CANDY AT THE FRONT A NEED---NOT A LUXURY

Sugar, as everyone now knows, is a quick heating body fuel. It is the most necessary at the front because it is the most easily shippable. Honey and maple syrup and such like delicious sweeteners can be better handled in peaceful Maryland than "over there," within the sound of the guns. So it is up to us to ship * * * every last ounce of sugar we can send to the boys who need it most.

The amount needed can be calculated from a request from the Y. M. C. A. for a September shipment of 12,000,000 five and ten-cent bars of chocolate, the same amount as was sent in August. In addition to this, 200,000 cartons of candy have been shipped from this side every month. Ten tons of chocolate and five of hard candy are forwarded each month to England and the same quantity to Italy. It is sent because the soldiers need that body-fuel in handy form. For the same reason, we at home must turn our attention to the other sweeteners and ship the sugar.

That the boys crave this candy and call for more is shown in an excerpt from the letter of a young college boy now serving as a private in France, who writes his mother: "If you have any chance to slip us some sweets, don't fail to do so. The Triangle Huts are fairly mobbed when a candy consignment arrives and I never yet have gotten there in time to get my share."

Is your boy getting his share? That question should ensure that every American who displays a service pin should help along the Food Administration not only by observing the two-pound-a-month ration but also by seeing that his neighbors likewise play the game.

Heart of beef and pork—likewise tongue, liver, sweetbreads and brains. Can't ship 'em. Eat 'em!

According to the autumn regulations of the Federal Food Administration, greater latitude is allowed to both public and private flour-makers. The amount of cereal substitutes required in flour is now reduced to 20 per cent. Provision is made for the sale of "Victory mixed flour," but where straight wheat flour is sold 20 per cent. of other cereals must be sold at the same time. Corn meal for use in cornbread should be purchased separately from combination sales.

"Stir like a madman" is the word of advice given in a famous recipe for salad dressing. It is also a splendid motto to remember when you try to get all the sweetness out of the level teaspoonful of sugar allowed you with your breakfast coffee.

TO MAINTAIN ALLIED MORALE.

"We cannot ask for better bread than France, and we propose the American people should maintain a common standard of bread with them. Under these arrangements, however, the bread situation in the United States will be much easier than last year, and in Allied countries an enormous improvement. Bread to them is of the first importance as it comprises fifty per cent. of their food intake. By supplying them with bread and fats in such amounts as will not necessitate rationing on their side we can rest assured that their courage and strength in the war will remain high during next winter. It will be a bad winter in Europe because coal will be much shorter there than even last winter, and the health of their populations cannot be maintained if they, in addition, are to be also restricted in their allowance of bread and fats. Our complete fulfillment of our last year's promises in food and our assurances to furnish even larger supplies this next year have removed from them the last fear of hunger." From statement issued by Herbert Hoover on his return from his survey of food conditions overseas.

The Allied peoples are eating at a common table, in a common cause. In the necessities of life it must be "share and share alike."

SEVEN WAYS TO SAVE SUGAR.

1. Use fresh fruits without sugar.
2. Cook dried fruits without additional sugar.
3. Can more fruit without sugar. Put up fewer jams and jellies.
4. Use less sugar in tea and coffee.
5. Avoid such sugar luxuries as candy, cakes, chewing gum, sweet drinks and sodas.
6. Use honey, maple sugar and syrups and other sweeteners when available.
7. Forego all desserts or other dishes that require much sugar.

GREEN TOMATO PIE.
(Official Recipe.)

Two cups salted green tomatoes, two-thirds cup syrup, two tablespoons cornstarch, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, two teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar.

Soak the tomatoes for two hours, cut them in small pieces, and cook until tender. Add the other ingredients, and cook the mixture until it is thick and clear. It may be used for a two-crust pie, or it may be placed in a lower crust and covered with a meringue.

Saving sugar saves shipping space for sending soldiers and supplies.

Housewives should learn to read the Fair Price List as faithfully as men read the baseball score.

Eleven ships could carry 250,000 tons of sugar from Java to France next year. But they would have to be taken off the job of transporting and maintaining 200,000 American soldiers. In other words, there are no ships to meet the demands of sugar guzzlers.

What is the difference between an OCULIST and an OPTOMETRIST?

The Oculist treats diseased eyes and fits glasses according to the laws of optics. The Pptometrist uses the same means for detecting any disease, but does not treat, but refers to the Oculist or family Physician. The Optometrist fits glasses according to the laws of optics just the same as the Oculist, but without drugs or drops.
