Father Insists that Mrs. Smith's Death Was An Accident

Cites Letters, Lack of Preparation to Prove No Motive Existed.

day quarrel; the only occurrence in any way approximating a difference between them being the fact that Mrs. Smith, as the husband says, 'acted a bit peeved upon my return from a football rally late Saturday night.'

"'But,' he further says, 'there was really nothing to it, for it was patched up with a joke and a kiss, and nothing more was said about it.' The preceding day, Friday, there was nothing irritable present between us.'

"After his work, that evening the two went for a long walk and, as the husband says, ended their period of recreation by playing cards with his father and eating ice cream at the parents' home until after midnight.

"In a letter to her brother written on Saturday, Mrs. Smith said: 'My boy friend has not come in yet, but I am expecting him any minute.'

"As to the picture spoken of as torn to bits and flung beside the body of Mrs. Smith, the real fact is that there was a small snapshot of her husband that had been torn to bits, on her dressing table in her bedroom, not beside her in the kitchen where she died.

"This the investigating officers found when they went through the apartment. Just when the picture was torn, the husband does not know, but attached no significance to it, 'because,' he says, 'Ellen had a habit of destroying photos (she had a camera) she considered did not do justice to the person's appearance.'

"In all, then, there appears no trace of motive for intention in the death of Mrs. Smith.

Crevices not Chinked

"Jewelry, nothing in the event gives the least suggestion of premeditation and preparation for intention. Not a crevice in the chinking crevices under door or windows, no lubing attached to the gas-jet.

"As to the locked doors, it was the custom, to keep the doors locked out of regard for her safety when alone when her husband was at work. She kept the key to one of the doors her husband, the key to the other. As happened the Sunday of the event, the spare forgot to take his key with him.

"Besides, she was found in a sitting position toward a couch in the kitchen, as if overcome at the stove (the gas-jet was above the stove), and seeking to make her way to the couch.

"The fact remains, then, that Mrs. Smith came to her untimely death in a way unknown and now unknowably, but from all indications, accidental."

Ambitious Workman Fined for Disturbance over Pay

Because he allegedly created a disturbance while attempting to collect for work which he had not been authorized to do, Frank Finney, 30, of 18 S. Dugan Street, was fined $3 and costs, Thursday, in the Northwestern police court.

Testimony given by officers disclosed that Finney was employed by E. Baltimore Street. Finney said he was told he would be paid if he did a job which was being done by his employer.

When Rolls refused to pay him for the extra work, Fisher became enraged, police stated.

Artists' Agency Offers Elton Fax in Lecture

The Curtis-Carter Artists' Agency presented Elton Clay Fax in a lecture on modern art at the Cosmopolitan Community Church, Lafayette and Madison Avenue, Tuesday.

Appearing on the program with Mr. Fax were Mrs. Katherine N. White, pianist, and Miss Dorothy Scott, coloratura soprano.

The next artist to be presented will be Sheldon B. Hoskins, dancer, on Tuesday, January 8, in the Dove Auditorium. Mr. Hoskins is giving his first program of a series that will take him throughout the United States, in Baltimore.

H.U. Junior Linked In 2-Year Reign of Toothpick Burglar

Street, Monday night, by Detective Sergeants B. W. Thompson, Tom Sullivan, Tom Sweeney, Mike Mahanney and C. H. Trammell, and loot valued at $25,000 was reported seized.

Called Toothpick Burglaries

The several burglaries charged to Stillwell have been referred to by detectives as having been committed by the "toothpick burglar."

This name was given because of the method in which the robberies were committed. The burglar never changed his mode of operation, according to Captain Thompson.

He would enter the house with a pass key or by cutting through a rear screen door, and then stuff the key-hole with a bunch of toothpicks, thus making it impossible for anyone returning home before the work was completed to open the door and surprise him at work.

Picked Theatre Hour

According to police, the burglar always wore gloves, leaving no finger prints, and would go to his work about dusk, while residents were attending the theatre.

In the loot that was found in Stillwell's home were three carloads of stolen goods, including piles of clothing, works of watches, whose cases of gold had been sold, rings whose settings had been sold, several dozen tennis rackets, motion pictures machines, microscopes, fur coats, cameras, and even scientific instruments.

Capture Requires 8 Months

For eight months, under the direction of Captain Thompson, the detective squad has been searching the trail of this one-man crime wave.

Detectives became suspicious of Stillwell when he reported that someone had stolen some jewelry and money from him. The description of the goods reported by Stillwell as stolen, tallied with the purport of his remarks had previously been pronounced by the jurist, Judge Ulman graciously accepted his exhaustion.

Asks Three Questions

The second bombshell of the trial came when Judge O'Dunne, after his return from recess asked, the prosecutor to enlighten him on three points before making their arguments.

In a quite deliberate manner he put his questions, each of which put the bar association attorneys decidedly on the defensive.

Judge Asks Views

"If wish to hear from you," he said "how far the action of the bar association in publicizing these charges is actuated by Mr. Ades's belief, that the case which he exposed, concerning race prejudice and southern justice.

"Disguise it as we will, we are aware that the conditions of which Mr. Ades spoke of the need of a new philosophy of life, a square deal for all, and civilized wages based on ability rather than color will here is much finer than that which exists in some sections which I have visited and read about."

Mr. Brodsky, in an eloquent plea, branded the case as one of persecution instead of prosecution.

"This young man," he said, "who has given the best part of his life and energies fighting for justice and equality, should be given the praise of the bar association instead of its condemnation.

"You should feel proud that there is one among you who is too courageous to sit complacently by and see a travesty on justice which he can prevent. Perhaps he was a bit violent in some of his expressions. The increasing years may mellow his utterances, but I pray that they will never crush that spirit of the crusader in him which is so rare among us. He is not here for malpractice or for embezzling the money of a client. He is here because he fought to save the life of a member of a minority group whom he believed to be innocent and still does. This bar association should be proud to have such a man as a member."

concealed anger, snapped Robert Carman, prosecuting attorney for indictments that brought out the fact that Mr. Ades was a few years in jail.

"Mr. Carman," shouted Judge Ulman in a voice which startled the court room, "I cannot sit here and permit you to drag a racial issue into these proceedings by the line of questioning you are pursuing. Ades is here as a citizen of this state and an American citizen and not as a Jew."

Mr. Carman had asked Mr. Ades if he thought the bar association was prosecuting him on all sides of his "nationality, race or faith."

Mr. Ades answered that he had no nationality or race other than American and that he "certainly hoped not." When Mr. Carman attempted to force this point, Judge Ulman voiced his objection.

Mr. Carman apologized to the court, declaring that he was absolutely free from prejudice and that the purport of his remarks had been misunderstood by himself and the jurist. Judge Ulman graciously accepted his explanation.

Rep. Mitchell Absent from Fraternity Fete

WASHINGTON.—The Zeta Phi Beta sorority was disappointed by the absence of two expected guests at its "at home" given in honor of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity Friday at Sojourner Truth Hall, Howard University, from 7 to 8 p.m.

The new Congressman, Arthur W. Mitchell, national president of the fraternity, was expected, but did not attend; and the national president of the sorority, Mrs. Violet Anderson, of Chicago, fell at her home and broke two ribs just before the holidays.

No reason was known for the absence of the Congressman. About three hundred guests were received during the evening. In the receiving line were Miss Grace Collins, national secretary; Miss Beatrice Catlett, president of the local graduate chapter; Miss Ethel Payton, Miss Justine Townes and Miss Florence Graves.

quately led unit its leader comes from its own lines," the speaker said, adding that "it is impossible for South Africa to reach the goal of social justice unless a dynamic knowledge is acquired concerning the proper development of the natives."

"Social Equality Stuff"

"The social equality issue must also be dispelled," further stated the speaker. "The Caucasian believes in and practices more of the social equality stuff than the colored group has an opportunity. Another fallacy is current, that education spoils the Africans.

"There is also a biological fallacy," he continued, "that the nonwhite is the white man's inferior. This has been exposed by showing that what often appears to be inferiority is due to difference in oportunity and environment."

Doubt Dispellers

Asserting that demonstrations are the best manner to dispel doubt, Bishop Sims advised:

"Demonstrate by sacrifice to worthy end. Demonstrate by making and following your own ideals. Demonstrate by sharing community responsibilities, unemployment programs, better housing, better education.

"Challenge every step made by individuals and organizations which are antagonistic to or handicap the interest of the colored group," was another admonition.

Burglary Suspect Is Held When Most of $500 Loot Is Found

With police testifying that they had recovered part of the $500 worth of loot taken from the second-hand store at 1819 E. Fayette Street, William Johnson, 18, of 1633 E. Fayette Street, was held for the grand jury, Tuesday, after a police court hearing.

Detective Sergeant Thompson was arrested, the officers stated, when another man who attempted to pawn one of the stolen suits informed them that he had been given the suit by Johnson. When they searched Johnson's home, police declared, they recovered $400 worth of the loot.

Suspect Must Wait

The store was burglarized on November 28, and clothing, jewelry and household articles were not recovered, to some worth, apparently made several trips to the store to remove the loot through a rear window, which had been jimmied to gain entrance to the place.

The loot recovered consisted of fifteen wrist watches, seventeen suits, two overcoats and a guitar. Police believe that Johnson gave the household articles, which were not recovered, to some woman, although he refused to tell where he had disposed of them.

Retirement Official to Address School Masters

Sherwood R. Murphy, white, secretary of the Employees' Retirement Commission of Baltimore City will address the regular monthly meeting of the School Masters' Club, Saturday, in the lecture room of the Druid Hill Avenue Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Murphy's subject will be "How the Pension System of Baltimore Operates." The meeting is scheduled to open at 8:15 p.m.

Riot Call Sent In By Board of Cheltenham

Police Are Called When Protest Delegation Arrives.

RED SPEAKER MAKES GROUP WEAK-KNEED

AFRO Barred from Protest Meeting.

Tormented by the fear of an attack from a group of mothers seeking to have their sons released from the reformatory at Cheltenham, and a few men who accompanied them, members of the board of the institution sent in a riot call that nearly precipitated serious disorder in the Vickers Building, Thursday.

Although the only sign of trouble was the over-loud tone of Leonard Patterson, president of the Young Communists' League, who was protesting conditions at Cheltenham, the call for bluecoats was sent to the central station house.

Nearly a dozen patrolmen and detectives crowded into the narrow hallways of the building, stormed the door of the reformatory office, and came full tilt for trouble—only to find a few elderly women and a mildly curious group of persons on the scene.

Notwithstanding, the officers were begged to remain by the board members, some of whom declared that the protestants were looking for trouble.

AFRO Barred

In the midst of the excitement a white reporter from one of the daily papers arrived, and was readily admitted to the meeting although a man stationed at the door of the office refused to give an AFRO reporter permission to enter the meeting on the ground that it was a closed affair.

Under the watchful eyes of the officers, members of the Abolish Cheltenham Committee, who helped to arrange the meeting, were permitted to make statements.

Mr. Patterson summarized the stories of various horrors at Cheltenham and presented the following demands:

1. Release of Fitzhugh Briscoe, an emergency case of illness.
2. Release of all other cases presented to the board.
3. Abolition of whippings of children.
4. Abolition of Table No. 5 (at which boys are placed in punishment without food).
5. Abolition of the system of Guard Hurley for the shooting of Aubrey Brunson, an inmate.
6. Removal of all white guards.
7. Regular union wages for all work done by inmates.
8. Release of all cases presented to the board.
9. Vocational and academic training by qualified teachers.
10. Right of mothers to visit children in hospital any time.
11. Adequate clothing, shoes and nourishing food.
12. No new direction in place of John Ryles.
13. No more censoring of the mail.
14. Right of parents to visit their children at any time.
15. Free access for the public to investigate Cheltenham at any time.

When the recitation of what was wanted ended, a member of the board asked whether the board was being threatened, and received a negative reply.

Other Protests Given

The mothers protested and told of the conditions, and Miss Jean Early, a white member of the committee, told of conditions which are supposed to be existing in the Maryland State Reformatory.

Members of the board asked Miss Early whether she was a Communist. She refused to tell her affiliation, and stated that it was no affair of the board's.

Mr. Patterson was then asked his affiliation, and he declared that he is a member of the Young Communist League of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Delaware. He added, however, that parties do not have anything to do with the condition at Cheltenham.

Some board members said that they had considered making changes at Cheltenham. The delegation demanded an immediate answer to their demands. Board members said that this could not be done, but that each item would be carefully considered and notification given later.

After the delegation was dismissed, a meeting was held at 1304 E. Baltimore Street. There a resolution was drawn to send a delegation to the police commissioner to find out why it was necessary to send police protection for the board.

Cheltenham Gets Only 2 Victims; Link Drop to Renewed Protests

Apparent effects of attacks directed against the Cheltenham Reformatory, were seen this week, as only two boys were committed to the school, following hearings in the Juvenile court.

The boys who were sent to the school are Henry Smith, 14, of 1029 East Monument Street, and William Hall 11, of 410 N. Carrollton Avenue. Both are said to be second offenders and were committed on accusations of violating their parole.

Average Has Been 4 Weekly

In previous weeks an average of four boys weekly were sent to the school. The decrease in the number is seen by some as a result of the activities of the Carrollton Cheltenham Committee, which was formed at a hearing before judge Thomas Waxter in the juvenile court, Monday.

Young Smith was accused of stealing an emergency relief check of $7.80, made payable to his father, Robert Smith. He was arrested, police say, after he had spent the money treating friends.

John T. Rhines Must Pay Sum to Dumas Estate

Judgement Is Returned Against John T. Rhines in Court of Appeals.

CLAIM SUM UNPAID BALANCE ON NOTE

Property of Late Doctor Sold at Trustee's Sale.

WASHINGTON. — John T. Rhines, an undertaker, 901 Third Street, southwest, must pay a deficiency judgment of $6,725 to the estate of Mrs. Margaret C. Dumas, widow of the late Dr. Michel O. Dumas, the court of appeals of the District of Columbia decided last Monday.

The deficiency resulted through the sale of property at 1825 Thirteenth Street, northwest, which Mr. Rhines and his wife, Mrs. Eleanora Rhines, had purchased from Mrs. Dumas.

Mrs. Dumas sold the property to Mr. and Mrs. Rhines June 2, 1927, and received in part payment of the purchase price a promissory note signed by the purchasers, payable to her order, in the sum of $10,750. The note was secured by a second deed of trust on the property.

Later Sold Property

Mr. and Mrs. Rhines sold the property October 19, 1928, to Ellen B. Brown, who took title subject to the second trust, but did not promise or assume to pay the debt secured by it.

Mrs. Brown conveyed in April, 1929, the property, subject to the second trust, to Dr. William A. Cameron, who, by the terms of the conveyance to him, assumed and agreed to pay the second trust note.

Second Trust in Default

The second trust being in default, in March, 1932, the property was sold at a trustees' sale for $3,000, subject to a first trust of $7,000. The net proceeds of the sale, $2,229, was credited on the second trust note, leaving an unpaid balance of $8,725.

Mrs. Dumas brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia against Mr. and Mrs. Rhines in April, 1932, to recover from them the unpaid balance on the note.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhines denied liability upon the note, claiming that it was agreed the conveyance to Dr. Cameron and his assumption of the trust indebtedness, he would become liable as the principal upon the note, and they were liable as his sureties.

Had Extended Time

They also alleged that subsequently, without their knowledge and consent, Mrs. Dumas had extended the time of payment of the note by agreement with Dr. Cameron, and that as a result, they were released from their obligation as sureties and were no longer liable.

The suit was tried and at the close of the evidence, Mrs. Dumas's attorney asked for a directed verdict, which the court declined. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Rhines. An appeal was taken.

In the opinion delivered by Chief Justice George E. Martin, the appellate court held that Dr. Cameron "under the circumstances never became legally liable to Mrs. Dumas upon the note in question either as principal or as surety."

"In the conveyance which Mr. and Mrs. Rhines executed to Mrs. Brown," the court declared, "the latter did not promise or obligate herself to pay the indebtedness secured by the second trust. Therefore there was no privity of contract between Brown and Dumas in respect to the debt.

No Privity of Contract

"In the deed of conveyance executed by Mrs. Brown to Cameron it was stipulated that Cameron assumed to pay the trust debt, but it established by competent authority that under the circumstances Cameron did not become liable upon the debt to Mrs. Dumas inasmuch as his grantor, Mrs. Brown, was not personally liable thereon, and accordingly there was no privity of contract between Cameron and Mrs. Dumas. Mr. and Mrs. Rhines accordingly remained the sole obligors upon the debt."

The appeal was prosecuted by Mrs. Dorothy De Leon, administratrix, and William H. Clagett, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Dumas. Samuel M. Boyd represented the estate.

Suspect Trapped at Pawn Shop Long After Burglary

Claimed by policemen to have made a confession in connection with the burglarizing of the pawn shop at 1336 East Monument Street ten months ago, John Thompson, of 1818 East Fayette Street, was held for the grand jury after a hearing, Tuesday.

Thompson, police say, was arrested when he attempted to pawn a suit in the second-half store of Benjamin Schwartz, at 1819 East Fayette Street, which had been burglarized a few days previously. Upon confession which police quoted Thompson as making, he then related that he had kept the suit since February, when he burglarized the store, to prevent detection. A code number used by clothing dealers in that section caused Thompson's arrest on suspicion.

Loiterer Fined $25 for Carrying Oversize Knife

Because he was found with a large dirk knife in his possession when questioned at Henrietta and Sharp Streets by Sergeant Hubert Murphy, Harry Allen, 29, of 1806 Sharp Street, was fined $25 and costs, Monday, for carrying a deadly weapon.

Officer testified that he noticed Allen standing beside a house that appeared to be was attempting to burglarize the place. On finding the open knife, he arrested the man, the officer declared. Allen stated that he was waiting for a young woman.

Community Fund Campaign Nears Quota at Close

Community Fund contributions totaling $1,000 or more had total very nearly 100 per cent of the original quota of $6,000 when the final audit is made, it is the opinion of J. Nelson Fortune, district chief in this year's drive.

Pledges are still being paid, according to Mr. Fortune, the amounts pledged during the drive totaled eighty-three per cent of quota and the cash reported ran between forty-three and fifty per cent of the goal.

No definite figure on the amount of money raised was released, due to the fact that a number of pledges are expected to be paid later, and because a fairly large group of contributors with Boards Five have contributed through city organizations or through the firms that employ them.

Final Meeting Wednesday

A dinner to formally thank all workers of any sort whatever, and all contributors to the campaign, was held Wednesday night at the Druid Hill Y.W.C.A.

"I have nothing but praise for those who have worked so nobly for me," Mr. Fortune said Thursday morning. "I wish especially to thank the Y.W.C.A. personnel, Miss Pearl Gray, who acted as secretary and without whose services, and her perseverance, many efforts would have been futile.

"Mrs. Mary E. Rodin, the division majors Miss Fannie Barbour, Mrs. Viola Coleman, Mrs. Elvira Bond and George Hunter and all the workers.

Schools Showed Spirit

Mr. Fortune was enthusiastic in his praise of the spirit exhibited by the night schools and churches. The night school at School No. 110 tripled its efforts of any previous year. The Douglass High night school, Schools Nos. 180 and 182, East Baltimore were also highly commended.

"Churches and their pastors all over Baltimore gave me their support and contributed freely," the campaign chief stated. "I wish personally to thank every individual who took part in the drive.

"District Five has no apologies to make. In comparison with other years, we have accomplished a miracle."

Plan Educational Program

Plans for an educational program to arouse city-wide interest in charitable work of the sort sponsored by the Community Fund, were made Wednesday night. It was decided that organizations such as the Urban League, the Y.W.C.A., Provident Hospital and the Day Nursery are here to stay.

The responsibility for their support, should be taught the general public so that they may be adequately cared for, was the opinion expressed at the meeting.

This educational program will be the end that the drive next fall will bring in even greater returns.

general fixing the date of judgment as December 6.

"Under the Alabama law, the failure to file the bill of exceptions within the statutory time is not a jurisdictional defect. Unless there is affirmative action — unless the motion to strike is made — a bill, though filed late, must be entertained."

Patterson was found guilty on December 1, 1933. Immediately after the verdict, Patterson's counsel requested an extension of time beyond thirty days within which to file a motion for a new trial, stating that the transcript of testimony was necessary in order to prepare a proper motion and that he had been informed by the stenographer that the transcript would not be ready in less than a month.

Refuse Extension

Judge Callahan refused an extension beyond thirty days, telling defense counsel in substance to apply to him for a continuance for additional thirty-day periods in order to file an amended motion.

"The motion for a new trial was filed on December 29. The motion was continued to January 27 and, after an interchange of letters, to February 24. The attorneys for the state did nothing until the latter date when they proposed the theory that the defendant did not have "thirty days within which to make a motion for a new trial."

Term Ended

Reciting that the judgment against Patterson had been rendered on December 6 at a term which ended by operation of law on December 29, Attorney General Knight moved to strike the motion for a new trial because it was not presented until after the end of the term. Judge Callahan granted the motion. An application for a rehearing was denied. Upon appeal the ruling striking out the motion for a new trial was affirmed.

Patterson is one of nine youths who are charged with attacking Mrs. Price and Ruby Bates aboard a Southern freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., on March 25, 1931, after a fight with seven white boys.

Has Had 3 Trials

He has had three trials and has been three times convicted. The first conviction was reversed by the United States Supreme Court on the ground that he did not have the proper assistance of counsel in the trial of his case.

The second conviction was set aside by Judge James E. Horton, who presided over the second trial, on the ground that the conviction was against the weight of the evidence. At that trial Mrs. Price testified for the defense.

Euel Lee, one of the defendants is seeking a review of the third conviction.

The petition refers to the Euel Lee case, in which the Maryland Court of Appeals reversed a judgment of conviction because of the exclusion of colored persons from jury duty and specifically overruled the contention that the issue should have been raised by bill of exceptions.

The brief is signed by Walter H. Pollak and Osmond K. Fraenkel, of the International Labor Defense, who also filed the brief on behalf of Norris, Clarence Patterson, who represented the boys in Alabama is not mentioned as counsel in the appeal.

Frosh and Juniors Near Tie for Honor Places

Freshmen and juniors at the Cooper Normal School of the former for scholastic honors, this week, when quarterly reports showed the eight students of the former of the class and nine of the latter had averaged higher than the required average of eighty or better.

Levin Is Member of the Nice Brain Trust

Harry O. Levin, white, who represented the fourth district for two terms in the Maryland Senate, started out two years ago to reorganize the Republican party in Baltimore.

It was he who first proposed the nomination of Harry W. Nice as candidate for governor. The Republican leaders thought it was a joke, but it developed a reputation.

Mr. Levin is a member of the Brain Trust in the new administration, in the city, recently returned from Florida, where he vacationed with the party of the governor-elect.

Rumford Representatives to Give Demonstrations

A two-night cooking demonstration conducted by Mrs. Mattie L. Handy and Mrs. Randall T. Tyus, representatives of the Rumford Baking Powder Company will be held at Metropolitan M.E. Church, Carrollton Avenue and Lanvale Street, Monday and Tuesday.

On Thursday and Friday nights of next week, these two representatives who form Rumford's eastern team, will conduct similar demonstrations at People's Christian Church.

The time of these two representatives in Baltimore has been extended, company officials announced this week. After their Christmas vacation which starts on December 17, they will return to the city on January 2 to continue their activities.

Mrs. Handy demonstrated her culinary art at the big AFRO-AMERICAN Cooking School held at the Strand auditorium in October, and has been in the employ of the company for seven years. A second team, composed of Mrs. Cora Scott and Ramon Scruggs, is meeting with similar success in the west and southwest.

TASTY RECIPES

By M. M.

Deviled Ham, French Style

6 slices cooked ham
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
4 cups soft bread crumbs.
1 cup sweet milk.
4 cups cooked beans.
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento.
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
1 cup canned tomatoes.
1 teaspoon salt.

Directions—Slice ham ¼ inch thick. Mix mustard, bread crumbs, and sweet milk to form a paste. Spread paste lightly on both sides of sliced ham and arrange the slices close together on a platter that will stand oven heat. Dot ham with small bits of butter and place under broiler flame and brown. Remove platter and turn meat carefully. Cook onion in a little butter until onion is clear. Then add the green sweet pepper and continue cooking until pepper is soft. Add the tomatoes and let cook to boil again, add teaspoon salt and mix this with rice and pimiento. Arrange a border of the rice around the meat and place under broiler again to brown.

Rice Mold with Pineapple

1 cup cooked rice, sweetened to taste.
1 can crushed pineapple.
1 package of vanilla pudding dessert.

Directions—Prepare pudding dessert as usual, mix with rice and pineapple, pour into large or individual molds, chill and serve with a sauce made with pineapple juice, juice of one lemon, and 2 tablespoons sugar.

Cranberry Sundae

Directions—Place a generous tablespoonful of ten-minute cranberry sauce over a portion of vanilla ice cream. Top off with whipped cream and one or two large berries collected from the sauce—if desired.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

STEAKS, chops and roasts have a strong appetite after a feast of poultry. Veal and pork are attractively priced this week, and although beef and lamb are somewhat higher they are still inexpensive. Green beans and spinach are the outstanding green vegetables of the month, but cabbage is still the cheapest. A variety of salad greens tempts both appetite and pocketbook.

The citrus fruits, oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are abundant that their price is too low to profit the grower. Apples too, are plentiful and moderate in cost.

Here are three menus made up from seasonable foods.

¾ cup shortening.
Cold water.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce

1 quart cranberries.
2 cups water.
2 cups sugar.

Directions — Boil sugar and water together five minutes, then add cranberries and boil without stirring for six minutes, or until all the skins pop open. Remove from fire when the popping stops and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

Planked Round Steak with Vegetables.

1½ tablespoon fat.
½ teaspoon chopped onion.
1 egg, slightly beaten.
1 teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
¾ pound ground round steak.
¼ pound ground pork.
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
½ cup milk.
1 cup corn flake crumbs.
1 slice bacon.
Boiled potatoes, parsleyed.
Whole buttered onions.
Diced cooked carrots.
Spinach, cooked.

Pan fry the onion in the fat. Combine with it the egg, seasonings, parsley, meat, milk, and corn crumbs. Form the mixture into a flat loaf on a plank, a shallow baking pan, or a fireproof platter. Place the strip of bacon across the top. Surround the loaf with boiled potatoes, baking in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for about thirty-five minutes. Take and brush the potatoes with butter, and sprinkle them with chopped parsley. If the meal can be served on the baking plank or platter, do so. Otherwise transfer the meat and potatoes to a hot table platter. Between the potatoes arrange hot buttered onions and nests of spinach filled with diced cooked carrots. Pass chili sauce as an accompaniment.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cream will whip more quickly if the bowl and beater are chilled in the refrigerator along with the cream.

When using bananas for a pudding or salad garnish, dip each slice in lemon or pineapple juice. This will prevent them from turning dark.

Cut rolled cookies carefully from the first rolling of dough so as to use as much of the dough as possible. Dough that has been rolled more than once is less tender. Don't add scraps of dough to fresh dough. Save these and roll them out together at the last.
