WAIT FOR NOVEMBER.

TUNE—"WAIT FOR THE WAGON."

From the Patriotic.

The champion liars of the times
Are on the other side;
The sore-head, vexed Republicans
Who can't the truth abide,
Their editors grind out the lies
As fast as they can write,
They have a patented machine
They grease with gall and spite.

CHORUS:
Wait for November,
Wait for November,
Wait for November,
Then we'll put things all right.

They say that Hancock's all deceit,
He's rebel to the core;
And sympathizes with the South,
In peace as well as war.
That he believes that Tilden was
The rightful President;
And Hayes was seated in his place
By means most fraudulent.

Cho—Wait for November, etc.

But then the biggest lie of all,
Was hatched from rotten egg:
He hung a woman in his spite,
Though she for life did beg,
His orders came from higher powers.—
True soldiers will obey;
He dared not spare the innocent
The higher powers would slay.

Cho—Wait for November, etc.

They own he is a soldier brave,
But still no statesman he;
He bravely fought at Gettysburg,
And gained a victory;
If he is not a statesman, then
Their Garfield is not one,
For, of the two, he has more sense
Than Garfield e'er has shown.

Cho—Wait for November, etc.

Then, comrades, never mind the lies
Our enemies grind out;
We soon can nail them to the plank,
Too weak to fret about.
Our steam is up—machinery oiled,
And cheerful is our crew;
We'll fight it out for Hancock brave,
And noble English, too!

Cho—Wait for November, etc.

HOME AND COUNTRY.

A Man With a Wife Must Let the Republic Squeeze Through.

From the Detroit Free Press.

The other night, soon after a ward meeting had opened, one of the electors present began edging for the door, as if he meant to leave the place. He was soon stopped by a friend, who said:

"Don't leave us now. I want you to hear what that speaker is saying. Hear that? He says we must triumph or the country is doomed."

"Yes, I know, but I've got to edge along towards home," was the reply.

"Home! Great heavens, how can you talk of going home until he has finished that speech? There he goes again! He asks if you want to see grass growing in the streets of our cities—our fertile farms returned to the wilderness—our families crowding the poorhouses until there is no longer room to receive another?"

"No, I don't know as I would, but I guess I'll get out of work my way out."

"Wait fifteen minutes—ten—five—wait until he finishes. There it is again. He asks whether you are a freeman or a slave? He wants to know if you have forgotten the patriotic principles defended by the blood of your kindred—if you have forgotten the sound of the liberty bell?"

"I don't know as I have, but I must go—really I must."

"Hear that? Hear that! He says your country will bless you."

"I can't say as to that," replied the man, as he crowded along, "but I'm dead sure that the old woman will if I don't git home in time to put this codfish to soak for breakfast."

"Great guns! but do you prefer codfish to liberty?" exclaimed the other.

"I don't know as I do, but I git more of it."

"And you will see this country ruined—see her go to destruction?"

"I'd be kinder sorry to see her go down hill," slowly observed the delinquent, as he reached the door, "but if you had a wife who could begin jawing at ten o'clock and not loose a minute until daylight, and then end up with a grand smash of crockery and a fit of hysterics, you'd kinder stand off as I do and let this glorious old Republic squeeze through some mighty fine knot holes."

"Well my man, said a philanthropist to a hardened-looking chap confined in the New Orleans Parish Prison, "what are you in for?"

"In for thirty days, I reckon," said the prisoner, sullenly.

"No, not that. What offense did you commit?"

"Didn't commit anything. The Judge committed me."

"Well, you must have been accused of some crime?"

"Oh, yes; I was accused of trying to get on the police."

"Nonsense. Trying to get on the police is no crime. I have myself recommended many worthy men for positions on the police force, and have helped to get them on."

"It is a fact. That is all I was sent here for. You see there were two of us, and we both tried to get on the same policeman. We had him down, but some of the other peelers thought we were crowding the man too hard, and——"

"That will do, sir," said the philanthropist. "I understand your case perfectly. Here are a few tracts for the improvement of your mind, which just now appears to be a little warped."

Not Much of a Loss.

A young lady went to a drug store in Cleveland and had a prescriptions made up.

"How much?" inquired the lady.

"But I have only forty-five cents with me," replied the customer: "can't you let me have it for that?"

"No, ma'am," said the clark, "but you can pay me five cents when you come in again."

"But suppose I were to die?" said the lady, jocularly.

"Well, it wouldn't be a very great loss," was the smiling response.

And immediately the innocent clerk gathered from the indignant flush on the lady's face that he had been misunderstood, and before he could assure her that it was the little balance and not her that would be no great loss, she had bounced out at a go-as-you-please gait, and was beyond the sound of his voice.

Fertilizing Value of Clover.

According to Dr. Lawes, the fertilizing effect of a clover and is equal to 140 pounds of nitrate of soda. But it is easy to see this estimate is too low. From experiments made in Germany by Dr. Weishe and Dr. Werunez it appears that an average clover sod leaves in the soil, in round numbers, about nine hundred pounds of dry substance, seven hundred pounds of organic matter and nearly two thousand pounds of ash; while the phosphoric acid amounts to seventy-five pounds, the potash to eighty-two pounds and the nitrogen to nearly two-hundred pounds.

Now, when this amount of plant nutriment in the form of clover is plowed into the earth, if we consider also the fact that it is already in the field, without any cost for hauling or spreading, that its distribution is always perfectly uniform and even; and still further, that its quickening effect on the soil extends through several years, increasing the yield of three or four successive crops, how can we help seeing that the manurial value of clover is far greater than is usually supposed, and that farmers who neglect to use it are losing much more than they are aware of.

In the investigation made at the German station it seems that the nitrogen left by a clover was equivalent to one hundred and sixteen bushels of wheat per acre, the phosporic acid was sufficient for one hundred and fourteen bushels and the potash for seventy-three bushels. If any Club man can show any further light from their experience on this important subject, it would interest thousands of farmers who would be glad to hear from them.

* * * * * *

The great question of experimentation, which is now developing widely in every direction, is doubtless destined to be the test of sound farming, and the great solvent of husbandry, before which its greatest problems will melt away, and the conflicting results so often reached by the wisest men will be gradually harmonized and finally disappear.

Although able investigators have given a new interest to this question in recent years there is yet much remaining to be accomplished, and the present seems a favorable time for every earnest man to lose no opportunity of helping forward a movement so full of promise for the future.

If this great and growing idea of systematic experimentatation could be inaugurated thoroughly and at once on a rational scale by the Department at Washington, it would easily double in less than a single decade the farming products of the whole country, while it would more than double the profits.

It is sad to think how much the country is losing by the failure of the government to realize and apply this system, which, with its wonderful facility of expansion, could made to cover every State and country and township in the nation, and to pour into the channel of trade at the end of every season an unsuspected increas of cereal and food staples.

Best Breed of Cows.

There is nothing of more interest to farmers and all persons keeping but one or more cows than reliable information on the best breeds, and that can best be given by quoting from time to time the opinions of some of our best dairymen. A gentleman who has been a dairyman 50 years is reported as having said before the New York Farmers' Club as follows: "He prefers the cow which gives the most milk. If a cow will give twenty-five quarts of milk per day, she would be more profitable than another which only gave eighteen quarts. Then, if you sent your milk to the factory to be made into cheese, or sent it to the market, the more milk the more profit. If a man keeps but one or two cows it will be no criterion. Compare them with a herd of twenty-five or forty cows and they will fall short considerably. He prefers the Holstein to any other breed of cattle he ever owned. He says they are noted for their milking qualities. Running with a herd of twenty-five cows the pure blood and grades are the best. The Holsteins are very handsome. Jet black forward and rear, a bright white blanket around the body (some black with white spots upon them), are very docile, small head, eyes clear, large, mild and sparkling, horns short; neck small at the head, straight on the back, heavy quarters, short legs, udder large and square, teats stand well apart, hair soft ank fine. They are Dutch cattle, and will match any breed in the world."

Butter from Jersey Cows.

It is an established fact that Jersey cows will produce more butter from a given quantity of milk, than any other breed of cows. The Alderny and Jersey cows in the United States may be said to be the same. A few years ago they were all, or nearly all, called Alderneys; but lately they are called Jerseyr, it being claimed that the stock in this country is more properly Jersey than Alderny. Both breeds came originally from two islands in the British Channel, and the two breeds are so nearly alike that they had better all go by one name. If a family need but one or two cows, the Jerseys are recommended for giving very rich milk. They do not give a very large quantity, but about double the butter can be made per quart than from that of other breeds. A five year old cow lately made 320 lbs. of butter in 291 days; and although these cows give but six to eight quarts of milk per day, they average at least one pound of butter a day the year round, and the butter is much superior to that made from other cows' milk. This breed of cows are dear, a yearling heifer being generally worth from $75 to $100; and young cows from $125 to $150. They are not desirable as general dairy cows, nor for any person who sells his milk, it being too rich to sell for its value.

Liniment for Horses.

A correspondent says: "Sometime ago I was a good deal worried with a couple of horses which had sore backs. I tried various remedies without success, and was beginning to despair when the following receipt came to my notice 'The inner bark of white oak bark boiled down in an iron kettle (never use a brass one) until it is as black as ink; while boiling drop in a piece of alum, about the size of a hen's egg.' This liniment is to be applied with a sponge, and 'is good for any sore or bruise; in fact it is a safe thing to keep in one's barn ready for use when occasion requires."

To Preserve Eggs.

It is said that eggs may be preserved by using the patent stoppered glass jar, with vulcanized India rubber joints to make it perfectly tight, like the jars for preserving fruits. As soon as the eggs are collected, put the jar in hot water, and when thoroughly so as to rarefy the air put the eggs in jar, the pointed end upwards, and pack them with paper or something to prevent them from breaking, then close the jar before taking it out of the water. If the work is skilfully done and the jar is tight the eggs will keep for many months and be as fit for the breakfast-table as the day they were laid.

Johnny's Essay on Dogs.

Last summer our dog Towser was a lyin' in the sun trying to scratch the flies was that bad that he culdn't, ces he had to catch 'em, and hime by a bee lit on his head, and was wakin' about like the dog was hisn. Towser he held his head still, and when the bee was close to his nose, Towser winked arthur like he sez you see what this buffer is doin' he thinks I'm a lily-of-the-valley which isn't opened yet, but you just wait till I blossom and you will see some fun, and sure enuf Towser opened his mouth very slow so as not to friten the bee and the bee went into Towser's mouth. Then Towser he shet his eyes and his mouth too, and had begun to make a peck of sneezes when the bee stung him, and you never see a lily-of-the-valley ack so in your life.

"A young lady, not accustomed to waltzing, at the earnest solicitation of a friend made the attempt in this city recently. When the music ceased another friend approached and said, gayly: "Well, I see you got through all right." "Yes," was the reply, "but it was a tight squeeze."

A lady engaged to be married, and getting sick of her bargain, applied to a friend to help her untie the knot, before it was too late. "Oh, certainly," she replied; "it is very easy to untie it now while it is only a beau knot."

"Satan died here," reads a Pittsburg sign, but it was not till an astute Allegheny Dutchman inquired when he died there, that the people understood that they could get satin dyed.

The Taxes for 1880.

TAX-PAYERS are notified that the tax accounts for 1880 will be ready on Tuesday, August 17th,

and on and after that date the collector will be prepared to receive the taxes, and will allow the following discounts on both State and county taxes, WHEN PAID IN CASH.

On August Payments .....5 per cent
On September Payments.....4 "
On October Payments.....3 "

Special Notice.

The attention of tax-payers is especially called to the provision of the new Code of Public General Laws, which says, emphatically, that the collector shall collect and pay over the taxes within six months after receiving the books, and in the event of his failure to do so, he shall be liable to prosecution and severe punishment.

This means that the collector, having received the books on the 31 of August, 1880, is obliged by law, by his oath of office and by the bond he has given for the faithful performance of his duty according to law, "to collect and pay over the taxes within six months," that is by the third day of February, 1881.

The collector has no discretion in the matter. Having accepted the office, he is bound to execute its duties in accordance with law, and he will therefore be obliged to collect by the summary process of distress or execution of all taxes that are unpaid on the third day of February, 1881, and notice is hereby given that all tax bills for 1880 in arrears on the third day of February, 1881, will be collected at once by legal process.

Tax-payers should therefore make provision to comply with the requirements of law so as to pay their taxes for 1880 before February 3d, 1881, and thereby save costs, trouble, and much unpleasantness.

I have been using John Lucas & Co.'s Celebrated Enameled Ready-Mixed Paint, very extensively for the last two years and have tested it very thoroughly, and after using from eight hundred to one thousand gallons in 1879 alone, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the best paint in the market. The following qualities make it superior to any I have ever used:

1st. It has no water in it, and can therefore be used in the coldest as well as the warmest weather.

2d. Two coats of this paint will give as much satisfaction as most other paints with three coats.

3d. One of its most desirable qualities is its uniform thickness; it is not so thin in warm weather as to be fit only for priming, nor so thick in cold weather as to not spread easily and evenly.

I have the exclusive sale of it in this county.

I have obtained the signatures of the following persons upon whose houses I have used this paint during the years 1877-78-79 (all of these houses were new, and most of them finished with only two coats) and they recommend it as entirely satisfactory in solidity, brightness and durability.

Philip F. Thomas, Thomas K. Robson, Peter Stevens, Chas. T. Wrightson, W. D. Roberts & Sons, M. P. Flowers, J. F. Bateman, C. O. Byerly, Thos. K. Robson, C. F. Eastman, J. R. Jarrell, Julius A. Johnson, Jr., Mrs. J. A. W. Powell.

H. MYERS,

JEWELLER, &C.,

Dover St, Easton, Md.

BEGS to announce that he has received another invoice of the celebrated Waltham Watches, all sizes and grades. These watches are now used on the principal railroads in England in preference to any other make, being more reliable time keepers. They are the most popular watch in the market. Two years guaranty with each watch. Patronize home-made watches, they are both better and cheaper than foreign make.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain

The Gas Question is settled.

NOT DANGEROUS

The "New Process" (?) known to Dentist (who has been in practice over six months), as Dental Applicator, was introduced in this county by T. J. Smithers in 1878.

Articles invented by Traveling Dentists are not generally used by other dentists, nor by themselves except on paper, the only place where some dentists operate skilfully.

Skilful dentists never have to travel, beg, steal, lie or resort to catch-penny advertising for practice.

T. J. Smithers is the only dentist in this or adjoining counties who has a license to use or make Rubber Plates, which is not only the best plate, but the only plate that ought to be used. Cost T. J. Smithers $300 for License.
