Gadabout-ing in Baltimore

Here's wishing you the best of cheer,
Plenty of gadding throughout the year,
Parties galore, even gossipy tid-bits,
And this, your column, is here to record it.

AWAKE BETIMES to the presence of whirring beaters as the renowned Baltimore egg-nog becomes more than legend, and the lights of a myriad Christmas trees make each marble - stepped house a picture post card.

The holiday bids pile up. Added to stack, the Quinedici Club, whose membership includes Mesdames Clara Robinson, Rosa Makel, Gladys Hall, Fannie Glascoe, Alida Frisby, Rachel Roberts, Minnie Smith, Irene Bennett, Marie Thomas, Maybelle Weaver, Margaret Ellis and Gladys Hall, has issued invites to a dance New Year's Eve. The S. B. Wilkinses will pour cocktails ere the Swagger affair, Friday night, and the Donald Redds have sent out bids to an egg-nog party the same evening. The Swags' dance will be en costume, a slightly more formal edition of their tacky drag that drew down the honors, last year.

The first of the holiday festivities, Lee Elites Entertainers informal prom set a pace for the others to follow. Early in the evening had where Sadie Beagle was dispensing popped into the Virginia Hall to receive the eye goes' Santa Claus of the smoothest of those-kinds-of-things that the world have seen. All done up in deep blue velvet, silver ornamented, and flashing silver smiles, Sadie played the perfect hostess, simply turning a cadenced leaf over to the gang, which included:

The Cy Alexanders, the Harry Gayles, the James Browns of Glenburnie, the Alfred Moores, Fannie Howard, Steve Woode, May Taylor, Thelma Johnson, Fannie Martin, Melissa Perdue, Alice Mundy, Alphua Williams, Lula Garrett, Ethel Phillips, Irma Kellam, Claudia DeMann, Margaret DeMann, Etta Burwell, Bea Truman.

Bill Jordan from Richmond, the guests of honor, Lucille Bell, Robert Lee, Dr. A. B. Harrison, Dr. Lewis, Hiram Butler, Woodley Lawrence, John Rich, Dr. Ted Phifer, Albert Whittington, Howard Young, Jr., Al Burwell, Dr. L. R. Powell, Buster Hopkins and Bernard Ferguson of Washington, Coach Hivers of Lincoln University, Gawky Jones, Julian Ukkerd of the nation's capital and Bob Short.

So mellow was the setting that it took more than a heave-ho to get to the dance. The Jordan Joneses held forth: a group got the proper start from the Victor Gray; and the old-guard line-up (Howard Murphys, Cecil Lewises, V. A. C. Hughesses) were in with the Dallas Nicholases.

And did those girls garb for that prom!

Beginning with the hostesses: Bea Truman's frock, a red crepe with a row of tiny buttons trailing down the back belt down the skirt, and topped with a cloth of silver tissue that concealed the deep decolette, was striking. Edna Over Gray wore a black velvet with a square-cut collar of antiqued silver. Sufette Bennett's frock was of black net and Thelma Coleman wore a model in garnet velvet which fell in the prettiest flowers. Odessa Ford wore black crepe and net and Lucille Jackson, red treeback crepe with rhinestone trim at neck and belt. Gwendolyn Lewis's frock was of crepe trimmed with bead trim and lines were in front in back and white. Gertrude Erquhart wore a pretty frock of orange crepe with a cocktail jacket in the new Joan Crawford manner that had flowers shading from orange to brown as ornaments.

And for the guests:

Mrs. W. I. Gibson wore a black velvet with red molded hat that slips donned a red model that had an immense collar on its abbreviated coat. Gertrude Williams selected a satin blouse to top a trailing black velvet skirt and the skirt and blouse idea was also adopted by Dukey Woode who selected a cloth of gold affair with immense long sleeves to top her satin skirt. Irma Johnson had on a black and white neck velvet frock of deep garnet and Catherine Johnson went in for severe white crepe, beaded, and with a cowl neck line. Fannie White had on an interesting frock in a gorgeous shade of blue and Beatrice Reesby a striking model with an egg-shell satin top. Lillian Parrott wore a frock of two shades of blue over which she donned a brown velvet wrap. Etta Burwell selected a gorgeous shade of brown velvet and Alice Mundy's frock was of black crepe and satin. Anna Smith who came over from Washington wore a silver-topped purple frock whose red and purple belt made a striking note. And Mae Richards Taylor selected a green velvet model. Melissa Perdue had on black velvet with silver-lined sleeves, and this could easily go on record as the only a rightly-togged gang that swirled beath the holly, about the Christmas trees that lent the proper spirit to the decorations and danced while Preston Duncan and his International band a musical line that couldn't tolerate a break.

But to a brief lookabout on the other news of the week:

Blanche Woode has been since last week (when Elsie Brummell, Olga Bowers, Clementine Snowden, Susie Clark entertained), president of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Epsilon Sigma Chapter. The other officers include: Ruth White, vice-president; Charlotte Colbert, corresponding secretary; Violet Banks, recording secretary; Elsie Brummell, treasurer and Helen Bennett, sergeant-at-arms. The Lorenzo H. Kings, Jr. (she was, you know, Edith Cardozo of hereabouts) have named the tiny baby who joined their household last Tuesday, Betty Cardozo King. The junior W. A. C. Hughesses are also considering names. Catherine McKechen has left these diggings to go n-teaching in Delaware.

Les Toujours Amies Club: Marguerite Lindsay, Lillian Hardy, Esther Waters Hythe, Alice Thomas, Virginia Burrell, Geneva Swiggett, Connie Phillips, Geraldine Robinson, Minerva Welling, Catherine Coleman, Florence Buckner, Beulah Williams, Twin Williams, Thelma Wilson and Evelyn Cawthorne: will dance with a large number of guests, tonight.

It was Ruth Russell's time last Tuesday evening to entertain the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority (Gamma Chapter) with a literary program. As guests she had representatives from Delta Sigma Theta, Phi Delta Kappa, Alpha Kappa Alpha and Zeta Phi Beta (Alpha Zeta Chapter) Sororities who included: Louise Dennis, Desdamon Thomas, Vera Williams, Roberta Henderson, Mary C. Johnson and Catherine Jordan.

The program consisted of an address by Miles Connor, principal of the Coppin Normal School; a piano solo by Rosalind Allen, an address by Gerald Allen, of the recreation department of city schools, and a piano solo by Margaret DeMann. Ruth White is president.

Dr. Jesse Weaver took a tumble in the surprise party sprung by his sister-in-law, Marie Johnson, Saturday night, at their Morgan Park abode. Dr. Maybelle Weaver was almost as surprised as her husband, just popping in from New York where she had been for three days, to be on the alert. About were Dr. Lucius Butler, Dr. Leroy Clark, Charles Johnson, the Jack Maddens, the Frank Hall, Thomas Parker, Charles Reynolds, Dr. James Bell, Dr. Lecompte Cook and Dr. Luther Fultz.

Billy Warfield comes in on Friday night, deserting the capital to cut a wide swath through the monuments. The William Buckner dames went in for a Washington, declaring it was righteous-by right.

You know that Dukye Woode-Dr. A. B. Harrison affair isn't doing so badly. And to the matron who complains that only so-and-so makes Gadabout-ing here an invitation to you and you and you to just jot it down, sign it (though names will not be used) and mail it, or use the old phone, just so you contact L. J. G., and the column is yours. Remember the lass who phoned, incognito, Monday, to tell me what I'd missed Sunday. Sorry. But you see I was out of town, which explains, or does it? When the W. W. Bridge Club met with Mrs. Anna Belle McKechen, Monday, it was more than a game of bridge that lent interest to their holiday meeting. A contribution was sent to the Walter-Green-Post, American Legion to aid with their Christmas cheer to families of veterans, and a large number of toys and clothes were sent to Provident Hospital for the children who are confined there. There were cards, too, at which Mrs. Vallie Sewell and Mrs. Pauline Ford took prizes.

The recreation department of city schools has a vacancy. Mrs. Alice Cravard, supervisor of dramatics having resigned, because of ill health, they tell you, but I say there's a New York position in the offing. Dr. Billy Mason denies all that tittle-tattle about his having done a merger. The Edward Lewises will be off for the A.K.A. boule in Manhattan with the next few days. As will Lynn Davis, Hattie Carter, Edna Over Gray, Florence Carroll, Sarah Sampson, Mabel Locks, Marion Reid, Vernice Downing, Maude Williams and Agnes Watson.

At the banquet honoring Miss Ida S. Jackson, grand basileus of A.K.A. sorority, of Berkley, Cal., held at the Whitelaw Hotel in Washington, Thursday night, among the hundred and twenty-five guests were Vivian Cook, Erma Davis, Lillian Parrott, Willa Mayer, Florence Carroll, Hattie Carter, Rose Hampton, Edna O. Gray, Constantia Jackson, Edith Myers, Janet Boyer, Maude Williams, Sarah Sampson, Elizabeth Carr, Mamie Carroll, Mildred Jones, Viola Wilson and Vernice Downing of hereabouts.

Sadie Bryant had all her Christmas plans upset when a telegram that her sister was ill called her to Florida, today (Friday).

MASK AND WIG PARTY

The Mask and Wig Club entertained their friends at a delightful Hallowe'en party for girls and boys, Wednesday, from 4 to 7 p.m. P. D. G. Pennington acted as master of ceremonies and tag dances, leap year dances, a special dance with Jimmy Smith and Hilda Alder, were a few of the many features of the evening. The music was furnished by Lester Faunteroy and company.

Miss Nellie Buchanan is director of the club and helping her were Mrs. Isabell Williams and Miss Daisy Lee.

Among those fitting hither and yon were:

Melvin Bolden, Arthur Harris, James Smith, Randolph Kiah, Robert Bailey, Rudolph Brooks, Leonard Harris, John Lomax, James Manns, James Edmonds, Eugene Carter, Aaron Butler, Fenton Malory, Samuel Taylor, Joseph Claiborne;

Ellsworth Langhorn, Vernon Press, Louis Douglas, Alexander Anderson, Sidney Edwards, Lloyd Hughes, Granville Hilton, Cyrus Marshall, Maurice Edwards, Nowell Johnson;

TID-BI'S

Ruby Lewis threw a struggle in her Sugar Hill home Saturday evening. The slogan for the party should have been, "On With the New Love and Off With the Old." Needless to say, Dean Cupid was "there."

Round and about were:

Dimples Scott, Faustina (Reds) Grinage, Inez Johnson, Cornelia Elizabeth Conaway, Bernice Bailey Lewis, Ester Young, Ike Keets, Bernard Brown, Richard Sorrell, Otis Troop, Theodore Jordon, Claiborne Knighten, Charley Blake.

THINGS WE CAN DO WITHOUT

Those who always breaks with his girl-friend around this time of the year.

The boy about town who was told he could dance to music he could hear, and who took a swelled head he can't dance.

The new senior who asked a sophomore what needs all that nose in the physics room the last period, and the wise guy answered, "I don't know, unless when I put the thermometer in cold water you heard the mercury fall," and so on to the other news of today:

DEED SO

Pauline Jones swears if anyone takes Reds from her she will turn Mississippi River backward. Bernice Garrett says Andrew Wilson is the sweetest thing on earth, and she ought to know.

Mary Elizabeth Hampton is Louise Baptiste's heart-breaker these days.

The Fred Marshall-Milton Stanley affair is "on." Arthur Cooper is taking Pauline Johnson these days. At the nation house after the play, "Rain," Mrs. Arthur Johnson and Marie Dolan got off in rare style. Floyd Hughlette and Ruth Venable were in seventh heaven.

George Gibson was handing Elizabeth Fisher, Julia Jenkins, Ella Greene, Hilda Allor, Elizabeth Latimore, Roberta Gwynn, Elsie Gaskins, Faustina Grinage, Delcie Harrell;

Inez Johnson, Nellie Conway, Dorothea Butler, Ruth Shell, Hermione Moore, Marguerite Roberts, Sylvia Faulkner, Ida Murphy, Edith Savage, Ethel Grant, Rosa Nixon, Frances Demain, Ida Nixon;

THINGS WE CAN DO WITHOUT

Those who goes to the movies to watch:

Turn on the night of THE big dance. Girls dancing with girls and boys dancing with boys. Ignorance. Those who are saving the holidays (a hint to our teachers).

MISS MAE WRIGHT ADAMS
who will be one of the featured players in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" when it is presented at the Douglass High School auditorium tonight (Friday) by the Monumental Theatre guild in their premiere effort of season.

Bowser his smooth line as only he can.

It is perfectly obvious that Earl Bundara is "trying" to cramp somebody's style with some Douglass seniors, but he hasn't a glost of a chance.

Last week, Roberta Gwynn was making plans to visit Ralph Chambers at the hospital. What's this?

Then you should have seen Ethel Grant and Lemuel Thomas in study hall, too, the other day. Which reminds me at the Mask and Wig affair, Ethel Grant and Fenton Mallory were very much taken away. There's no wondering if there's anything to the Deborah Chambers-Douglass Henderson affair.

Only Crump is having trouble deciding between Laura Roberts and Cornelia Williams. LeRoy Carroll, incidentally, is convalescing at Provident Hospital. At Ruby Lewis's get-together, Richard Sorrel and Elizabeth Conaway were Oh, My! Yes! Faustina Grinage and Ike Keets danced a lot together.

And Claibourne Knighten and Helen Jackson were finding ever so many things to talk about. The Perplexing Sevens plan to give their strictly invitational dance on the 27th, while the Magnificents plan to give their dance on the 26th.

Then Ober Mallory is taking Anio Taylor to the semester prom at Morgan, while T. J. Woolridge is taking Etta Mason.

At the Mask and Wig Club affair Mary Daly and Randolph Kiah danced to other most much. Walter Dyson and Evelyn Travers decided that this was "the place," and accordingly got off. Albert Wood and Dorethea Butler made a cute couple. Sammy Taylor and Rebecca Bailey were well, why waste words?

Doris Dixon and Watson Pierce were like two peas in a pod.

Which goes ditto for Joseph Claiborne and Anna Hicks, and Jimmy Smith and Nellie Conway.

Emmett Smith was seen walking Marie Edwards home.

Hal Janvier's new g.f. is none other than Daisy King. Reds Smith can't take it, it seems, when it comes to Ethel Moore.

Floyd Guy is pushing Ella Pindell these days. The John Ward-Lottie Cornish affair is blossoming.

In drawing class the other day, the teacher reported that a protractor had been stolen. In a stage whisper at the back of the room someone said, "Oh, well, the person must have desired to take a few degrees before leaving school."

And so—here's wishing my readers Thomas, a Happy New Year and holidays crammed full of fun and frolic.
