The Republican Citizen.

A Dorchester Romance.

There was recited to us, some time since, the following, every particular of which is vouched for as truth: There lives, in this county, a family named ——, every dark-eyed male member of which, for the past fifty years, has gone blind at the age of twenty or twenty-five years. Those with blue eyes escape the terrible affliction. There is a tradition about this singular circumstance which we lay before our readers as we heard it: Some sixty years since, so goes the story, a beautiful black eyed girl of twenty, from some cause or other, lost her eye-sight.—Her misfortune brought penury and want with it. Being reduced to beggary, she was wont to go abroad asking alms During one of her journeys she visited the neighborhood in which resided the ancestors of those who are now sightless

Instead of her helpless condition exciting, as it should have done, a feeling of sympathy, she was treated with ridicule by some of the younger members of the house her evil star led her into Two of the boys, as a matter of mere devilitry, took her out, promising to conduct her to a place where plenty awaited her. Instead of giving her a safe conduct, they carried her into a swamp and left her! It is said that she cried out beseechingly for them to put her on the public road, but they heeded not her lamentings. Finding herself about to be deserted among the tangled brushwood, she turned her prayer to a curse, and asked her Maker, in her revengeful anguish, to punish her betrayers by making their offspring, for seven generations, as helpless as she was! It is said that she was found dead in the swamp, having perished from hunger and cold.

This may appear somewhat romantic, but whether the traditionary part of it be false or true, it is assuredly a fact that the male offspring of the family referred to lose their sight as indicated. Hundreds of persons in Dorchester county will verify it.—Cambridge Democrat.

PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE.—Judge S. gave his son a thousand dollars, telling him to go to college and graduate The son returned at the end of the Freshman year without a dollar, and with several ugly habits. About the close of the vacation the Judge said:

"Well, William, are you going to college this year?"

"I have no money, father."

"But I gave you a thousand dollars to graduate on."

"It's all gone, father."

"Very well, my son, it was all that I could give you; you can't stay here; you must now pay your own way in the world."

A new light broke in upon the vision of the astonished young man. He accommodated himself to the situation; left home, made his way to college, graduated at the head of his class, studied law, became Governor of the State of New York, entered the Cabinet of the President of the United States, and has made a record for himself that will not soon die, being none other than William H. Seward.—Hall's Journal.

THE ADAMS FAMILY.—The Memphis Appeal says: Perhaps no more illustrious record of a public man appears on the pages of American history than that of John Adams. And it is remarkable that both his son, John Quincy, and his grandson, Charles Francis, and his great-grandson, John Quincy, Jr., are very little his inferiors. The great-grandson has already made intellectual strides which evince that he is the equal if not the superior, of his father and grandfather. However distasteful to the South the opinions of John Quincy Adams may have been in former days, we never could deny either his great abilities or that he stood boldly forth as the champion of the rights of the people, whose especial champion he was for the right of petition. And it would be uncandid, as well as ungenerous, now to deny either the great-grandfather, grandfather, father or son, the merit of being great champions of public liberty. This is the distinguishing merit and characteristic of them all.

MATERIAL AID FOR FRANCE.—It so happens through the changing fortunes of war that our oldest ally, France, is making large drafts for the means of preserving her national integrity. Large quantities of war matirial have already been forwarded, and the ship Erie is now loading with arms and ammunition for the French republicans. It is a most happy coincidence that we are thus able to repay in kind the obligations rendered us by France in our first and direst extremity.—N. Y. Herald.

The American Dollar! MASTERS OF THE SITUATION.

"We have met the enemy and they are ours."

The Best Goods at the Lowest Prices!

Our system of buying under the relentless hammer and clearing them out like lightning at a close shave over cost, has absolutely cleared out the old fogies and land pirates like chaff, like mist before the rising sun. Living in the Auction Rooms of New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, standing there with the almighty power of gold upon a market demoralized by speculation, panic, and failures, fighting alike and upon the same level, the wavering, the bankrupt, and the Dry Goods gambler, we have again and again beaten them in a struggle where the titan power of genius and ambition, and sleepless energy was bound to triumph over rotten profligacy, old fogyism and wholesale robbery. Then what's the use of talking about fighting men who would rather die than stand second to any living man! Every brand and grade of under the lowest wholesale quotations.—Woolen and Cotton fabrics at about half the current prices. Alpacas, Silk Warps, Poplins, Mohairs, Reps in fancies, plain and changables, at a figure far below their gold cost.

DOMESTICS, PRINTS & FLANNELS,

DRESS GOODS

of every grade, at prices that must tell of frightful butchery somewhere. So with Linens, White Goods and Silks; and in Laces, Embroideries and Trimmings; as well as Ribbons, Feathers and Flowers—you will especially note the panic here. They were thrown into the Auction Rooms by a grand old house who had battled nobly against fate, but at last went down with a "present arms," and we got the entire stock. Hence these unaccountable bargains; these prices that arouse the suspicion of the buyer, that they might have been stolen or smuggled.

Ah! who knows the waste of money when you get your goods of men who buy and sell on credit? Look at the vast amount of money squandered in this rotten old cut-throat system. Pay the cash and save your money. Buy of the men who are the acknowledged leaders and masters of business. Waste not your time with these high-priced buzzards who have fattened upon the masses, and who are now madly trying to regain the position whence we have driven them. Alas: they are to-day the servile imitators of our advanced and scientific system, but lack the brains and nerve to follow us.

Let them match our panic prices in Hosiery, Gloves and Notions! Let them approach within long range of our figures upon our grand specialties in Domestics and Dress Goods. They would have to sell at half cost and then not come within a mile of us. Not by favor but by merit, do we maintain our reputation. Gold is a good thing, but give us genius and ambition, and then with an energy that never sleeps and a brain that never tires, we will ride rough shod over the world.

"Aut Cæsar aut Nihil."

Everywhere we have forced them to follow where we have led, or starve.

Come and see us often and judge us by our matchless goods and low prices. We will meet you at the threshold with civility, cortesy and low prices, that will bewilder you—that will at once impress you with this fact, that you are saving your money and trading with men who understand all about business. Gigantic drives in

CASSIMERES AND WOOLENS.

One million dozen Buttons from one penny up. Enormous job lots thrown away for a song. Eleven Miliners go down in a single week; aggregate amount, one hundred and eighty thousand. We get fully three-fourths of the entire job. We run them at 29 cents on the dollar; no wonder the so-called cheap stores howl! "Root, Hog, or Die!" Standard yard-wide Bleached and Brown, 12½.

Auction prices will do the work! Pins, Needles, Tapes, Sewings, Trimmings, given away. Velvet Ribbons, Kid Gloves, Jet Jewelry,—grand drives.

1000 Dozen Handkerchiefs,—Slaughter.

Collars, Cuffs, Scarfs, Ties, Sashes,—terrific tumble!

FAILURE OF A CORSET FACTORY.

We get one hundred dozen! Five thousand pairs—enormous losses! Breakdown of the Gallego Whitney Blanket Factory. Eleven Dress Goods importers on the list last month. The panic prices in this department will astonish all lovers of real bargains.

ALPACAS, 1000 PIECES.

Carpet Department absolutely Demoralized.

The bottom knocked clear out of the market. Then on with the ball! Farewell! Old Fogies Speculators, Credit System, High Prices, and so-called Cheap Stores—your doom is absolutely inevitable. Buy your goods cheap. Buy the very best.—Trade with men whose sharpshooters and skirmish lines never sleep. Deal only with men who are the acknowledged monarchs of the Auction Rooms. And never forget the names TIMBERLAKE & CO.
