Daughter of Cum Posey Pushes Pa. Theatre J. C. Case

3 Mercy Hospital Staff Members Say Doris Violated New Law.

$300 BAIL SET FOR MANAGER, ASSISTANT

Policy of Segregation in Seating Is Admitted.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Miss Ethel Posey, daughter of Cum Posey, owner and manager of the Homestead Grays baseball club; Miss Katherine Belton, supervisor of nurses at the Mercy Hospital, and Dr. Charles Nickens, Mercy interne, appeared before Magistrate Henry, Tuesday morning, as joint prosecutors in a discrimination case against the Doris Theatre, Forty-ninth and Woodland Avenue.

All three of the prosecutors said they were segregated against in that theatre at different times since the Hobson Reynolds Equal Rights Bill became a law on September 1, although Miss Belton said the discrimination practice of the movie house has been in effect for several years.

Jim Crow Seats or Refund

Miss Belton testified that on Monday, September 9, she purchased a ticket at the theatre, and was about to take a seat in the center section, when she was approached by the manager, Charles Shields, white, who informed her that she would have to sit in the section reserved for colored people on the right or else leave, which she did after having her money refunded.

Shields is alleged to have told Miss Belton that, "If all colored people were as intelligent as you, we wouldn't mind allowing colored people to sit anywhere in the theatre."

Miss Belton said that on a previous occasion she had had some trouble there when she sat in the center section and was pestered throughout the picture because she wouldn't change her seat.

Policy Admitted

Miss Posey, a native of Pittsburgh, who is a student nurse at Mercy, told the magistrate that she entered the theatre in November 11, Armistice Day, and was also told to sit on the right side, which she refused to do and accepted a refund of her money.

On October 30, Dr. Nickens, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and of the Howard Medical School, entered the movie house and the same situation occurred.

Policy Admitted

Shields said that it was the policy of the theatre, owned by the Violet Amusement Company, to segregate colored patrons to the right side of the theatre and that he was merely carrying out orders by demanding strict observance of that ruling.

Questioned by Magistrate Henry, Shields said in view of the recently passed law but did not know the law, yet they did so. He did admit that a large percentage of the patrons of the theatre were colored, but said they were "not of the same class" as the three prosecutors.

Shields and Raymond O'Rourke, white, assistant manager, were placed under $500 bail each for violation of the Equal Rights Bill after re-considering, the bail was lowered to $300 each.

This is the fifth case of discrimination filed against the Philadelphia since September 1. The first occurred in Germantown, when a party was refused service at a drug store soda fountain. The latter, was dismissed by the magistrate's court as the prosecutors failed to press the charges.

Other Cases Recalled

On September 14, Miss Mamie Davis, executive secretary of the Y.W.C.A., in company with her assistance, Mrs. Ruth Conyers, entered the Hamilton Restaurant on South Broad Street and were served, but the food was so heavily coated with salt that they could not eat it.

A third case was reported in the latter part of October, when Misses Frances Reed, 1700 N. College Avenue, and Gladys Dryden, 5931 Arch Street, went to eat in the Horn and Hardart Restaurant at Sixteenth and Market Streets for almost an hour without being served.

The fourth case was one of discrimination against Miss Mary Lamb, and Mrs. Ethel Loyn, both of New York, who were allegedly refused service at the dining room of the Frontenac Hotel at 1528 N. Broad Street, last October.

In each of the three last cases the defendants were the hotel men when arraigned before Magistrate Henry. The cases were prosecuted by Raymond Pace Alexander.

Palais Royals Down N.Y. Elk Cagers, 26-22

PHILADELPHIA — The Palais Royal Big Five defeated the New York Lodge Elks by a final score in the first Sunday basketball game here, 26-22.

No more than two points separated the teams during the entire first half which ended with the visitors holding a 14-12 advantage. The New Yorkers rallied up in the second frame and widened the breach to 19-12 before the local team could get going.

With two minutes to play, Slats Davis sank a couple from the center that tied the score and Clayton clinched the fray with two other shots that put the cards shortly before the final whistle.

Looking Over Philly

By ROBERT J. SMITH

Sincere Leadership.

When leaders and organizations, including Democrats, Republicans, Socialists and Communists, can set aside their political affiliations and band themselves together to fight for a common cause they should be highly commended.

The recent movie operators' strike has opened the eyes of Philadelphians to at least two things. One is that they know the organizations they can depend upon in time of need to rally to their assistance. The other is some so-called leaders who will sell them out wholesalely to their white friends for a pat on the back or past favors done.

Too much credit cannot be given to the fifteen North Philadelphia organizations of various political allegiances that, with united front action, brought victory to the movie operators in their fight for living wages. These groups went on the picket line, bearing signs that put spirit and force into the fight.

The sincerity of men like Representative Hobson R. Reynolds, Dr. John K. Rice, the Rev. Arthur Rankin, Donald W. Wyatt and others, will stand up under the attack of selfish leaders who tried to inject political propaganda into a race issue.

The movie operators' strike was a cause that was bigger than any one individual organization or leader. On this occasion to have been identified with the opposing forces was an indication of lack of sympathy with the economic, poverty-stricken, poorly fed, and almost naked conditions of our working class of people.

For the operators to have lost in their demands would have meant that movie operators employed on South Street, Ridge Avenue and other parts of the city, though receiving starvation wages at the present, would have been further exploited. White employers would regard a strike failure as an indication that we cannot unite to fight for our rights, and the result would be an increase in poverty and mortality among our poor people.

Not only North Philadelphians, but all Philadelphians, have been given an opportunity to know in what category to place certain people who are eagerly desirous of being leaders but are only ready to lead themselves to the top and abandon the masses after their ends have been accomplished.

It was the first time in the history of this city that such a strike has been recorded. Our people here are not accustomed to fight for what they deserve as do residents of New York City, Baltimore, Chicago and elsewhere. Now is the time to learn through organizations and activities, what it means to unite as a common whole to fight for a common cause and what should be the penalty meted out to so-called leaders who try to scuttle a movement of this kind.

Those of us who are with fat salaries, swell cars, modern homes, with maids and butlers must learn that they cannot afford to neglect the poorer classes and leave them to the ravening wolves and roving predators, for they made them what they are and can make them what they expect to be.

No Segregated Unit Wanted

Now that one victory has been won, the next fight to be staged is against the jim-crow methods of the American Federation of Labor in having the colored movie operators in a separate unit.

While the union must be lauded for its support in the strike, officials, no doubt, realized that they were placed on the spot, since a victory for the theatre management would have injured the prestige of the union considerably. It evidently meant that the union was compelled to place its best foot forward.

It has been the contention of some, who used the situation to capitalize upon, that the operators should not be members of a segregated union. No one has ever countenanced such an idea but under the circumstances the boys had to creep before being able to walk.

Heretofore, no colored people were admitted into the union at all, neither as an auxiliary, nor as a unit. After a steady fight that lasted for more than six years, the operators were at least given recognition by becoming affiliated with the union. The union ably supported them in their labor battle and supported the very last one of them financially, until the strike ended.

The next step of the operators will be to obtain complete admittance into the union.

MEMORIAM

HICKS—In loving memory of my dear husband, Thomas Hicks, who died December 19, 1934.
Who held out kind and loving for 28 years.
His last words were a prayer
To keep me and his nin children.
We loved him, but God loved him best.
Wife,
ELIZABETH HICKS.

WATERS—In memory of our dear wife and mother, Laura J., who passed away December 17, 1926.
Two dear, bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do.
No thought of self, no care for the other.
We knew He said: "Come home, dear one."
Her husband and daughter,
EMORY WATERS
