is a perfectly healthful home heater.

You can install the Caloric in any home, new or old, and cheaply. In fact, a cellar isn't absolutely necessary—a pit under the house will do.

We have a Caloric set up and will be delighted to point out its many advantages and money-saving qualities.

Come in and read our surprising guarantee—no other heater can or does make one like it.
