42 YEARS SERVICE AS SUPERINTENDENT

Benj. F. Rash was surely surprised and delighted last Friday when he was called from his home and presented a silver loving cup and a basket of lovely flowers. The occasion was in recognition of the 42 years of faithful service as superintendent of Union M. E. Sunday School, from which he resigned last week.

Rev. Mr. Hanby made the presentation of the silver cup and Mrs. G. Frank Clark, one of his first scholars, presented the flowers. The lawn of Mr. Rash's home was lighted and the large assemblage served with refreshments.

Mowbray Hadaway will succeed Mr. Rash in charge of this flourishing school. The first pastor of Mr. Rash was the late Rev. J. B. Merritt.

Mr. Rash is not only industrious in the work of the kingdom of God but is one of Kent's best citizens and is always to be found on the side of good citizens. May his tribe increase.

Massyaf Ruins, in Syria, Reveal Story of Plunder

In the Ansariya foothills northeast of the port of Tripoli, in Syria, stand the crumbling ruins of a stronghold that was neither Christian nor Moslem, but was one of the most notorious in the world—the castle of Massyaf, once an abode of the Old Man of the Mountain.

He was really the Shaikh al Jebal, or Chieftain of the Hills, called by the Moslems "the Lord of the Portals of Death." He was, in fact, a true lord of misrule, because he was one of the heads of the strange order of Ismailites, or Assassins, according to the National Geographic society.

"The tales told of these Assassins," an Arab chronicler relates, "would turn the hair of a new-born baby gray."

The secret brotherhood of Assassins came into being in the Eleventh century, originating in the streets of Cairo and spreading swiftly eastward as far as Persia. Enemies of the master of the order were removed from his path by the daggers of his drug-inflamed assassins, and his followers were rewarded by a visit to a truly remarkable artificial paradise of wine, women and song built on the summit of a mountain back of Kazvin, in northern Persia.

Legends relate that the Old Man of the Mountain never ate or slept, and that he could pass in and out of his mountain strongholds without being seen. With a few men lodged in an eyrie secretly built or purchased, he could lay a city under bondage of fear. Many a wealthy merchant of that day awoke in the morning to find two rolls of bread, the visiting card of the assassins, by his head. And usually he decided to pay tribute without further visitation.

Feather Fan Is Oldest Made in Ancient China

The feather fan, says the Chicago Field Museum News, represents the oldest form of fan made by the ancient Chinese, and is characteristic of the culture area of northern China, while the palm-leaf fan was invented in southern China and is still principally used there.

In making the feather fans the quills of wild geese, herons, hawks and peacocks are used. The gauze fans are usually mounted in rims of bamboo or other wood, or ivory. The folding fan was probably invented in Corea, and has been known in China from the Eleventh century onward.

First restricted to the demi-monde, the folding fan soon became fashionable among women generally—just as many other fashions had their origin in the half-world. In China fans are equally used by both sexes, those for men being larger and having particular forms. Fans with complimentary poems inscribed upon them are given to friends as we send various forms of greeting cards.

Turkey Fish Off Fiji

A freak among fishes, the turkey fish of Fiji is not all that its name implies. This fish is a three-finned flame-colored fellow with inch-long eyebrows that protrude from the top of its ugly head in such a way that they seem to be continually raised in a sort of a high-hat manner to the lesser members of the finny world upon which it looks down with an overpowering sense of arrogance. The turkey fish is well equipped to keep all others at their distance. Along the base of its middle fin are arranged a number of poison sacs that mean serious trouble to every living thing that comes in contact with them. The outer fins of this creature are long and feathery-looking. They add greatly to the strange appearance of the turkey fish and help it to keep on an even keel as it swims along in its supercilious manner.

STILL POND

Gale Rasin, of Wilmington, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rasin.

Miss Stella Beaver was a week-end guest of Miss Ellen Hogans.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sarah A. Cornelius.

Mrs. Fred Ford and son, Frederick, of Florida, are visiting Mrs. Emma Thompson and family.

Mrs. Everett and daughter, Kathryn, of Sassafras, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Price.

Miss Mildred G. Neal and the scholars of Still Pond School rendered a most entertaining and interesting Maryland Tercentenary and Graduation program on Thursday afternoon and Rev. Moore, before presenting diplomas to the five graduates, Milton Hogans, Charles Harper, Earl Glenn, Edward Nicholson and Joseph Atwell, delivered a "never-to-be-forgotten" message to all.

Mrs. Esther Norris spent the week end in Drexel Hill, Pa., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Cooper, attending the wedding of Miss Kathryn Cooper and Rev. Frank Buckley, Jr., in the Memorial M. E. Church; the ceremony being performed by the bride's brother, Rev. H. Allen Cooper, frequently heard on Dr.Stockwell's broadcast on Sunday mornings.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coleman and Mrs. Willis Hackett are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. Kennard Jones.

Friends here have received the good news of the graduation of Miss Betty O'Hara from Mt. St. Joseph School, winning the 4-year scholarship to Mt. St. Joseph College. Gold Medal for Latin, Honorable Mention for History, also a diploma from the University of Washington. She will be remembered as one of the Dancing O'Hara's, who have a summer residence at Betterton. Congratulation, Betty.

Mrs. Constantine has returned to her home in Baltimore after spending ten days with her friend, Mrs. J. T. Hadaway.

Jack, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hadaway, left Monday for Hampton Roads, Va. where he will be stationed for three months having joined the U. S. Navy.

Tel. No. Adds 5% To Letter Value

John Howie Wright, author and editor, "marks down" the value of a business letterhead five per cent. if it does not carry the firm's telephone number. Mr. Wright is a specialist in direct-mail advertising.

A complete letterhead, in the opinion of Mr. Wright, should answer three questions: Who? What? Where? The name of the firm answers the first question, the business of the firm answers the second, while the address of the firm is the third. In the opinion of Mr. Wright, the telephone number is a part of the address.

Says the well-known editor: "The purpose of a business letterhead is to help business. If a prospect or customer of yours receives a letter from you and wishes to immediately get in touch with you by telephone, you should make it easy for him to do so. If a prospect or customer of yours is in a hurry for some stationery and wishes to send a messenger to your place of business, it should not be necessary for him to look up the address. If you want to do business with me and want to use your letterhead as one of the mediums of telling me about your business, please do not put me to any unnecessary trouble."

People of Ireland

In the population of Ireland, three major types are usually recognized. The most primitive is the short, black-haired type, sometimes called Firbolg, variously defined by anthropologists as non-Aryan or as Iberian or a branch of the Mediterranean race. The conquerors of these peoples were a tall and blond race known as Tuatha De Danann, who were either Scandinavian or Celtic-speaking peoples. They were followed by the Gaelic invasion, probably within historic times. This Celtic-speaking race is identified with the predominant type of Irish of the present day.

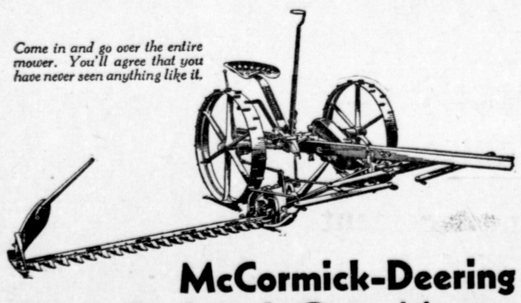
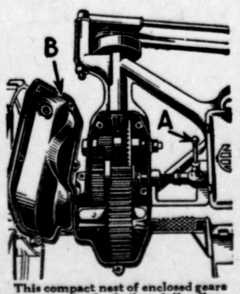
Built Like an Automobile
You have never seen a mower like this
It is Really New and Different



Come in and go over the entire mower. You'll agree that you have never seen anything like it.

McCormick-Deering
No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower

WE are anxious to have all of our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!
Everybody who has seen it says they never had any idea that a mower could be built as this one is.
For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!
Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and fly-wheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.



This compact nest of enclosed gears runs in a bath of oil—a full gallon. The cover, B, makes the gear case dust-proof and oil-tight. Clutch is thrown in and out by lever, A.

THIS AD COST ME LOTS OF MONEY
BUT I'M RUNNING IT BECAUSE 2 OF THESE PRODUCTS WILL SAVE YOU PLENTY... AND ONE OF THEM, THE GOLDEN PLY, MAY EVEN SAVE YOUR LIFE

EVERY year thousands are killed or injured by accidents due to blow-outs. When you travel 40, 50 or 60 miles an hour, terrific heat is generated inside your tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate—a blister starts—grows bigger and bigger until suddenly BANG! A blow-out! You can't steer, you can't stop.
But now every new Goodrich Silvertown has the Life-Saver Golden Ply that resists heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate, thus blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their great, unseen cause.
Silvertowns do not cost a penny more than other standard tires and they give you months of extra wear besides. Play safe. Let us put a set of these Golden Ply Silvertowns on your car.
