William Powell and Carole Lombard, erstwhile man and wife, are tied again through the medium of the celluloid in "My Man Godfrey", rapidly moving, sophisticated comedy, in the screen offering at the Centreville Opera House today, Thursday, and Friday. Powell is cast in the title role with Miss Lombard portraying the daughter Irene, known as the dumbest debutant in New York. Alice Brady, Gail Patricck and Eugene Pallette form a strong supporting cast.

Thomas Compiles Political Hand Book

"Election Year Facts" Title Of Radio Star's Volume

While hundreds of thousands of copies of the newest book edited by Lowell Thomas, have already been distributed, there has been no reduction in the demand, according to officials of the Sun Oil Company.

This book, called "Election Year Facts" is a small encyclopedia of political information, and is written in the clear, concise style, for which Mr. Thomas is so famous.

While every effort has been made to keep the book on a non-partisan basis, Mr. Thomas has woven into its pages many interesting facts and figures on the American government and included also, biographies of the leading presidential candidates.

Copies of this book may be obtained without charge at all Sunoco Service Stations but students wishing to obtain larger quantities for class-room study, should address their inquiries directly to the Sun Oil Company, 1608 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.
