BALTIMORE THEATRE

The Managers of the BALTIMORE THEATRE return their grateful thanks to the friends and patrons of the Drama, for the liberal encouragement they have experienced during the season just concluded: They are particularly thankful to the Stockholders who have aided them with the means of progressing so far in completing a new, commodious and safe building, for the accommodation of the Baltimore audience. Their anxiety to finish the front of the building and remove the obstructions to the entrances induces them to request that those who held stock in the old Theatre, and have expressed a desire to change it for Stock in the present one, will comply with the terms proposed, by paying to the Treasurer the additional Fifty Dollars, which will entitle them to a new certificate of the right of free admission, until the sum of two hundred dollars shall be repaid to them. The use to which the money is to be appropriated, and the advantages it will secure to the Stockholders, the Managers are confident will ensure a prompt compliance with this request.

An English & Mathematical Academy.

A man of reputable character, who for many years conducted one of the most respectable seminaries in the city of Dublin, has lately arrived in this city; where he proposes to undertake the instruction of a few young gentlemen, in any of the following branches of useful literature.

The English language grammatically, Writing in a variety of hands, Arithmetic and Book-keeping, including every occurrence that may concern the Banker, Merchant, Factor and Underwriter; Geography and use of the Globes; Euclid's Elements; Algebra and Conic Sections, with their application in Mensuration, Surveying, Gauging, Navigation, Fortification, Gunnery and Astronomy.

As soon as six pupils are proposed, he will give lectures at their respective houses, on any of the foregoing branches for one hour each day, until a commodious school room or house can be procured in a central situation.

He flatters himself, that punctuality, long experience, and having ever associated with the better classes of community, will enable him to render perfect satisfaction, and merit the patronage of such of the citizens of Baltimore, and his respectable countrymen, as may be disposed to encourage him in his undertaking. He begs reference to the following gentlemen, viz: Rev. J. Glendy, L. Tiernan, Esq. Mr. Kingston, Messrs. J. & T. Vance, Market-street, and the gentlemen of Baltimore College.
