WILL WIN BY THE 4TH, LOUIS

Retzlaff, 100 to 1 Shot; Out in Fourth -- Joe F-L-A-S-H

CHICAGO, Ill. — Joe Louis stepped three rounds with Otis Thompson, and one each with Tiger Henderson, Tom Jones and Ed Wallis, Wednesday, as the final touch to his Retzlaff campaign. He will go six more Thursday, as the wind-up to his training.

The advance ticket sale at noon, Wednesday, had passed the $36,000 mark, indicating a sell-out.

CHICAGO, Ill.—As far as Joe Louis is concerned, the Retzlaff match, here, Friday night, is just another fight and he expects to put the Dakota farmer away in four rounds.

Retzlaff, a 100-1 shot, would hand the boxing world a more stunning blow than the one Tuesney handed it when he beat Dempsey in that return match, if he lands a knockout blow on the Bomber's chin in their scheduled Friday bout.

There is no doubt, however, that Charley has improved. How much, remains to be seen. But one still can't miss off his knockout wave every lucky and Whoe with a shrug. Maybe the Bomber will have to step.

Louis Picks Three Better than Champ

CHICAGO, Ill.—Buer, Schmeling and Carnera are better than Jimmy Braddock in Joe Louis's opinion, because Braddock hasn't the punch that those men have.

He declared this week that Schmeling was be better than Baer, but he is sure that all three could beat Braddock. Retzlaff comes last in his list which also includes Lee Ramage, and Patsy or Perroni, all white.

Out in the Third

That's the round in which Bill Gibson, AFRO sports commentator, says that Joe Louis will rock Charley Retzlaff to sleep at the Chicago Stadium, Friday night.

Correct in naming the finish rounds of the Carnera and Baer fights, Bill believes he'll fight again in calling this turn. But right or wrong, he'll be there at the ringside to get the real lowdown for you to read in next week's AFRO.

Brown Bomber Has to Chase a Spar Male

CHICAGO, Ill. — Tom Jones, one of Joe Louis's sparring partners, led Joe a merry chase when he became frightened, after one of the Bomber's devastating lefts had swished past his ear and started back-pedaling.

For two rounds the unconvinced rude of the heavyweights pursued the rabbit-like Jones before he finally caught up with him. There and then, a right cross dropped the sparring partner.

Louis stepped briskly through four more rounds with Tiger Henderson and Otis Thompson, both of whom stood up to the withering blasts of right and lefts without jolting the canvas.

Retzlaff Impressive

Retzlaff also dropped a sparring partner for the count, upsetting Mitz Minsky, white, 185-pounder, in two rounds. In his final two rounds with Johnny Brown, Chicago, he showed promise.

Louis has increased his boxing tempo to seven rounds, while Retzlaff, satisfied with his condition, has cut to four. Both wind up training activities Thursday.

The Candid Camera Catches Joe Out of the Ring

The Gloves Went 'Round and 'Round; Here's How Four Went Down, and They Came out Here

Why the Garden Card Failed

NEW YORK (AANDP) Writers who addressed the recent Madison Square Garden debacle, the Black Diamond Rajah's boxing card built entirely on colored fighters, know little that happened behind the scenes.

All that they know is the fights left a "bad taste," they were so unsatisfactory.

The real story is that several of the better fighters scheduled to appear on the card refused to make clowns of themselves, refused to permit themselves to be tossed in the ring fights furnished and to wear the show white gloves which featured the card.

As a result, several of the boxy expect to be called down to the boxing commission and get a hauling over the coals as a probable suspension for not going through with the fight. But they feel that a thirty day suspension is little compared with making spectacles of themselves.

Plans for a Louis-Braddock Get-together in the Making in Madison Square Offices

NEW YORK—Plans are underway for the championship bout between Joe Louis and James Braddock, to be held in September, provided Joe defeats Max Schmeling in June, at Madison Square Garden.

Mike Jacobs, who holds Louis under contract until 1940, wants to hold the bout at the Yankee Stadium because it affords a larger seating capacity. If so he will have to give the Garden first call on Louis's services for a possible title defense in 1937.

ANOTHER LION TOSSED TO THE CHRISTIANS

Charles Retzlaff, who seems to be a normal young man, has offered himself for public sacrifice at Chicago Stadium, Friday, January 17, Joe Louis is going to work to perform the rites. If nothing else, this promises to be a much-discussed thing for money.

In the time of the Caesars, for the amusement of the Roman thousands flocked to the Colosseum to lions in the arena and watched the animals sharpen their teeth on the bones of the hapless humans.

Now and then a jungle beast would either get a toothache or, if he ate up enough victims, would develop a digestive disorder, especially tough case. Some ex-vaniks (whatever became of nics claim those were merely the them) could also hit. That means original hardboiled Hagrids, who, as Retzlaff, by his reputation, were aimed for heaven if they didn't kill enough enemies. Maybe he can discount that as merely professional jealousy. Because, if he can't, he'll be to do with his opponent.

The big point is that Joe Louis, reputedly a deep and sincere student of the Bible, has been reversing the procedure. In New York last June there tossed out a Roman sacrifice, spring, named Primo Carnera, the Carnivorous, and many thousands saw the mammoth animal completely devoured by the Christian Brown Bombe. Retzlaff, next opponent for Christian Joe, falls in the "lion" category when he says he'll beat the dusky destroyer. That's as much livin' as you'll see for many a day.

When a professional boxer these days offers to step into the same ring with Joseph Louis Barrow, the heavyweight champ, he could be told the Chicago Tribune all heavyweights, for ought to be offer his wagter for him as he looked upon as a mental oddity. Retzlaff does not necessarily need championship this year of his dis the cash as the 27-year-old white youth is worth $300,000 after six years of fighting.

If the truth must be known, Retzlaff is the same ambition that made ancient medieval alchemists seek a matchless Columbus Counsel indoor track local "philosopher's stone" that turned lead into gold—the accomplishment of the impossible.

Every boxer today knows that victory over Joe would belong in the class of hiking from New York to London. There would be fame a-plenty and the mark is worth shooting at. That is, if you are Nathan Hale who was proud to give his one life for his country. When they fight Louis, those who have "I'd die for dear old Rutgers" get their wish.

Jack Blackburn, who once trained Retzlaff, admits the white man is tough. Charley, who stands six feet four and weighs 198, does have something of a punch. But after the matter, a couple of lads named Max Baer and Kingfish Levinsky, who, as a matter of fact, were aimed for heaven if they didn't kill enough enemies. Maybe he can discount that as merely professional jealousy. Because, if he can't, he'll be to do with his opponent.

Now, if he's a jungle beast he would either get a toothache or, if he ate up enough victims, would develop a digestive disorder, especially tough case. Some ex-vaniks (whatever became of nics claim those were merely the them) could also hit. That means original hardboiled Hagrids, who, as Retzlaff, by his reputation, were aimed for heaven if they didn't kill enough enemies. Maybe he can discount that as merely professional jealousy. Because, if he can't, he'll be to do with his opponent.

Well, it's his own funeral. If he wants to commit suicide before several thousand observers, who am I to say him nay?

ODDS AND ENDS

All Dakota, of the Loyola University, Los Angeles, tackle who was picked one of the best on the coast gets only one meal a day, at 10 p.m., if ever you have him as a guest. Lorenzo Pack, 1935 Golden Gloves heavyweight champ, who has been knocking 'em right and left since turning pro, watched Joe Louis train recently for his bout Friday night.

"What do you think of Joe?" he was asked. "Who you think you can lick?" he was asked. Replied Pack: "Hey, human like I am."

Mike Weisser Epperson, the best amateur light heavyweight in the Chicago Tribune Golden Gloves, has been fighting pro in such towns as Johnny Brown, Chicago, he showed promise.

Louis has increased his boxing to seven rounds, while Retzlaff, satisfied with his condition, has cut to four. Both wind up training activities Thursday.

Joe May Have "Off-Night" on Friday

CHICAGO, Ill.—Joe Louis is haunted by that inevitable bug-bear of all athletes, an "off-night."

He may, however, prove to be a superhuman and never run into a real "off night" but more than likely he will bump into it somewhere along the way. It may not be for a long time, or it may happen Friday night when he climbs into the ring with Charles Retzlaff, Dakota mauler, in the Chicago Stadium.

If form displayed during the training period is any criterion, Joe is going to have a hard night. In his sparring sessions he has failed to reach his top form. Maybe he's holding back but, in his training, so far, he has taken more blows than during all of his last four or five fights.

Retzlaff Potent

Meantime, Retzlaff is in fine condition, physically and mentally. He has put the quietus on fifty of his last seventy opponents, indicating that he can hit, if he gets a chance to land on Louis.

"Boxing Louis is suicide. The only way to beat him is to take a chance on beating him to the punch. I saw Louis against Baer and Carnera. I'm sure I wouldn't let him set the pace," said Charley.

Joe Batters Sparmates in Brisk Drill

CHICAGO — Joe Louis, who had been taking it a bit easy, suddenly seemed to take a deeper interest in his training this week and tore into his sparring partners.

Otis Thomas of Chicago escaped lightly being knocked down with a severe body drubbing from those lightning left hooks of the Bomber's. Another left floored Tom Jones, but when Louis tied up with Tiger Henderson he resorted to perfecting his defense.

Although Louis worked with more spirit than has been evidenced heretofore, his timing appeared to be a little off, being a little late with his chief weapon, a counter punch, sometimes missing badly.

Haddonfield CCC Boxers Jolt Quint from Wrightstown

WRIGHTSTOWN, N.J.— Haddonfield CCC boxing team took a meet from the Wrightstown camp team, 3 bouts to 2 last week.

Bouts in the 115-pound class went to Edgar Bennett, Bernie Golden Glover, and Brevard, both of Haddonfield. Their opponents were Carroll and Enlow.

The Brevard-Enlow battle went to an extra round after the judges declared a draw. Both boys battled gamely but Brevard had a little more stamina.

Mills, Haddonfield and Smith, Wrightstown, met in the top bout on the card in the 135-pound class. Mills, last year's runner-up was the superior opponent but Smith, with his heavier punch and anxiety to mix it up from the bout into an extra round where he added enough points to clinch the bout.

Miles Turner, another Golden Gloves product, gave the home winner over Robinson, in the 150-pound group. Turner outclassed his rival but Robinson was a victim who didn't know the meaning of quit.

In the wind-up, Smith, of Wrightstown, 160, defeated Cauthen by a technical knockout in the first round.

The CCC boxers will have an opportunity to show their wares in the eliminations and finals to be held at Young's Pier, Atlantic City on February 13.

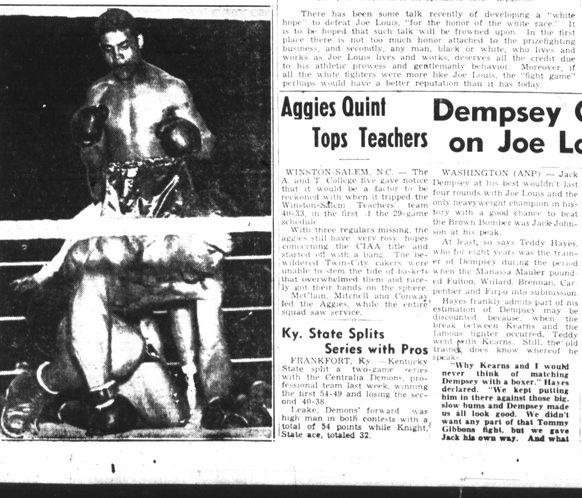
JOE LOUIS SUPERSTITIOUS

CHICAGO, Ill. — Joe Louis seems to have one superstition. His left glove must always be laced on before the right, for fight or workout, it was revealed here, this week.

HAYNES TO FIGHT SMITH

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Leroy Haynes, Los Angeles heavyweight, signed on Saturday to meet Ford Smith, white, of Montana, in a ten-round bout here on Jan. 27.

Joe May Have "Off-Night" on Friday



No White Hope

(Excerpt from editorial in the Springfield (Mass.) Republican)

There has been some talk recently of developing a "white hope" to beat Joe Louis. "For the benefit of the sport," it is to be hoped that such talk will be frowned upon. In the first place there is not too much honor attached to the prizefighting business, and secondly, any man, black or white, who lives and works as Joe Louis lives and works, deserves all the credit due to his athletic prowess and gentlemanly behavior. Moreover, all the white fighters were there like Joe Louis, the "fight game" perhaps would have a better reputation than it has today.

Retzlaff Will Cost Professional Boxing a Cool Million If He Kayoes Louis

CHICAGO.—If Charley Retzlaff, 100-1 shot, gets lucky and lands a knockout punch on the chin of one Joseph Louis Barrow, heavyweight champ, the Brown Bombers will cost professional boxing more than $1,000,000.

Retzlaff, who has changed his style of fighting, is in the midst of a comeback streak and has won 55 out of 68 bouts by knockouts. He believes that to him will fall the honor of stopping the Detroit Devastator and is putting all he has into making this fight one of his best.

Risko, Ring Veteran to Attempt Comeback

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Johnny Risko, veteran heavyweight boxer, has decided to attempt a comeback.

He is here getting in shape and says that he can perform the seemingly impossible, kayo Joe Louis.

Aggies Quint Tops Teachers

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — The A. and T. College five gave notice that it would be a factor to be reckoned with when it tripped the Lincoln-Shaw Teachers team 40-33, in the first of the 29-game schedule.

With three regulars missing, the aggies still have very rosy hopes concerning the CIAA title and started off with a bang. The boys defeated Twin-City cakers were not able to stem the tide of baskets that overwhelmed them and rarely got their hands on the sphere.

McClain, Mitchell and Conaway led the Aggies, while the entire squad saw service.

Dempsey Couldn't Lay Glove on Joe Louis, Says ex-Trainer

WASHINGTON (ANP) — Jack Dempsey at his best wouldn't last two rounds with the Joe Louis and the only heavyweight champion in history with a good chance to beat the Brown Bomber was Jack Johnson at his peak.

At least, so says Teddy Hayes, who for eight years was the trainer of Dempsey during the period of the Manassa Mauler pound ed Fulton, Willard, Brennan, Carpentier and Firpo into submission.

Hayes frankly admits part of his estimation of Dempsey may be discounted because when the break between Kearns and the famous fighter occurred, Teddy went with Kearns. Still, the old trainer does know whereof he speaks.

"Why Kearns and I would never think of matching Dempsey with a boxer." Hayes declared. "We kept putting him in there against those big, slow bums and Dempsey made us all look good. We didn't want any part of that Tommy Gibbons fight, but we gave Jack his own way. And what happened? The first time Jack met a good boxer, he was shown up. You know how Gibons cuffed him around for fifteen rounds at Shelby. That was the tip-off on Dempsey.

"Why, Kearns wouldn't lay a heavy glove on Louis. That boy's too smart. He'd let Dempsey force him to the ropes and then cut him to ribbons. He'd be stalking Dempsey from the opening bell, working away, catching Dempsey's shots on his arms and elbows and waiting for the opening to put that sleep-producer across.

"Don't forget, Dempsey was never hard to hit. Jack's defense was all his offense, and whenever he met a good boxer, his offense wasn't worth a nickel. The Carpentier bout wasn't any exception. Carpentier could box, but he was washed up.

"The only man I would have bet on to beat Louis was Jack Johnson. He could outbox the boxer, outpunch the puncher and outclown the clown. He was better at that shuffling style of fighting than Louis is and he'd be a mean target.

"I think he'd wear Louis down and stop him in the late rounds. But I don't see any Jack Johnsons around these days.

"The man who will eventually beat Louis is still in his early teens."

Baseball Meeting Is Postponed in N.Y.

NEW YORK—The winter meeting of the National Colored Baseball League, which was scheduled for Saturday at the offices of Ferdinand Q. Morton, high commissioner of baseball, has been postponed to January 24 to await the return of Gus Greenlee, owner of the Pittsburgh Crawfords, from a Coast trip.

According to Oswald Newton, league secretary, the meeting may be switched to Philadelphia.

Rallying in the fourth quarter, the Leadenhall Baptist Church quintet took the lead in the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League by defeating the Trinity A.M.E. Church cagers, 26-20, at the Druid Hill Avenue branch YMCA, Saturday night.

With the score tied for the eighth time, the Baptist players uncorked a dazzling passing attack. Apparently dazed from attempting to follow the ball, the Trinity players became easy prey in the closing five minutes of the game.

Irvin Starts Rally

Led by Irvin, a guard, the Leadenhall players scored four field goals while their opponents were able to get only one. The lone shot for Trinity was scored by Simms from under Leadenhall's goal.

At the close of the first half the score was tied at 9 all. The score was 14 all at the close of the third quarter. C. Dickerson, of Trinity forward, was high scorer with twelve points. H. Wright, of St. Mary forward, was runner-up with nine points.

St. Mary Smothers Union

A second all city cage record was established when the St. Mary Church team scored 75 points and held the Union Baptist Church quintet scoreless. The Baptist players lost their morale when the Catholics scored five long shots within two minutes after the game opened.

The losers were unable to score the easiest of shots when they were in possession of the ball, which was seldom. During the game each of the Baptist players was allowed a foul shot and invariably all of them were missed.

The St. Mary players scored thirty-five points in the first half. Although Union started the second half with fast passing it was defense of the Catholic players which seemed to have them stymied.

Two games won games on forfeits. Macedonia Baptist Church forfeited to St. James and Grace. Presbyterian team won from Enon Baptist Church by the forfeit score of 2-0.

Three Victories in Two Days Start Downingtown

DOWNINGTON, Pa. — The Downingtown cagers and cagettes showed evidences that they intend staying out of the red this season when they turned in three wins in two days last week, the first time that either boys or girls had broken into the win column this season.

Friday at the Philly Y the boys grabbed a tough game from the Berean quint when, after a touch and go affair, they finally pulled away in the last few minutes to win 48-31. Hargreaves, Clark and Plant starred for the Downingtown lads, who at the half time lead was cut as the clubmen started a seige of the basket as the quintet turned to make the final count 25-24.

The girls made it a Roman holiday when they upset the Challenger Girls, 13-10, after trailing 8-6 at the half. Joe Banks, Grit Menton and Kats Thompson were the Downingtown outstanding while Chapman and Clary were the outstanding players for the visitors.

Morgan Cagers to Play Kappas Here Tonight

Failing to have the CIAA suspension ban lifted in time for the opening conference game, the Morgan College cagers will meet the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity team at the New Albert Casino, Friday night.

The basketball schedule was arranged by the Morgan College officials shortly before the school was suspended. It leads Virginia Union University at the first opponent in the collegiate competition. The game was scheduled for January 21 at Baltimore.

Board Falls to Act

Efforts of Morgan College officials to have the executive board of the CIAA act on the suspension failed. When no word was received at its Thursday morning the Kappas were booked to play.

The local fraternity team, composed of several former Morgan College Stars, is seeking the national fraternity championship. The first men will play the New York Sigmas in Harlem, Sunday night.

The probable lineup will be:

Increasing a one-point lead gained at the opening of the second half, the Spartan Club cagers defeated the South Baltimore All-Star team, 47-41, at the Sharp Street Community House, Saturday.

The All-Stars took the lead shortly after the game opened and held it until the two minutes before the first half closed. Putting on a spurt at the close of the first period the Spartans tied the score. The half ended with the score 17 all.

Philly Wants Louis's Bout with German

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The inducements of the free-spending Democratic Convention and a stadium which far surpasses many others for seating capacity have tempted Mike Jacobs to bring the Louis-Schmeling fight here in June.

The Quaker City, next week, will be the scene of a meeting at which the suggestion will be discussed.

Conferees will be Julian Black, Joe Jacobs, white, Schmeling's manager; Mayor S. Davis Wilson, white; John B. Kelly, white, city Democratic chairman; Frank Weiner, white, former State athletic commissioner, and Dr. Milton D'Ellecio, white.

Kelly has spoken to Postmaster-General Farley in an effort to get his support.

Coppin Routed by Delaware State in Double Match

DOVER, Del.—Coppin Normal was the victim of a disastrous double defeat when the boys and girls traveled to Dover. The girls score was 52-18, while the boys were delugged 46-19.

Delaware had practically no opposition in the preliminary. Coppin's reserves showed that they lack plainly the effect of a lay-off. In addition, the Hornets were a little too fast.

Boys' Game Sad

The other contest was a walk-away for the home team. Coppin scored only once from the field during the first period to let the half end 21-5. Second half substitutes allowed the Baltimoreans to make a few points.

Alvero, Wood and Sperling led the Delaware assault while Pitts scored for the losers.
