The Cleveland Tractor

The Cleveland Tractor will plow 3½ miles an hour—8 to 10 acres a day. That equals the work of three good 3-horse teams and three men.

Traveling on its own tracks, it will go practically anywhere—even through ditches or gumbo, sand and gravel. Although small enough for work in orchards, the Cleveland develops full 12 h. p. at the draw-bar for hauling

At the pulley belt it gives 20 h. p.—plenty for stationary work, such as shelling corn, cutting ensilage, filling silos, pumping and many other uses on the farm where power is needed. You can turn it in a 12-foot circle—just about what it takes to turn a team. It can be housed in less space than it takes for a horse.
