"PREACHERS" CHECK MORRIS BROWN FIVE

Too Much Davis And Henderson Spells Defeat For Southern Champs

SIXTH STRAIGHT WIN

Seminary Tossers Loom As C. I. A. A. Champions

LYNCHBURG, Va. — Morris Brown, the highly tooted champions of the Southern Conference, were handily defeated Friday by the Seminary basketball team, leaders of the C. I. A. A. by a score of 48-13.

This game marked the first lost for the southern champions and was the sixth straight win for the Virginians. Seminary piled up sixteen points before the game was five minutes old, and during this period the southern champs had the ball but twice.

After taking time out Morris Brown seemed to settle down at bit. LeMore, the champs' right forward, coming through with a two pointer under the basket and two more from the free line. Captain Bradley, Morris Brown star center, then started a rally that soon brought his boys within six points of the leaders, but Seminary tightened up her defense and the first half ended with the Preachers holding the best part of a 20-14 score.

The Virginians came back the second half displaying a much smoother game than that exhibited in the first period and Davis and Henderson with their brilliant shooting collaborated to give the Seminary quint a decisive victory over the Southerners.

Seminary offensive gave the Morris Brown boys little chance to display the brand of basketball that carried them to the Southern championship.

SEMINARY IS VICTOR OVER LINCOLN, 37-14

"Preachers" Loom Large As Collegiate Championship Contenders

PLAY MORGAN FRIDAY

Game Will Be Jones vs. Henderson And Clark vs. Davis

By W. C. UNDERDOWN

LYNCHBURG, Va.—The Lincoln Lion was handed a surprise package here last week when a supposed docile "Preacher" passed and shot his way to a 37-14 victory.

The Virginians outclassed the Pennsylvanians in all departments of the game and in the first fifteen minutes of the game piled up 18 points while their opponents were held scoreless. The Fowler-Bell-Henderson-Smith-Davis combination functioned with perfect precision and only the caging of a field goal each by Hawkins and Young, prevented the Lions from being shut out in the first half.

Although they fought hard in the second stanza the Lions were only able to garner 10 points, six of which were made by Carpenter, Harmon and Whittington, Baltimore products, were unable to get going. Eddie Davis and "Slim" Henderson scored 29 of the Peraches' points, the former getting 15 and the latter, 14.

To Play Morgan Friday

The undeafeated Preachers, who are making a strong bid for the collegiate title, will get the acid test here Friday when they meet the strong Morgan College quint. Coach Hurt's charges have defeated 3 addition 3 Lincoln, Hampton (twice), Morris Brown, Va. State, Bluefield, Claflin, and Morehouse. With only seven men on the squad, the Seminary team has built a short-passing game around Davis and Henderson and believe that they can take the count of Morgan.

Spectators will get a treat when "Slim" Henderson, high point getter for Seminary, will battle against Capt. "Lanky" Jones. Morgan's ace.

Too Frequent Competition "Burns Out" Athletes

Present Age Is One Of "Terrifying Speed," Says Moses—Cites Hussey Case

By ALVIN J. MOSES, For A. N. P.

The question was asked us the other day, "What do you account for the vast improvement in present day elementary school athletes over those of two decades ago?"

Strange to say, it is not a very moot one, and the credit for revolutionizing the style of modern junior and senior athletes, must be given to such coaches as are to be found in the grammar and high schools of cur various cities, and not the Bernie Wefers, Farrells, Murphys, Lawson Robertsons, et. al., as is the commen belief.

Consider the untutored youth of twelve, who enters the competitive lists of athletics at a time when his bones have not set properly. His first coaching lesson either tends to bring out the very best that is in him, or retards his development a matter of from ten to twelve years until such time as he will enter college to receive the expert coach of a Harry Hillman, or a Von Elm.

ALL CALISTHENICS ARE BENEFICIAL

a champion at his favorite pastime. He is put through a series of class calisthenics, and after a time, an individual course is mapped out by the coach, that if aadhered to religiously will bring out the very best that is in him athletically, without allowing him to fall heir to the numerous faults the average boy picks up.

Just as "Gentleman Jim Corbett," world famous boxing master, was accustomed to shadow box on the average of an hour each day without resting, the good coach puts his youngsters through starting exercises, leg limbering work, breathing from different postures, bending, body stretching, chinning, mat work, etc., at least twice a week and from six to eight minutes at each successive task, until his heart and lungs are fitted for the arduous task of foot racing. Have you ever considered this thought?

Suppose a coach would tak ea boy at the age of twelve who was capable of running 60 yards in close to 7 seconds flat as is Marion Miller, erstwhile Public School and Junior High sprint king (Colored) from New York; and enter him in two thirds of the school boy meets that are held yearly in the Metropolitan District?

FRANCIS HUSSEY PROVES CASE

The answer, of course, is that the youth by the time he had completed his high school course, would be all "burned" out as athletic followers use the term. A glaring case to prove what we say is that of Frank Hussey. Hussey, a blonde-haired youth with the build of an Adonis, was one of the greatest schoolboy sprinters that ever lived, his feats nearly rivalling those of the incomparable Howard P. Drew. This Stuyvesant High School phenom was entered in practically all of his school's meets, and ran in a number of open A. A. U. events. The result was that at a time when he should have been ready to make an assault upon all existing speed marks up to the wise coach singles out a lad who potentially promises to become 100 yards, he was forced to take a much needed rest upon the advice of his doctor and trainer. While at Boston College, Hussey was not allowed to race as often as he had been accustomed to, and at this writing he is building up for the trials of the American Olympic squad who will compete at Amsterdam, Holland, this July.

MODERN SPEED IS TERRIFYING

In sooth this is an age of terrifying speed. Not only are we watching the fastest humans that evolution has turned out, but airplanes, motor boats, locomotives, automobiles, ice boats, ocean liners, dirigibles, and the bike, are many seconds faster to the mile than the world ever dreamed of.

It is the highest tribute imaginable to such record makers of yesteryear like Maxey Long, Frank Krmaer, Major Taylor, Colin, Lobert, Mathieson, Longboat, Rusie, McGrath, that in this age of vastly improved training methods and super-athletic marvels, their marks still defy betterment. Methinks the ancient deity "Mercury" who symbolized speed, would gladly barter his winged sandals for a plane like the "Spirit of St. Louis" that Colonel Lindbergh has made undying history with, or the DeHaviland plane of Lieut. Col. Williams, who has flown a mile immeasurably faster than the feathered inhabitants of "God's" blue heaven.

The everyday hustle and bustle of those who care nothing for the theatre of sport is carried on at a pace that would have shocked our sires. The business man hops into a plane kept in a specially built hanger which once housed the fast decadent auto. A slight movement of the stick, and the powerful twin motors set up a din that causes the barnyard folk to hurry thither and hither in fear of their lives.

Without the formality of being halted by traffic policemen, his engineer of the air chariot rolls merrily along at a rate of 125 miles an hour while he sits easily on velvet cushions reading "The Morning's Morning," without once glancing downward. Of course, we have painted a picture of the ultra fashionable, but who will dare say that within the next quarter century, the middle class folk won't be cluttering up the sky roadways with "Ford" built planes that will retail almost as cheaply as his present edition of the passe "Tin Lizzie" did? ?

Is it then small wonder that present day youth of American public schools are faster if not better runners than their predecessors of twenty years ago, and what of the tenth generation from now, what of the twentieth, what supermen will our children's children be? Selah!

Lincoln Triumphs Over Union, 29-23

By W. H. JONES

RICHMOND, Va.—The Lincoln Lions clawed the Union Panthers into submission here Friday, receiving a 9-23 verdict.

The game was one of the hardest fought here and at half time the score stood at 15-all. Beginning the second half with a whirlwind scoring attack, the Lions piled up a lead that Union was unable to overcome. The Panthers were shooting in hard luck, often caging a basket, only to have the ball roll off the rim. Young and Seary were stars for Lincoln while Gardner and Caster shone brighest for Union.

Bordentown Upset By Rinkies, 27-19

BORDENTOWN, N. J.—The Atlantic City Y. M. C. A. senior five, the famous Rinky Dinks, furnished a startling upset on the Bordentown basketbal court Thursday night when they handed the Varsity Wildcats of the Manual Training School a 27-19 licking, the first defeat sustained on their home floor by the Bordentonians in twenty games.

Ward, at forward for the Seasiders, led the Atlantic City attack, tossing the ball through the basket six times from the floor and twice on foul tries for a total of fourteen points.

The Borden town quintet was decidedly off form, and seemed to be completely bewildered by the swift passing attack of their opponents.

Talking It Over

With RALPH MATTHEWS

The column takes especial pleasure this week in having as guest conductor, jovial, devil-may-care Ralph Matthews, who has made such hit with his humor that we thought we'd let him take our place at the bat while we borrow his goggles and ear trumpet in quest of what is Heard and Seen in Baltimore. "Matty" is going to knock out a home run or two. Batter Up!

—William Gibson.

The papers reveal from time to time that Sonny Suggs, brother of Chick Suggs, New England's sensational leather pusher, is following in the footprins, or would you say fist cuffs, of his illustrous not so distant relative.

Sonny, an old classmate of mine, is living up to all my expectations by carrying his five fingered sleep potents to the blond heads of the young white hopes who rub their feet in the rosin of the corner opposite his. Sonny packs a havmaker at the end of either wrist.

As a student Sonny was not at all bad, especially in goemetry. Many a tought Frat house dweller who started an argument with Sonny vertical, left the room horizontal.

Jean, as we called him then, and I were interested, mildly of course, in the same co-ed. You know how those puppy love affairs are. Well, aonyway my ego leads me to believe that had I tried dreadfully hard I could have put the yeast under Sunny, but when I saw him send a fellow twice my size and ten times tuogher off to listen to the birdies, I immediately lost all my infacuation for that young lady. How unfanthomable is the human heart, as Shakespeare might say or words to that effect.

Sonny put the stop sign on Frank Hennessey last week and is getting his semaphore ready for Joe Arzetta, former lightweight champion of Rhode Island. Sonny is pleasant to meet—socially not professionally.

Football Rules

They are monkeying with the football rules again. It won't be long, if they keep this up, before the college boys, of say five years ago, will be as out of place at a football game as a ham sandwich at a Jewish picnic. They won't know what it is all about. It has been proven conclusively that it takes at least the first two years in school for the average football player to learn the simplest rules of the game. About the latter part of the third year, he shows signs of being able to interpret the signals. Football will become so complicated that the huskie who joins the team to get some sympathetic classmates to work his trip will be jumping out of the frying pan into the incenderism.

Pauline Jackson

Pauline Jackson, a lassie who hales from Baltimore and New York essays to navigate the treacherous English channel. No amount of persuasion on any part can get Pauline to abandon her enterprise, not that I think she can't accomplish it, but I think Pauline deserves bigger and better things.

Why swim the channel? Miss Gertrude Ederle you pick up can conqur the wash away between John Bull and France, it's been done, repetition would not detract from the ofay victory, while failure by a nut brown girl would greatly add to their superiority complex.

Pauline really ought to do something original. If she just must go in swimming on the big business plan, why not swim something that to date remains unswum. I suggest the Artic Ocean. A cold morning bath, perhaps, but what does Pauline care about a little cold water? A red hot mama like our own Pauline will have the Artic sizzling after the first two or three strokes. Ice bergs will melt away, and the whole body of water will boil into polar Bear soup.

There are an number of good healthy natural basins full of poor fish just dying for a glimpse of a girlish figure nymphlike as I have a sneaking suspicion Pauline has. Surely fish are some cohsideration in this undertaking.

These are just hints, to be ignored or thought about, but honestly Pauline has put her foot in it by asking Baltimoreans to contribute to her little excursion. Baltimoreans are tight. When he put up their hard earned cash they demand action, oodles of action and won't take no for an answer. If Baltimore hands over $15,000 in cold mazuna Pauline will have to swim that channel or else. In fact, for that much money,
