POETRY.

HYMN TO NATURE.

Oh, Nature! teach me how to live,
Make known to me thy secret charm;
Sublimer thoughts to me do give,
Imbue within a spirit warm.
Point out the path of life to-day,
So clear, though wayward in the past,
My erring feet may find the way,
And lead my soul to God at last.

Unconscious of thy teachings true,
The world with scorn doth pass thee by;
But here thy presence I may woo,
And see thy grandeur with mine eye.
Behold the free and happy birds,
That sing of thee from year to year,
And conscious of the hidden words,
They come in whispers to my ear.

The rustling of the forest leaves,
The rippling of the flowing stream,
And as the mighty wave upheaves,
It gives the notes of which I dream.
The wind a-whistling through the pines,
The wild waves surging on the sea,
Though tone o'erful with worldly cares
Deny—yet all are songs of thee.

Can'st thou enable me to walk
The road of life, in truth divine?
And as the days go by, like hawk
With talons ready, in a line
Darts down upon its prey so swift
And sure as arrow to the mark,
Can'st guide my weary feet, and lift
My soul to glory from the dark.

Why not? Ah yes, thou can'st, I know;
Thy hidden language is from Him;
My beating heart doth tell me so;
And though my eyes, so very dim,
Can scarcely see thy godlike face,
In God's pure light, divine and bright,
And with the aid of heavenly grace,
These mortal eyes may see aright.

AGRICULTURAL.

Concerning Eggs.

The prevailing high prices of eggs during the past year or two shows that there has been no overproduction of eggs, certainly not of those which are marketed in a strictly fresh condition. Every farmer can make a small flock of hens a source of profit with reasonable care and outlay. To secure the highest prices in the market where eggs are sold on their merits, the matter of feeding the fowls is one of considerable importance. Wheat or wheat screenings and barley are the best grain food for the chief supply. Corn should be given in moderate quantities only, on account of its tendency to fatten. Oats are a good grain for a change, but they contain too much husk to be a favorite food with poultry. Sorghum seed is an excellent food, so is milk, even skim-milk, sweet or sour, mixed with wheat bran. Green vegetables of all sorts are desirable through the fall and winter. Many poultry men have successfully fed their fowls with ensilage as a substitute for other vegetable food. Fowls fed largely on buckwheat produce inferior eggs of thin, white contents.

In the matter of packing eggs for market much carelessness is exercised. The shell of the egg is of a nature so porous as to be easily deteriorated by contact with decaying or pungent substances. Eggs packed in sawdust will certainly taste of the packing material. A few dozen eggs packed in tesinots product and forwarded a few miles by express were rendered almost worthless in two hours from such exposure. Similar injury is inflicted upon eggs by the use of musty hay or straw in packages. Of course sweet hay or straw finely chopped are unobjectionable. Egg merchants now use, in almost all cases, patent egg boxes, provided with separate paper compartments for each egg. Thus transported, the percentage of breakage is very moderate, while the packing imparts no disagreeable odor or flavor to the eggs. Air-slacked lime is sometimes used in the bottom of barrels in which eggs are packed in hay to correct or absorb any unpleasant gases or liquids arising from eggs broken in transit. A well-known chemist, feeling certain that he could improve on the use of lime, made a test with a disinfectant in which carbolic acid was a constituent. The whole shipment of eggs was ruined by reason of the odor of the disinfectant permeating the porous shell of the egg. Few people realize the rapidity and certainty with which eggs will absorb noxious gases and odors.

Mr. W. T. Thompson, Baltimore, Md., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for weakness of the stomach and indigestion with good results."

What Eminent St. Louis Physicians say:

PREVENTIAE OF MALARIA.—COLDEN'S LIQUID BEEF TONIC is a very agreeable article of diet, and particularly useful when tonics are required, being tolerated when other forms of animal food are rejected. In Diphtheria, Ague, Malaria, Typhoid Fevers, and every depressing disease, its use will be attended with great advantage. We have prescribed it with excellent success. J. H. Leslie, M. D.; G. P. Copp, M. D.; S. B. Parsons, M. D.; R. A. Vaughan, M. D.; Drs. S L. and J. C. Niedelet; Wm. Porter, M. D., and many others. What Tom Moore Said.

"WRINKLES are democratic and flatter nobody." The same may be said of all blemishes of the skin, whether caused by sickness, age or accident. "GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP" will at least retard the time when wrinkles make their appearance, by keeping the skin of a velvet softness, improving its elasticity, and preserving its healthful appearance. It gives a pearly aspect to the skin, which cannot be distinguished from the natural hue of a pure blonde complexion. Beware of counterfeits. See that "C. N. CRITTENTON, Proprietor," is printed on each packet, without which none is genuine. Sold by druggists and fancy goods dealers.

EASTERN SHORE DOMESTIC GUANO WORKS

EASTON, MD.

F. H. NICKERSON & CO., Proprietors.

The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano is justly styled the complete wheat manure of the age. It is acknowledged by all who have used it as having no superior, if any equal. It is a highly concentrated wheat manure, combining all the fertilizing qualities of PERUVIAN GUANO and contains all the elements that are necessary to nourish the wheat plant from the time the seed germinates until it matures.

F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The past four years your fertilizer has proved satisfactory. I consider it the best commercial manure on the market for wheat and clover. From 12 acres last year I got 12 tons of hay, and the second crop yielded 27 bushels of seed. Please ship me 10 tons for this fall.

Yours truly,
W. S. POWELL.

F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: I have used your "Eastern Shore Domestic Guano" on my wheat crops (light lands) for the past four years, and am pleased with the results. The crops of wheat have been good, and the clover that followed has always been excellent. You will please send me 10 tons for my wheat this fall. Yours truly,

J. P. REESE.

BROAD CREEK NECK, MD., July 26, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano I purchased of you last fall has proved entirely satisfactory, I used other standard fertilizers which I consider the best on the market. The wheat from your fertilizer was equal, if not the best, notwithstanding it was used on my thinnest land. I shall use it exclusively this fall. Yours truly,

THOS. F. BRIDGES.

ST. MICHAELS, July 17th, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano I purchased from you last fall acted first-class, I made more wheat than ever before, notwithstanding I had in less ground. I regard it a first-class fertilizer, and shall use it again.

SAMUEL H. WRIGHTSON.

TRAPPE, Md., July 26, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co.—Gentlemen: In response to your inquiry concerning the results of your Eastern Shore Domestic Guano on my lands, I cheerfully give the following: I have used your fertilizer on land which was very thin; 200 lbs. application each year on an 18 acre field that has been in corn successively for five years; the first year I raised therefrom 265 bushels, and have increased that yield every year, with 36 bushels this season.

Are clover producer and a permanent improver; I consider it has no equal, and has always given me a strong growth for the last two years.

Yours truly,
JONATHAN LEONARD.

CAMBRIDGE, MD., July 17, 1883.

L. Eugene Ross, Esq.—Dear Sir: It gives me great pleasure to report that the effect of Nickerson & Co.'s phosphate, which I purchased of you in October last, has been very satisfactory. I applied it, as nearly as I could, at the rate of 200 lbs to the acre, to my wheat, both in fallow and corn ground by the side of "Sea Island Guano," which I regard as an excellent fertilizer, and its effect was fully equal to it. I am inclined to believe better than that of the latter. My crop, although seeded late, averaged 25 bushels to the acre, without the application of any compost or other manure to either part, during the year, except some six or eight loads along the turning rows. Yours truly,

DANIEL M. HENNY.

EASTON, MARYLAND.

F. H. Nickerson & Co.—Gentlemen: My experience with your Eastern Shore Domestic Guano has convinced me that it is one of the best fertilizers on the market, and I recommend it to all farmers who may be undecided as to the kind of manure to apply to their wheat lands. Yours truly,

J. E. M. CHAMBERLAINE.

Mr. Wm. A. Kirby, Trappe, Md.: "I have applied Eastern Shore Domestic Guano to my wheat crop for eight years with good results. I am satisfied it is a good manure for I should have discontinued the use of it if I have tested it by other fertilizer, and shall use it again.

MARGARET A. WILLIAMS.

Mr. James H. Willis writes: "In reply to your inquiry of me in relation to my trial of Eastern Shore Domestic Guano, side by side with several of the best brands in the market I have to state that, early in the spring the Eastern Shore made the best start; at harvest I could not see much difference in the straw where Turner's Excelsior and the Eastern Shore were used, but the Eastern Shore yielded better. I consider it the cheapest and best fertilizer I ever used."
