Religious Enemies Of Smith Rebuked

Dr. Henry Van Dyke Denounces Those Who Invoke Anti-Catholic Prejudice

SAYS PLOT IS AFOOT

Educator and Author States That Hoover Is Not Checking Activities of Supporters

New York.—Declaring that the question of religious liberty is the most important one in the present political campaign, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, educator, author and Presbyterian clergyman, of Princton, N. J., recently attacked what he termed a "widespread cabal" to prevent the election of Governor Smith because he is a Catholic.

The denunciation of the "overt fulminations and covert whisperings" of those who are invoking anti-Catholic prejudice for the defeat of the Governor was expressed by Dr. Van Dyke in a letter from his summer home at Seal Harbor, Maine, to William Church Osborn, New York State director of finance for the Democratic National Committee.

"At the present time there is on foot in these United States a widespread cabal to keep one of the candidates for the Presidency from election because he is a member of the Catholic Church," Dr. Van Dyke wrote. "The other candidate has handsomely disavowed any personal share in the sentiments or arguments which chararterize this cabal. This is much to his credit.

"But unfortunately he cannot, or at least he does not, restrain and check the pernicious activity of his supporters, who are convinced that the end of a victory for their party justifies any means which they employ to secure it. Hence, if their candidate should be elected, he would owe his election in part to the religious prejudice and anti-Catholic enmity which the cabalists have stirred up and marshaled to the polls. This would be a misfortune for him and a calamity for our country as the home and citadel of religious liberty.

"The mere prospect of such a calamity ought to move the hearts of true Americans and honest Christians with dismay, and awaken their minds to serious thought and earnest action in defense of that real freedom of conscience which is the hard-won crowning glory of America and the dearest jewel of Christianity."

Evidence of the existence of a powerful anti-Catholic cabal is too clear, Dr. Van Dyke believes, to be ignored, "except by those who are asleep or voluntarily imitating the opossum." Proof, he wrote Mr. Osborn, "comes in many ways, now in the bold vociferations of a howling bigot, now in the gentle murmurs of mild congregational ministers who merely suggest that it is not improper to let your ecclesiastical prejudices control your vote."

Instead of endangering the principle of separation between church and state or threatening American freedom, Dr. Van Dyke continued, the election of a Catholic to the Presidency would prove the reality of that freedom by emphasizing the firmness of such separation.

"I am convinced," he wrote, "that most of our citizens, men and women, do not comprehend the fierceness and subtlety with which that freedom is now being attacked by the great cabal. Let me illustrate it by a small, concrete, pernicious piece of which I have found floating around in this quiet little village on the sea coast of Maine.

"It is a pamphlet, well printed on expensive paper, bearing the title 'America's Two Unwritten Laws.' The name of the author is modestly withheld, but he signs his production with the initials 'E. A.' (which may possibly mean Evidently Absurd), and he is careful to give an address at which further copies of his pamphlet may be procured for distribution. Thus his production betrays all the earmarks of cabalism. It is anonymous, it pretends to be respectable and it begs support for its propaganda.

"The second 'unwritten law' which 'Evidently Absurd' lays down for America is this: 'No Catholic shall be President of the United States.'

"Who framed this law for a country which expressly declares in its Constitution that no such law shall be made? Who dares to put it into words and proclaim it in a country which stands expressly for religious liberty and to whose flag millions of people have been drawn by the nobility of that pledge?

"This is nullification with a vengeance! It affects not a mere matter of physical habits and diet, but a national principle of peace and union. It proclaims a jehad, a religious war in the heart of America.

"Freedom of conscience is the greatest thing at stake in this campaign. Hundreds of thousands of voters fail to realize it. Interested in other matters they ignore this vital cause. Both of the Presidential candidates in this election are men of integrity and ability.

"Our choice between them should be made on a conscientious conviction of their respective equipment for the difficult task. But if one of them should be excluded from the Presidency by votes cast against him on the ground that he is a Catholic it would dishonor the pledged faith of America and cast away her most precious heritage."

Twin Coincidence

Mary and Jane, sisters, were married June 12, 1924, to John and Bill, brothers.

On Christmas day, December 25, 1927, twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mary and John. On the same day twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Jane and Bill.

The baby boys weighed identically the same, 7½ pounds, each weighing more than his baby sister, while the weight of the girls differed ½ pound. —Capper's Weekly.
