Select Poetry.

The Night After Christmas.

'Twas the night after Christmas, when all thro' the house
Every soul was abed, and still as a mouse;
The stockings, so lately St. Nicholas' care,
Were emptied of all that was eatable there;
The darlings had duly been tucked in their beds,
With very full stomachs and pains in their heads;
I was dozing and Nancy was rather far gone in a nap,
When out in the nursery rose such a clatter,
I sprang from my sleep, crying "What is the matter?"
I flew to each bedside, still half in a doze,
Tore open the curtains, threw off the clothes,
While the light of the tapers served clearly to show
The piteous plight of those objects below;
For what to the father's fond eyes should appear,
But the little [illegible] dear,
For each pet [illegible] as a
sick.
I know in a moment felt now like old Nick
Their pulses were rapid, their breathing the same;
What their stomachs ejected I'll mention by name;
Now turkey, now stuffing, plum-pudding, of course,
And custard, and crullers, and cranberry sauce,
Before outraged Nature all went to the wall;
Yes, lolly-pops, flapdoodle, dinner and all,
Like pellets which urchins from pop-guns let
Were [illegible] and candies, nuts, jellies and pies,
Till each error of diet was there set to rights,
To the shame of mamma and Santa Claus too.
I turned from the sight, to my bed-room stepped back,
And brought out a vial marked "Pulv. Ipecac;"
When Nancy exclaimed, for the suffering
sick,
"Don't you think you had better, love, run for the doctor?"
Then, and was scarcely back under my roof,
When I heard the sharp clatter of old Jalap's
hoof;
I might say that I had hardly turned, myself
round,
When the Doctor came into the room with a bound;
He was covered with mud from his head to his
foot,
And the suit he had on was his very best suit;
He had hardly had time to put that on his back,
And he looked like Falstaff half fuddled with sack.
His eyes how they twinkled! Had the Doctor
got merry?
His cheeks looked like Peat and he had a fresh smell of Sherry.
He hadn't been shaved for a fortnight or so,
And the beard on his chin wasn't white as the snow,
But inspecting their tongues in spite of their
teeth,
And drawing his knife from his waistcoat his
sheath,
He felt each pulse, saying, "Each little belly Must get rid," here he laughed, "of the rest of that jelly."
I gazed on each chubby, plump, sick little elf,
And groaned when he said, so in spite of myself,
But a wink of his eyes when he physicked our
Fred,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He didn't prescribe, but went straightway to work
And doses all the rest gave the trouble a jerk;
And standing, [illegible] showing his teeth,
He buttoned his coat, from his chair he arose,
Then jumped in his gig, gave old Jalap a
whistle,
And Jalap dashed off as if pricked by a thistle;
But the Doctor explained, ere he drove out of sight,
"They'll be well by to-morrow—good-night
Jones, good-night."

Agricultural.

Apples as Food.

From the earliest ages apples have been in use for the table as a dessert. The historian Pliny tells us that the Romans cultivated twenty-two varieties of the apple. In these latter days we probably possess over two thousand. As an article of food, they rank with the potato, and, on account of the variety of ways in which they may be served, they are far preferable to the latter to many persons and families. Instead of substitute ripe, luscious apples for pies, cakes, candies, and preserved fruits, there would be much less sickness among the children and the saving in this one item alone would purchase many barrels of apples. They have an excellent effect upon the whole physical system, feeding the brain, as well as adding to the flesh, and keeping the blood pure, also preventing constipation and correcting a tendency to acidity, which produces rheumatism and neuralgia. They will cool of the feverish condition of the system; in fact, they are far better for these purposes than the many quack nostrums which are so liberally puffed in the advertisements and so constantly purchased by sufferers. A ripe fast apple is entirely digested in one hour and a half, while a boiled potato takes twice that time. Now that apples can be purchased at such cheap rates, every family should keep a dish of them in the dining-room, where the children can have access to and eat all they please of them. They will rarely receive any injury from them, if they are thoroughly masticated. Baked apples should be as constant a dish upon the table as potatoes. Every breakfast and every [illegible] should have a plate of them. The sweet apples are a very pleasant addition to a saucer of oatmeal pudding, and when served with sweet cream they are very appetizing. They are not as commonly used as they should be, as they will supply as much muscular [illegible] as dishes of meat and vegetables. Thousands of bushels of sour apples are used for pies and puddings in hundreds of families, where well-baked sweet apples would prove more nourishing, food and much more economical. They are also good food for self-pastes, and are usually greatly relished by them. In my own family they are always when in season a part of the meals of the day and are as commonly used as a slice of bread.—Country Gentleman.

Mud-Air Orchard.

The Rural Hereville gives a description of an orchard on the fifth story of a house. The owner being deprived of the land on which his fruit trees stood, had to move to the fifth story of one of the large buildings of Paris, and took his trees with him. He had a terrace sixty feet long and over six feet wide, and protected towards the street with an iron railing. Here he grows pears, currants, gooseberries and roses, and the trees and plants are vigorous and healthy. They require much care and labor, and of course stand in tubs or boxes.

The fifth annual meeting of the American Humane Association was held recently at Boston. No one of the 700 designs for cattle cars that has been presented [illegible] The requirements therefor that the prize of $5,000 voted by the association can be awarded to its inventor.

The most successful breeders of horses, cattle and swine know from experience that although they may possess the best breeding animals, they will not be successful in producing superior stock if a continuous growth of the young animal is not kept up.

THE GOLDEN SHEAF.

$20 PER TON.

Sold at a very small profit on cost of production and clear of Agents' commissions.

THE COMPOSITION NO SECRET.

Made Without Sand or Dirt.

FOR SALE BY

THE OXFORD GUANO CO., Oxford, Md.

W. H. SETH, Secretary.

The attention of Farmers who desire to secure a good fertilizer at a reasonable price, is respectfully called to the above advertisement.

The object of the manufacturers has been to original a compound of plant foods directly adapted to the soil of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and to fix the price therefor at the lowest possible figures, calling off all agents fees of $5 and $6 per ton and adding to the actual cost only a very small profit. We think this fertilizer has as much intrinsic value as most of the high price manures, and feel confident that farmers who may think proper to use it will say that in its effects upon the soil, it will equal them.

The analysis, as made by Prof. G. A. Liebig, shows it to contain:—

Ammonia, from	.75 to 1.25	per cent.
Phosphoric Lime, from	5.00 to 7.00	"
Lime	33.10	"
Carbonic Acid	26.07	"

The lime and carbon, which are essential to plant growth, are obtained from oyster shells ground to powder, instead of being burnt. This combination not only dispenses with the necessity for dirt or sand to hold the chemicals, but is a most valuable assistant to their action.

We are also manufacturing ground lime, which we propose to put upon the market at a low price.

To the Farmers.

THE TALBOT COUNTY PAPER MILLS COMPANY will now contract for WHEAT STRAW, to be delivered at a convenient time hereafter. A little more care in stacking and ricking, will insure so much better keeping as to be important to save at least half of their straw, the cash for which would nearly pay for their plantations.
