PRINCE & CO.

Improved Patent Prize Medal
ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

Are still ahead of all others.

They have taken the first premium wherever exhibited in competition with others. Some Instruments have a very good tone when first manufactured, but keep them in constant use for five or six years and the tone will become harsh and unpleasant. This however, is not the case with Prince's Instruments of their make—ten years old—can now be shown with as good a tone as they had when first bought.

They also contain the following improvements: Automatic Swell, Divided Swell, Graduated Swell, Basso Tenute, Manual Sub Bass. Read what Frank Leslie says in his Illustrated Newspaper of August 31st, 1867:

"G. A. PRINCE & CO's Automatic Organs and Melodeons are among the proudest triumphs of this musical age. It is estimated that there are over forty thousand of these excellent instruments now in use. It is also a remarkable fact that not one of this enormous number has ever been returned, a sure proof of their surpassing excellence. For the past six years the enormous sales has made it impossible to supply the demand promptly, and every year increases the number of orders. Their manufactory is in Buffalo, New York."
