SENATOR BRUCE SE'KS REELECTION

Opposed To Lynching, Religious Bigotry And Race Intolerance.

SENATOR TALKS OUT AGAINST KU KLUX

Senator Favors Education and Appropriations For Howard

"What care I whether I go down to defeat or not at the next senatorial election provided only that I shall not be recreant to the profoundest convictions that have ever found lodgment in my mind and to the most fervid feelings that have ever inspired my soul?"

These ringing words of personal courage were uttered by Senator William Cabell Bruce, of Maryland, on the floor of the United States Senate this year, in reply to the sugestion that he "soft pedal" his views on the Volstead Act and other public questions.

These words came from the lips of the man of whom "The New York Times" said editorially in 1923: "by . . . frank and explicit utterances Mr. Bruce confirms the good opinion of those who maintained last year that his election would be an honor to the State of Maryland and a strong reinforcement to the United States Senate."

Education and Public Service

Senator Bruce came to the Senate well fortified by training and experience. He was trained in the law at the Universities of Virginia and Maryland, and has actively practiced at the bar for nearly a half a century. He was a member of the Maryland State Senate from 1894 to 1896, and served as its president in the latter year.

From 1902 to 1910, he served two terms as the head of the Baltimore City Law Department. From 1910 to 1922, he acted as general counsel to the Stae Public Service Commission, resigning this position to run for the United States Senate.

Contributions to Literature

In the mids of a busy life of public service, Senator Bruce has found time to make substantial contributions to American literature. Among his writings are, "Benjamin Franklin Self Revealed," "Below the James," and "John Randolph of Roanoke." His writings are characterized by ripe scholarship, keen discernment and splendid diction.

Attitude on Public Questions

A birdseye view of William Cabell Bruce's record since his election to the United States Senate six years ago, reveals a statesmanship of liberal opinions and sound actions on practically every public question affecting the welfare of the American people. In the last session of the Senate he well summed up his general attitude on some pressing issues of today in the following words: "I have no word of palliation for either the sumptuary intolerance, the sectarian intolerance, or the racial intolerance that have in recent years become such painful features of the public life of the States of the South as well as of the States in other parts of the Union."

Fairness of the Negro

Senator Bruce belongs to the "New South" a term which means full cooperation by leading southern whites with the efforts being made to develop that section economically and socially and to give the Negro "a man's chance" to become his best. Taking issue with the recent extended defence of practical disfranchisement of Negroes in the South by Senator Swanson, of Virginia, Senator Bruce said in part: "I think that the time has now come when the whites of the South should be a little more liberal to the Negro, not simply as a matter of obligation to the permanent interests, he lasting welfare, the long future of the southern whites, themselves."

"Washington Eagle"

Commenting on Senator Bruce's reply to Senator Swanson, "The Washington Eagle," the official organ of 20,000 colored Elks, says editorially, January 27, 1928: "Senator Bruce pleaded with Senator Swanson for more tolerance in the South, saying that such tolerance would make for a strong opposition party, claiming it would be for the good of that section and for the country at large."

Senator Bruce has been consistently outspoken and active in seeking to blot out lynching. In 1923, he demanded that the Veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, Ala., should be under the charge of Negro physicians and nurses. While a member of the Board of Estimates of Baltimore, he always favored liberal appropriations for colored institutions of that city.

"Howard University"

As a member of the United States Senate, he has liberally supported all appropriations for Howard University. When there was a movement by white people of Baltimore to assist the colored people there to establish a hospital for their group, Senator Bruce and his family contributed $1,000 towards the support of a free bed in honor of Evelyn Mackall, their colored maid, in recognition of the example of upright and liberal conduct she had set them.

Opposed to the Klan

With the rise of the Ku Klux Klan, turbulent debates have taken place upon the floor of the United States Senate. While many Senators have felt disposed to keep silent when Senator Heflin of Alabama would indulge in his wild tirades against the "Catholic Conspiracy" to seize the United States and turn them over to the Holy See and to embroil his country in a war with Mexico, Senator Bruce has repeatedly spoken out against such speeches with his accustomed vigor, frankness and courage. He makes short shift of these charges when he says that they "might well be described as the flimsiest bubble that had ever found lodgment in an empty head." In the same speech he says . . . "there is nothing that I abominate as I do religious bigotry."

Senator Bruce's whole attitude toward his Catholic fellow citizens is shown by his exposing the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith in the following words: " . . . other things being equal, at the present time . . . I should rather see a Catholic nominated to the Presidency of the United States, than any Proestant, . . . because the time has come when another solemn appeal should be made to the fidelity of the American people to the Federal Constitution, which . . . bans sectarian distinctions." These words come from the heart of a man who was reared in the Presbyterian Church, and who is now a member of the Episcopal Church.

Klan

Senator Bruce is one of the most fearlessly an amazing and admirable boldness. "The Ku Klux Klan," he says, "is a menace to the American people and should be blotted from the face of the earth. No political party that speaks from behind a mask has any rue message for such a people as the American people. I am going to fight them with the same fervor as I am going to fight the lynching mob."

Favors Modification of Volstead Act

Senator Bruce is one of the most fearless advocates of the modification of the Volstead Act. "The Volstead Act," he says, "has converted the Federal Government with its denaturing outfit of poisons and filth into a more monstrous Cæsar Borgia than any that mediaeval Italy ever knew. In other ways also it has filled the bowels of the people with deadly concoctions." During the closing days of the recent session of the Senate, he stated that "prohibition, so far as the legislative representative of the people are concernid, is just an organized conspiracy.

Conspiracy

As an example of this organized conspiracy, . . . in 1925 no less than 70 per cent of all the illicit liquor plants and agencies seized by the Federal Prohibition Unit in this country were seized in the eleven former Confederate States . . . and yet it is those States that propose to ram down our throats a dry candidate and a dry platform." Upon one occasion in the Senate he asked, "Who is not familiar with the judge who is dry in the court of justice and wet in the court of public opinion? Who is not familiar with the Congressman with the dry tongue and the wet throat?"

Prohibition

Senator Bruce showed a practical interest in the results of prohibition, when, with Mr. Fish, of The Minute Man, of Newark, N. J., he raised a trust fund of $1,000, to help support a widow and her ten children, following the shooting to death of her husband at her bedside in a West Virginia town, while she was lying in bed just after her confinement.

Quebec Plan

Not satisfied with condemning the dangerous life, government, property and character, resulting from attempted enforcement of the Volstead Act, Senator Bruce has introduced a bill in the Senate, embodying the general features of what is known as the "Quebec Plan." It provides for a combination of exclusive Government management and local option. The Senator reasons that the present sumptuary legislative runs counter to human appetite, experience and history, and because of its being constantly challenged by the great bulk of American people, it must be modified. As he puts it, "there is no good reason to believe that man will ever cease to drink altogether; though there is every reason to believe the he will become more and more temperate."

First Term Only

No man in his first term in the United States Senate has made a deeper impression upon that body and upon the American people than William Cabell Bruce. He is the ablest man Maryland has sent to the Senate since the days of Isidor Raynor.

The secret of Senator Bruce's power lies largely in the fact that he combines a great intellect with a great soul and a tender heart. He is democratic to the core. He measures the Jew and the Gentile, the Catholic and the Protestant, the white and the black, and the rich and the poor with the same yardstick of justice. Maryland will return William Cabell Bruce to the United States Senate next November, because she needs him there; but more important than that, the Nation needs him there.

Thurston's Cafeteria One Of Finest In The Country

Claimed to be the finest cafteria for the race in this section of the country, the $50,000 Thurston Cafe, located at 1934 9th street, Washington, D. C., won the hearts and praise of all Washington by its unique self-service methods.

John H. Thurston, proprietor of the place, first established a cafeteria in 1918 at 1930 Ninth street. This institution survived until the erection of the present plant with all its modern equipment.

The new building erected at the above address and opened late in September of 1928 was designed by Architect Cassell, who also drew the plans and specifications. The first floor of the place is beautifully decorated with costly furnishings with two radio loud speakers elevated about ten feet above the floor in the front and back of the place

The second floor consists of office, a large kitchen in the rear and a ladies' rest room The kitchen, with its latest appliances, include electric slicing machine, peeling machine, bread mixer, steam cooking machine, large baking oven and frigidaire. The basement houses large store rooms for canned goods and supplies, two large cold storage vaults, oil burners, hot water and plant heaters.

There are 15 young men and women employed by this concern, in which Mrs. Emma Thurston is a main factor. Mrs. Thurston is associated in the business with her husband and was directly responsible for his entering his present business.

Miller's Hotel Located In Heart Of Richmond

RICHMOND—Miller's Hotel at Second and Light Streets, located in the heart of the city, is one of the oldest colored hotels in the United States.

Its owners and operators today are T. F. Argher and his stenographer Miss Perdita Emily Vaughan, who has succeeded to the late William M. Miller, a pioneer hotel man.

Mr. Archer is also a successful realtor and has been in business in Richmond for 22 years. He is a graduate of Virginia Normal and Petersburg in the class of 1900.

Under Mr. Archer's management, the hotel has undergone many improvements and refinements including 24 hour cafeteria service and accommodation of guests overnight or for lengthy periods. Special service is given tourists.

Mrs. George Holland Filled Place Husband Left

Mr. George H. Holland graduated from the Renouard Training School for Embalmers, New York City, in 1902. After passing the State Board successfully and serving an apprenticeship of six (6) years he established his undertaking business at 1128 Argyle avenue. In the year of 1910 the business was moved farther up town t 0517 Robert street. Then finding the need of a funeral chapel to serve our people better, he moved to larger quarters, at 1631 Druid Hill avenue.

Here it was founded, one of Baltimore's finest funeral chapels. During the epidemic, the funeral chapel and sanitary morgue proved a help to the community and a success for the firm, in handling the great number of funerals.

After the epidemic, Mr. Holland became ill from the strenuous work. During his illness, his brother-in-law, Mr. Gibson, his wife, Mrs. Holland, and nephew, Moncure A. Brown, while still a school boy, took charge of the business. On May 27, 1923, Mr. Holland passed to the great beyond.

Mrs. Holland took complete charge of the business after obtaining her licenses from the State Board. In the early part of 1926 she sent her nephew, Moncure A. Brown, to the H. E. Dolan College of Embalming, Philadelphia, Pa., to learn modern embalming and plastic surgery. After passing the State Board successfully in 1926, she placed him in her services.

Later, finding the need of a larger funeral chapel for the services of the community, since the coming of apartmnt houses, she extended and renovated her funeral home making it one of the finest and largest in the city.

Richmond Funeral Business Now In The Second Generation

RICHMOND, Va.—Founded by the late A. D. Price in March, 1881 the A. D. Price, Jr., Funeral Directors and Embalmers, is now in the second generation.

The establishment, which has well equipped parlors at 210 and 212 East Leigh street, and which maintains a fleet of automobiles and a private ambulance, is valued at more than $50,000.

The present proprietor, A. D. Price, Jr., is intimately identified with the business and civil life of Richmond. He is a director in the Southern Aid Society, Douglass Court eRalty Corporation, Commercial Bank and Trust Company, Evergreen cemetery.

Besides membership in several fraternal organizations, he is a member of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

The company boasts of 47 years of superior service.

11 Funerals One Day Is W. Ernest Jarvis' Record

Holding the record for the largest number of funerals in one day with 11 as his high number, Ernest Jarvis, the largest funeral director in Washington, 2222 Georgia avenue, Washington, D. C., is seeking new laurels by making the latest improvements in his establishment as compared with the latest advancements in the undertaking profession.

Jarvis, who is a graduate of the Eckels College of Embalming in Philadelphia, has contracted for the burial of all war veterans from the District hospitals. This contract, alone, praises the merits of the work done by this director and his helpers who are efficient in their line.

With equipment valued at $3,000, a branch office at 28th and Dunbarton avenue, 13 male and three female employees, five hearses, seven limousines, and two first call cars, the motto of this institution is "Never Stop Trying To Improve."

Three Generation Of Hemsleys Made Funeral Establishment

The first race establishment to make modern improvements and always a leader in their field, three generations of Hemsley Funeral Directors are entering their 53rd year as an institution of undertakers.

With a modern funeral home, they boast of having the largest chapel and parlor in the city, with each seating 50 persons. This establishment is the first and only concern in the city using Lincoln automobile equipment exclusively.

The Hemsley Undertaking establishment was founded by the late Alexander Hemsley in 1876. The business has been operated by three generations of the family, who specialize en embalming. Undertakers forwarding bodies for burial or for transfer can be assured prompt and courteous attention.

The business is now managed by Samuel T. Hemsley, son of the founder. He is affiliated with the F. and A. Masons, O. F. K. P., and the Elks. Assisting him in this work are: Bernard P. Hemsley, assistant manager, and Mrs. Frances A. Hemsley, lady attendant.

Walker Company Officials Estimate $2,000,000 Goes To Our Concerns

COMPANIES LIKE THIS SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT

"Mme. Walker" Employs 200 With $107,000 Annual Payroll

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—One would believe that with a new manufacturing and office building just realized, quite the finest thing of its kind owned and occupied by our race anywhere in the world, officials of the Madam C. J. Walker Mfg. Co. at Indianapolis, Indiana are satisfied to rest on their oars and literally coast along.

But this is by no means the case. Heads are being scratched, ideas born, factory wheels turning and all hands busy in an effort to so increase the Walker Company's usefulness to the race that another such splendid structure as they are now housed in will be required to accommodate the increased number of employees. And this is on impractical dream when one considers that in spite of the company's large annual business, it is just a very small per cent of the annual outlay for toilet goods on the part of our people.

For instance, it is authoritatively estimated that the annual consumption of toilet prepartions among Negroes exclusive of soap is $38,000,000 a saggering sum spent in the quest of beauty. Of this sum it can be estimated from available data that all the Negro concerns in America put together manufacturing toilet articles placing them at the disposal of the eager Negro public do, by no stretch of the good measure figure, more than $2,000,000 gross business annually.

$36,000,000 Market

A thirty six million dollar market then is the bait which is keeping executives and employees of the Madam C. J. Walker Manufacturing Company enthusiastic about its future and working overtime improving its line, creating new and better selling policies and developing more engaging advertising methods. And there is little likelihood of this annual sum now spent trving to presever and enhance one's beauty being decreased.

Women of all races are awakening. Those of America and of our particular racial group have increasing pride in their personal appearance and instead of thirty-eight million, who knows, 1928 figures may show that this increased pride has also increased by several million dollars the amount spent in giving expression to it.

Whites Buy

Another cause is the growing tendency of American whites to buy such merchandise as has become popularized and well known to them thru national advertising regardless of the personnel of the manufactory. Cases in point; the many popular brands of suits, coats, dresses, now made by Jews and worn generally by all America; prisco-made shoes, glove garments, widely distributed, bought and worn; Negro-killed, cut and packed meats found on the tables everywhere; etc., all of which lead the Walker Company to believe that its present patronage will increase in direct ratio to is financial outlay for advertising to them. This then offers opportunity, be it ever so remote of nibbling at the $115,000,000 anual outlay of whites for cosmetics and beautifiers.

Not An Octopus

But if these were the only causes, it might be said that the Walker Company is materialistic, a commercial octopus without soul or the ideals on which its founder, the late Madam C. J. Walker built it. Even so, that could scarcely be termed a very serious indictment, for after all, would it not be conforming in detail to the time old traditions of the business world. In deed trade and commerce are soul-less, impersonal and materialistic, have always been so and we fear will always be so. But behind this attractive lure to the Walker Company are the far greater and more important causes for its enthusiastic faith in the future.

Machines

It should be borne in mind that machines are replacing and have replaced thousands of men who are having to find new and to them, hitherto unknown means of livelihood. This hardshio is being felt in so small ways by the temporarily reduced income and may be increased by the continued trend of industry to machines. Such men-requiring jobs as remain are going more and more to unskilled whites who are alfaced with the fight against the machine and whose economic problem demands that he dismiss his pride and claim jobs he frowned and left to be done by Negroes ten years ago.

Ku Klux And Unemployment

The Ku Klux Klan has had something to do with Negro unemployment and its influence is not to be under-rated, not by any means. Retail stores, factories, hotels, restaurants, laundries and private homes in our city in no small numbers have dismissed their colored help and replaced it with white, in at least one instance a joke being made of it by the hotel guests raising their windows letting loose their phonographs to playing "Bye, Bye Blackbirds".

This situation we believe, from reports reaching us is typical and identical to that prevailing in many cities. Of course there were never more than a few jobs for which Negroes would apply, the greater number of places of employment situation among us that is alarming and to which there seems but one easy, logical solution.

Massing Power

The power possessed by the race if it were massed against the unidu economic barrier is not generally considered. It is a habit to spend our dollars where little may be expected from them. But that should not be. Every dollar spent ought to find its way back into the pockets of those with an understanding of and sympathy with our problems. Jobs ought to be created for our race by the dollars we spend. Every other race does it but ours and the day is not far distant that Negro merchants factories, offices, etc. may be . . .

Fine Arts Course At Palmer Something New In Dixie

Charlotte Hawkins Brown Has Built 25 Years Of Her Life In Single Institution

J. C. HYMAN

For a number of years Palmer Memorial Institute, located in a suburban community of not over forty families has been doing a unique and different type of work from that of any of the schools of North Carolina.

Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, Principal, has not only worked for the past twenty-five years to build a school in brick and stone that would do credit to any organization, north or south, but all along she has had a vision of finer things for young men and women of small means than a mere academic course; more even, than industrial, agricultural or any of the courses that are supposed to prepare the youth of the race for life.

A good foundation had to be laid out of the general preparatory courses, however, and it is only this year that the dream of the finer touches is shaping itself into a reality.

A number of philanthropists and friends who have visited the institution, contributed to its needs and followed its development for years, felt that here was a school too fine in setting, too ideal in location, with too cultural a background to justify its present expenditure for the current program. Soon a New England committee was formed which put on a small drive preparatory to beginning special courses in Fine and Practical Arts. A scholarship fund was provided to accommodate 25 students above the second year of the high school who were found to be talented in music, oratory or painting. A picked faculty — graduates of the best New England and Eastern colleges was selected. It was the ultimate aim of this committee like the aim of Charlotte Hawkins Brown, to set a "little bit of New England down in the woods of North Carolina", as some interested person said — "a southern finishing school for colored young men and women — the last word in idealism." Situated ten miles east of Greensboro, N. C., on the National Highway, the site, Sedalia, seems to offer everything conducive to the placing of an institution of this type — quiet, reserved, dignified.

avenues of employment for trained Negro minds and hands.

Rise And Shine

It then is no cry of boastfulness to say that now, before the crux comes, the Madam C. J. Walker Mfg. Co., is already offering to young men and women of the race an opportunity to rise and shine in their employment with us. Doing as it were our part to battle against the trend of the times and to hasten the day when Negroes will be less dependent on the white race for existence, and as we grow, by the increased patronage of the thoughtful Negro and disregarding whites more and more. Bookkeepers, stenographers, clerks, salesmen, factory workers, etc., will be given employment from the ranks of deserving boys and girls of the Negro race.

Two-thirds To Charity

In our growth which can come by increased business will come not only that great usefulness to our race from an employment standpoint but it can also be translated into the financial benefit we will be to the racial institutions like Y. M. C. A.'s, Y. W. C. A.'s, schools, colleges, orphanages, hospitals, day nurseries, etc., for no Negro should allow himself to forget the last will and testament of the late Madam C. J. Walker which provided and is being complied with, that two-thirds of the net earnings of the company should be given to such charities as may be found worthy and deserving by a group of Negro trustees appointed by and accountable to the Courts of the state of Indiana.

Race Companies

It should be remembered that of all the companies their toilet preparations and bidding for your patronage the race companies have the best claim for your support. As you buy their wares you help them and help yourself and children. Of Negro companies your daughter may become the head bookkeeper or your son the manager. Who knows, as they grow their forces must be augmented and your kin may be drafted into service. Think of the power you have in spending money.

Payroll $107,000

These extraordinary opportunities for growth and usefulness to the race compel the Walker Company to believe in its future and fire its executives with undying enthusiasm in the possibilities to some day in the not far distant future require not one fine modern structure employing near 200 Negro men and women with an annual pay-roll of $107,000, but several such buildings with thousands of race employees drawing annually a million or more in salaries.

Most Students Prepared Here For Special Courses

Many of the students enter from the grammar grades of rural schools, others from the city systems here in the south and still a good many others who have had better advantages in northern schools. The boarding school enrollment is comparatively small — not more than 125. This particular type of students is divided into groups like a small family, and is presided over by a specially appointed and trained monitor who serves as a guide for each individual in his extra-curricula life, teaching him to live with others and to appreciate other basic principles of home life. This kind of training is aimed to develop for the student the following:

12. A sensible attitude toward social life.

2. An intelligent regard for Christian principles.

3. An impartial spirt of loyalty, devotion and sympathy for the ideals of the school.

4. An appreciation for the beautiful in nature, art and music.

Distinctive Features

1. "At Palmer Memorial we aim to keep the enrollment small so that every student may have the individual attention of the teachers.

2. "Special attention is given to Physical Education, Music, Dramatics, Applied Arts."

3. "A special advisor to students will assist them in mapping out courses for which they will receive full credit."

4. "Palmer combines the comforts and camp ideas of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. with its regular life."

a. Organized hikes are conducted.

b. Good clean moving pictures are shown twice each month.

c. Socials and parties under faculty supervision give students an opportunity for social contacts."

5. "The girls' dormitory at the school is beautifully and comfortably furnished with all modern, cultural, sanitary and artistic fittings."

6. "A large spacious dining hall rings in the morning with glee songs and cheers of the students."

7. "The school has an art collection superior to that of any Negro school in the South."

8. "The institutions plans a ten-day trip to Washington, New York and Boston for the senior high school special classes in Fine Arts for the observation of art museums and historical sites, as well as an opportunity to attend high class musicals, etc."

9. "Palmer Students are said to have more pep than most students."

10. "The Boys' dormitory is well furnished, steam heat, showers, etc."

Scope Of Special Courses

The Fine Arts courses have been inaugurated, therefore, for the purpose of giving a much needed, but special type of training to the talented and aspiring young men and women who are not able to go to expensive northern and eastern schools, and who have either been in the institution for a period sufficient to enter the work fully capable of grasping this kind of training, or those who have come from well-organized high schools and recommended for special ability in music, painting, oratory or literary composition.

Little Theatre

The outlet of this work will assume the nature of THE LITTLE THEATRE movement, an aperture for artistic literary and musical talent. It will produce the plays written by students. The Art Department will instruct students in painting scenery. Plays will be staged at different times in the year in various parts of the state. Of course the work of the music department will be blended in these activities.

Students who feel that they can write will not only have a chance to will be encouraged, trained and may have their writing passed upon, but be asked to make efforts before the public. Those who feel they can make original expression of some mood or emotion inm usic will have these talents drawn out and put on paper. Those who appreciate grace of walk, gesture or posture, the Physical Education Department will develop. Others who are lured by the beauty in painting will be taught to express themselves.

These courses consist of the following: Music, piano and vocal; painting, history of art, designing, dramatics, expression, literature, dramatics and pageantry, physical education, calisthenics, folk and aesthetic dancing. This work is now being pursued by students of Junior and Senior high school rating and graduates of accredited high schools. The special faculty comprises the following: R. O. Scott, A. B., Lincoln University, Student of Voice: James Wesley White, Acting Dean, Director Glee Clubs: Miss Amy Bailey, Student of Voice: Emma Absize, Boston, Dramatic Soprano, Voice Culture: Miss Lois Jones, graduate Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Painting, Designing, History of Fine Arts: Miss Gertrude McBrown, A. B. Emerson College of Oratory: M. Ed., Boston University, Literature, Dramatics and Pageantry: Miss Charity Bailey, B. Ed., Rhode Island College of Education, Musical Theory, Composition: Miss Geraldine C. Gordon, Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Head of Department of Music, Pianoforte Instruction, Public School Music: Miss Hilda A. Davis, A. B., Howard University, Registrar, Special Advisor.

There are some things that cannot be taught in schools. They must be lived into people. The beauty in simplicity, the beauty in home life, the beauty in the souls of lovely people must be gained by constant association and contact. It must be in the air, everywhere.

It is for that reason that Charlotte Hawkins Brown has spent 25 years of untiring labor in this little community, Sedalia, . . . she had a vision to give to the boys and girls who had fine things in them, a finished type of training that will fit them to pursue life practically, gracefully.

To Visit Agencies For Handicapped

Visits will be paid by the members and friends of the Association for the Handicapped to the various institutions for the physically handicapped on Saturday, October 26, according to an announcement this week by William H. Langley, president of the association.

The Association for the Handicapped is interested in the problems of the blind, the deaf, the dumb, the feeble minded, and crippled. Institutions which other house or train these groups in any way will be visited by the association as a part of the celebration of handicap week, a feature instituted this year by the association. Among places to be visited are the School for the Blind at Overlea, School for the Deaf at Frederick, and the Hospital School, and City Hospital Ward for Crippled Children and Crownsville.

Several of the newly formed classes in the public school system will also receive attention from visitors particularly the three classes for crippled children at School 106, Sharp and Montgomery street. Several classes for those with defective speech and defective hearing have also been recently started in various schools throughout the city.

Arrangements are being made to transport friends who deside to visit the outlying institutions. Those desiring to go on the tour of inspection should get in touch with Robert W. Coleman, manager of the association, at 1145 Myrtle avenue. Transportation will be furnished free.

VA. COMMUNITY FUND AIDS RACE GROUPS

RICHMOND, Va. — The Richmond Community Fund will be increased this year and will include many colored agencies, the Phyllis Wheatley branch of the Y. W. C. A., Colored Playground Association, Friends Orphan Asylum, Urban League and agencies having colored members on their staff, as the Family Service, I. V. N. A., and the Traveler's Aid.

The budget committee met Monday afternoon, October 15th and decided that because of conditions existing in Richmond this year the agencies were called upon to care for more people, hence the need of a larger budget. The quota to be raised for 1929 is set at $539,635.01. The meeting was presided over by Chairman Charles Peple.

The B. C. L. Asso. Visit Aged Folks Home

The League Presidents Association of the Baltimore Conference visited the Aged Shelter's Home on Biddle street Sunday afternoon and spent a very pleasant time with the inmates in prayer and song service, after which a collation was served. R. L. Henson, president of the association, presented them on leaving, with a little purse.

A Correction

I wish to state that I am not a member of the Phyllis Wheatley Protective and Beneficial Association as was stated in the AFRO, issue of October 13th. Although I am in sympathy with its aims I can only give it my moral support. It was also erroneously stated that I am a member of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind. I have not been connected with that institution for the past fifteen years.

She Gained Weight With McCoy's Tablets

You remember her of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if, ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be refunded.

Just ask for McCoy's Tablets at any drugstore. Distributed by McCoy's Laboratories, Inc., also distributors of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil—there is none better.

PALMISANO FAVORS BENEFITS FOR WAR VET

Congressional Candidate Also Would Continue Howard Appropriation.

I am in favor of cashing the World War veterans certificates in order to permit the veterans to purchase homes or to pay off any indebtedness, declared Vincent L. Palmisano, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from the third Congressional district, in an interview this week.

During the course of his conversation the Democratic candidate declared he believed in state rights and was opposed to the Volstead Act and the 18th amendment and the methods that were employed in the enforcement of the Volstead Act. I voiced my opinion in favor of continuing the Howard University appropriation, he stated, when questions as to the stand he took on that measure while a member of the House of Representatives when that measure was before the House.

Palmisano, who is a lawyer, having practiced in the state for 20 years, has represented fire building associations with a capital totaling about $700,000. He served in the legislature in 1914, eight years in the City Council and the 70th Congress. He is Democratic candidate for reelection from the third district comprising the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and 22nd wards, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth precincts of the 18th Ward.

NATURE OKEYS X-RAY ON TRIPLE BIRTH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., (ANP.) — Triplet baby girls born to a colored woman at the St. Louis Maternity Hospital here last week, are said to be the first successful X-Ray diagnosis of a triple birth which is recorded in obstetrics. The babies weighed 4 1-2, 4 2-5, and 4 3-5 pounds.

The mother, who was an out-patient at the Washington University School of Medicine Clinic, was sent to the Maternity Hospital two months before the birth of her children.

An X-Ray diagnosis showed it would be a triple delivery. And the case was watched with the greatest interest by attending physicians, as it was the first record of such a diagnosis. The three babies were born strong and health and have been making satisfactory development.

'Y' Forum Discusses Business Ills

Time had to be extended for half an hour to allow the eager young men at the Y. M. C. A. Forum to thoroughly discuss the future prospects of Negro Business in Baltimore at last Sunday's meeting. The subject was, "What's Wrong With Negro Business?"

Next Sunday, Mr. C. M. Sheppard, of the Central Y. M. C. A., is to discuss the subject: "Have We Given the Boys a Chance?" A free-for-all discussion will follow the opening of the topic and the parents of boys urged to be present.

ASTHMA ALL GONE. FOUND QUICK RELIEF

Suffered 16 Years, Then Regained Health Suddenly, Tells How.

Folks who have "tried everything" for asthma or bronchial trouble, may profit by following the example of Mrs. R. H. Wilson, 41 Hancock St., New Bern, N. C. She writes:

"After 16 years of intense suffering from asthma, during which time I tried all kinds of medicine, I finally started taking Nacor in July, 1927. My asthma promptly began to disappear, and soon was entirely gone. I thought it might come back during the winter, but it didn't, and I have never had a sign of it since."

Hundreds of people who suffered for years from asthma, bronchitis and severe chronic coughs, have told how their trouble left and never returned. Their letters and a booklet of vital information about these diseases, will be sent free by Nacor Medicine Co., 591 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. The more serious your case, the more important this free information may be. Write for it today.

Bilious Spells

DIZZINESS RELIEVED

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month," says Mr. J. P. Nevins, of Lawrenceburg, Ky.

"I would have dizziness and couldn't work. A neighbor told me of Thedford's Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything.

"It seemed to cleanse my whole system and made me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of 'pep' and could do twice the work."
