SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1918

The edict now is for a dry nation by July 1, 1919. It is fast reaching that point now. The sooner the better for all except the dispenser.

The Government may find a way to conserve paper by consulting any member of the Maryland Press Association.

The new man-power bill has become a law. All persons between the ages of 18 and 45 must register. Their classification will come later.

With joy rides ruled out on Sunday to conserve oil and gasoline the churches should be better attended. Your pastor will be glad to see you.

Cole Blease was defeated for the nomination of Senator in South Carolina and that fair state proved its good sense. Blease belongs among the "has-beens."

Henry Ford lost in the Republican primaries but won in the Democratic primary. Of course, because he is really more of a Democrat. At least his machine is used by more Democrats.

Colored nurses will be registered for work among their own race in the army. This is but mere justice to a body of women who have been both self-sacrificing and patriotic in offering their services to the government. It is also due to the colored soldiers who are making a record for their race by their daring and success as fighters, to enlist the capable women of their race to nurse them when wounded.

In the death of that big statesman Senator Ollie M. James, the State of Kentucky has lost a representative in the upper house of the national legislature whose record has reflected brilliantly upon the state and has added much to the prestige of the Democratic party. Well do we recall that stalwart and impressive personality, that guiding spirit through the long session of that unprecedented political gathering in Baltimore when President Wilson was nominated.

GOOD WORK IN MARYLAND

While Maryland subscribed in larger proportion to the Third Liberty Loan than any other State in the Fifth Reserve District, its record was not as good in over-subscriptions as some of the other States, but what it lacked in this respect, it more than made up in per capita subscriptions.

Maryland's apportionment of the first loan was $30,000,000 minimum, $35,000,000 maximum and total subscriptions amounted to $37,018,750 or $2,018,750 over-subscriptions.

In the second loan Maryland was apportioned $39,000,000 minimum, $65,000,000 maximum and subscriptions amounted to $54,343,300 or $10,656,700 less than the maximum.

There was no maximum apportionment for the third loan.

Maryland's share of that loan was $38,259,000 and subscriptions totaled $48,729,800 or $10,470,000 more than the allotment.

Subscriptions in all the States comprising the Fifth District were larger by $91,413,350 for the second loan than for the first due, no doubt, to the intensive educational campaign conducted especially to impress upon the wage earner the importance of practicing thrift and investing the savings in Liberty Bonds.

While total subscriptions in the Fifth District for the third loan were nearly $14,000,000 less than for the second, they exceeded the first loan by $76,520,680. Subscriptions for the entire Fifth District for the first Liberty Loan amounted to $109,738,000; for the second loan, $201,151,700. Subscriptions for the third loan exceeded the apportionment by $56,259,030.

Many subscribers to the first and second loans contented themselves with the belief that they had done their full duty and refrained from subscribing to the third loan.

Every effort will be made during the fourth loan campaign to impress upon recalcitrants that it is their duty to subscribe to the limit of their ability to every loan floated by the United States.

It is estimated that one out of every 5½ persons in Maryland bought a bond of the third issue. In Baltimore City it is estimated that one in every 2.8 of the white population bought a bond. The total number of subscribers in the State, including Baltimore City, was 253,916 of whom 177,438 were residents of the city and 76,478 were residents of the county. Only the District of Columbia exceeded Maryland in per capita subscriptions. The per capita subscriptions for the State, outside of Baltimore City, was $15.93, while that for the city was $59.65, making the total for the whole State $34.51. The District of Columbia per capita subscriptions was $65.00; Virginia $20.51; West Virginia $18.94; North Carolina $10.24; South Carolina $12.18. The per capita subscription for the whole Fifth District was $20.26.

Maryland also lead in the number of subscribers to the third loan. Against its total of 253,916 was the District of Columbia 135,824; Virginia 1[illegible]3,787; West Virginia 125,344; North Carolina 81,582; South Carolina 87,905, making a total of 858,358. The percentage of the population of the Fifth District subscribing to the loan was 9.34.

Chautauqua begins this Saturday.

To save your homes from the flames destroying France, your babies from the sword that murdered infants in Poland, your daughters from the hordes that ravished Belgium Women even as they fled through the streets, American men are making the supreme sacrifice. What sacrifice will you make to help equip these defenders of your country? What will you give up that you may help finance the struggle to save American freedom? Get ready for the 4th Liberty Bond next month.

SUNDAY MOTORING UNDER STRICT BAN

Sundays, east of the Mississippi, will hereafter be deprived of their salient feature—the motorist.

The Fuel Administration has called upon all users of gasoline vehicles and watercraft in that territory to keep them idle on Sunday to save fuel for the Army and Navy.

The exceptions to this sweeping ruling are:

Tractors and motor trucks engaged in freight transportation.

Physicians' vehicles used for professional duties.

Ambulances, fire apparatus, police patrol wagons, undertakers' wagons and funeral conveyances.

Railway rolling stock propelled by gasoline.

Repair equipment of telephone and other public utilities companies.

Motor vehicles on emergency cases in rural communities where no transportation by steam or electricity is available.

Motor associations have heartily endorsed the order, the opinion being that if gasoline has to be saved it will be done in the spirit of patriotism.

According to advices from Washington, compliance with the ruling is at present voluntary, but it will be made mandatory should there be no general observance of it. It was pointed out that those who do not comply with the order will, by their appearance on the road in their cars, be self-announced slackers.

The restriction placed on the use of automobiles are only temporary, according to the Fuel Administration, until the present crisis is passed. Should they prove inadequate, however, it is probable that the motorists of the country will follow those of England in adapting their cars to the use of illuminating gas.
