Tired Nervous Mothers

Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. Zielinska, 202 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. Josephine Kimble, 935 West Race Street, Portland, Ind.

MYSTERY OF EEL EXPLAINED

Science Extracts Tale of Its Birth in the Cold, Silent Depths of the Midocean.

"Throughout the ages, wherever men have speared or trapped that hard-dying, slippery eater of carrion, the eel, it has formed the nucleus of much superstitious lore. Until a few decades ago even men of science admitted that the eel embodied one of nature's most puzzling mysteries, because they had been utterly unable to discover when or where or how it mated and multiplied. Today the mystery is solved, and in its place we have another mystery. For such are the strange elusive ways of life that her one reason for permitting us to extend our knowledge seems to be a desire to reveal still more clearly the immensity of our ignorance, writes Edwin Bjorkman in the Century Magazine.

"If on your map of the North Atlantic you draw a triangle connecting the Faroe islands, the Azores and Bermuda with one another, the sides of it will pass through the principal breeding grounds of the common eel. It is born far down in those silent, cold and bitter midsea deeps, where the pressure is like that of hundreds of steel safes on top of one another; where dwell some of the most monstrous and some of the most exquisite organisms known to man, and where the only light ever seen is a pale phosphorescence that flashes from some shadowy hunter or some equally shadowy prey.

"For half a century American, Italian and Danish men of science have been at work coaxing this wonderful tale from the reluctant lips of life, taking down a letter or a word at a time, and reconstructing every passage a score of times before they dared to grant it final acceptance. Even now the tale is not complete, but one needs have no fear; it will be finished some day—up to a certain point."

"HE GOT OFF MIGHTY LIGHT"

This Was Opinion of Frightened Colored Man Regarding Culprit Just Strung Up by Mob.

Representative Thomas Heflin of Alabama is noted as the best story teller of negro dialect in the house. He told the story to friends in the New Willard hotel.

"When I was a young practicing lawyer in Alabama I had a lot to do with colored men, many of whom were my clients. One time a colored man in my district committed a crime, and the community took it upon itself to punish the offender. There was only one punishment fitting the crime—that was hanging. The guilty man was taken out in the early morning and hanged to a tree. Their job completed, the executioners started home. They had proceeded only a short distance from the place where the body dangled when they met an old colored fellow astride a mule, with a sack of oats swung over his shoulders. The black man saw the crowd approaching and he turned ashen, for instinctively he knew what they had been about. The leader of the gang rode up, and in a gruff voice declared:

"'You know us and we know you. If you say anything about this affair, the same fate awaits you.'

"'Deed, boss, I ain't gwine t' say nothin', I thinks he got off mighty light, m'se'f.'"

Living on Calories.

The cheapest eating in the world is rice and peanuts, measured by the calories, which constitute the only real test. The former costs 5 cents per 1,000 calories and the latter 7 cents. So that, if a person would eat a good helping of rice and wind up by a plentiful dessert of peanuts, he would get more muscle, brain, nerve and bone out of it than he would out of a diet of roast beef and potatoes. There is no attention paid to the value of food in practical living. Our sole guide is what hits our appetite. We want what "we'd ruther," as the poor woman told Jane Addams. It is going in and buying potatoes by the pile, without regard to the bushels or pecks. There is twice as much living in some kinds of foods as in others, and yet we pass up our plate perfectly unconcerned whether it comes back with 500 or 1,000 calories. That is one reason we are poor.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Chinese Labor for English Plants.

British consuls in Shantung province have been instructed by their home government to recruit 10,000 Chinese laborers at Tsingtau, Chefoo and other ports in their province within the next three months. These laborers are to be sent to England for work in manufacturing plants. They are to be paid a monthly wage of $12 silver, together with a monthly allowance of $10 silver for their families. Passage money will be defrayed by the British government, and the terms of service is to be three years.

British army officers have been recruiting laborers at Weihaiwei for some time. Barracks have been erected there for the accommodation of the laborers, and that port will also be used as a point from which the Chinese coolies will embark for England.

Santa Turns Spaniard.

The whole toy industry of the world is undergoing readjustment because of the war, and countries that formerly imported their stocks from the countries of the present belligerents are now either looking to new sources of supply or are making their own toys. Spain has been among the first to take advantage of the altered demand and is making a strong bid for the markets of Latin-America.

AND NOW THEY ARE COOKING TOBACCO TO MAKE IT BETTER

For a good many years The American Tobacco Company have been conducting a series of experiments having as their object the improvement of smoking tobaccos.

And it is interesting to know that one of the greatest of their discoveries was one of the simplest, and that was, that cooking or toasting tobacco improved it in every way, just as cooking most foods improves them.

They took a real Burley tobacco, grown in this country; toasted it as you would toast bread; moistened it to replace the natural moisture driven off by toasting; made it into cigarettes, called them "LUCKY STRIKE, the toasted cigarette," and offered them to the public.

The result has been the greatest demand ever created for any tobacco product in a similar length of time.

The change produced by toasting is not only most wholesome, but the flavor is greatly improved, just as cooking improves meat, for example.
