Crowds See Joe Louis in Film at the Royal

Baltimore citizens turned out in large numbers at midnight last night (Thursday) for the premiere showing here of Joe Louis's first movie, "Spirit of Youth."

The midnight show was sponsored by the Baltimore posts of the American Legion.

Long before the designated hour, crowds began milling about in the streets.

Many were turned away and inside the theatre, standing room was at a premium.

The picture begins a usual week's run today (Friday.)

This will be Baltimore's first and only showing this year the management said. The picture is offered plus a hot-from-Harlem stage revue, featuring Pigmeat Markham, Jimmy Baskette, Crackshot, Madeleine Belt, Chink Collins, and Allen Drew.

"Spirit of Youth" is an unusual and interesting film, based on the champion's own life story, and has plenty of swing, song, and sock to make it engrossing entertainment for everyone.

Diverging from the familiar pattern of touching only upon the championship phases of a fighter's life, "Spirit of Youth" begins with the leather pusher's own boyhood, brought early to a close by a serious accident to his father which cripples him for life.

Realizes Responsibilities

The boy, devoted to his mother, and realizing the responsibilities of his dependent parents and young sister, leaves school for work.

As a young man, he leaves home and his school-day sweetheart, Mary Bowdin, for points North.

Working at a restaurant with a trucking concern and in sundry other jobs, he takes up with one "Cricky" and, in defending him, knocks out a bully with one lethal blow.

Wins Golden Gloves

From then on, his career turns pugilistic. He wins in the Golden Gloves and then goes in for professional work.

There are complications in the form of Flora, a night club entertainer, who almost costs him his future. He comes through to win the championship and the girl of his heart.

This picture is well constructed and rises high in excitement and emotion. Louis acquits himself well in his role, and Clarence Muse proves himself the fine actor that he is.

Edna Mae Harris, Mae Turner, Cleo Desmond, Clarence Brooks, and many others help make this picture a master production.

CAN WOMEN RUIN A FIGHTER'S CAREER?

Scene from "The Spirit of Youth," starring Joe Louis, now showing at the Royal Theatre. MAE TURNER vamps JOE. It is Mae's idea to keep him out late and wear him down so that he will lose his next fight.

CELEBRITIES LOOK ON AS BILL GETS HIS MEDAL FOR EXCELLENCE

LUNCEFORD PLAYS FOR COLLEGE JAM CONCERT

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.—Jimmie Lunceford and his orchestra were presented in concert Tuesday at the Winston-Salem Teachers' College here.

Mr. Lunceford opened his two-hour program with "Rhythm Is Our Business," followed by a group of numbers including, "Organ Grinder's Swing," "Posin'," "Bob White," "A Jam Session," and "Dream of You."

The last half of the program was devoted mainly to request numbers.

High Class Music

The concert was sponsored by the Lyceum Committee of the Winston-Salem Teachers' College, whose policy it is to present to its student body and the general public of Winston-Salem high class entertainment and cultural programs.

It is their belief that it is possible to present a swing band in a concert of that type of American music which is so popular throughout the world today, and to keep such a concert on a high and dignified plane, where popular music may not only be enjoyed, but may also be studied in terms of its musical types and possibilities.

The Lunceford orchestra came to the Winston-Salem Teachers' College direct from a series of four concerts at Duke University, Durham, N.C.

Duke Writes Own Score for Cotton Club

NEW YORK—Duke Ellington is writing the score for the next floor show at the Cotton Club in New York. The Duke and his orchestra will be featured in the new revue, which will have its premiere on or about March 11. Irving Mills and Irving Gordon are collaborating with Ellington on the book and score.

At Appollo

After playing the Apollo Theatre in New York last week Duke and his band went to the Palace Theatre in Fort Wayne, Ind., for a four-day engagement, followed by the week of February 11 at the Stanley Theatre in Pittsburgh.

He then returns to New York to begin rehearsing for the Cotton Club show.

BUCK AND BUBBLES AT SAVOY

NEW YORK— Buck and Bubbles appeared with Charlie Turner's band for a one-night engagement at the Savoy Ballroom here Sunday.

All-Sepia Film, "Temptation," at the Lincoln

"Temptation," an all-colored picture, headed by Ethel Moses and Andrew S. Bishop, will be one of the features at the De Luxe Lincoln Theatre, Sunday and Monday.

Buck Jones, idol of fans of Westerns, will be seen on the same two days in "Men Without Law," a sensational drama of the plains, with Carmelita Geraghty playing opposite him.

In his varied career, Buck has been a cowboy in Montana, a member of the United States Cavalry in the Philippines, an expert rider with the Miller Brothers' "101" Wild West Show, and served in the first air squadron during the World War.

For Wednesday and Thursday, Jack Randall will be seen in "Where the West Begins," a picture which shows how a cowboy crusader escapes being lynched.

Joe Penner Has Starring Role at Roosevelt

Joe Penner, Gene Raymond, and Harriet Hilliard are just a few of the well-known screen personalities who will come to the Roosevelt Theatre Sunday and Monday in "Life of the Party."

The story tells how a girl evades marriage to an unwelcome suitor by declaring that she is already married. This little bit of deception results in some very funny situations.

Gene and Harriet provide the love interest, and Joe Penner, Parkyarkus, Victor Moore, and Franklin Pangborn keep the laugh pressure up to a high point.

Song hits, including Joe's own rendition of "Life of the Party," are heard.

For Tuesday and Wednesday, the picture will be "Exiled to Shanghai."

Carey Offers "The Wrong Road" and "Wild Horse Rodeo"

For Tuesday and Wednesday, the Carey offers "Wild Horse Rodeo," with the Three Mesquiteers, Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan, and Max Terhune, taking the leading roles.

Along with Max Terhune in the picture is Elmer, his dummy.

The thrills in the picture include some wonderful exhibitions of horse-back riding, some rousing fights, and best of all, an attempt to capture a beautiful runaway horse, "Cyclone," with the aid of an airplane.

For Saturday, February 12, the picture will be "The Wrong Road," with Richard Cromwell, Helen Mack, and Lionel Atwill playing the leads.

The story deals with two young persons who steal $100,000 and go to jail voluntarily, hoping to live a life of ease when they come out of prison.

Needless to say, the path is not as easy as anticipated, and the adventures and difficulties that they run into make up one of the most absorbing pictures of the season.

At Boston's Southland

BOSTON — George Dewey Washington, who was starred in last year's version of George White's Scandals, and Margaret Watkins, song stylist, have been signed to appear in the new revusical at the Southland Club in Boston.

NIGHT LIFE IN THE CLUBS

By Knight Klubber

LITTLE WILLIE'S INN, atop Sugar Hill, offers a wide variety of choicest liquors and mixed drinks.

Banjo Denny, Buddy Miller, and Jimmie Jenkins, sensational vocalizing drummer, entertain nightly.

• • •

YORK GRILL, located in the York Hotel, is still as mellow and enjoyable a place as one could select to fete a party or entertain a club.

• • •

Bea Lemons appeared at the VILMA TAVERN on Saturday night and laid a light number for the gang. This spot as usual is way out in front on those mixed specials.

• • •

Make the famous BIG APPLE your hang out when strolling on the avenue. Serving (yes, Ruth is here) nothing but the best in drinks and home cooked foods.

• • •

Sunday supper dances with the International Band featured, with vocals by Johnny Christian and Dick Gamly, are tops at ye ole BIRD'S NEST down South Baltimore way.

Tuesday is country store nite with 25 prizes awarded and three cash prizes are given on Thursday, bank nite. Dukie entertains with Willie Haywood's orchestra nightly.

• • •

Friends and relations all turned out to help Evelyn Murphy, the hot cha girl of the GOLDEN ROD INN, celebrate her birthday at this rendezvous on Sunday night.

The party was sponsored by Evelyn's husband and will be a never-to-be-forgotten affair.

John Smith, the crooner, and "Good Going (Grafton's) Turk" reigned as emcees. Congratulations.

• • •

When hungry, tackle some of Chef Pleasant's food, or when thirsty, sip a Jim Lipscomb special at the OLD LELAND, the avenue's oldest establishment, famous for its food and service.

• • •

PAUL'S CAFE, the South Charles Street rendezvous, has inaugurated a Tuesday country store nite.

Every Sunday afternoon, Naomi and her aces, Geneva Howard, and Babe Mander are pulled in for a hotter than hot matinee.

• • •

The ultra modern, sophisticated home of the elite, the CLUB ASTORIA, is rolling along with the music of Irvin Hughes, featuring the trumpeting of Cornell, a stroll favorite, and a crew of merrymakers including Harlem's Marjorie Zeppe and the elongated Jimmy Lancaster.

Bing Perry is the singing emcee.

• • •

THE SPOT's cocktail lounge is unique in design, cozy and a place you are sure to enjoy. Carries a complete line of your choicest drinks served by experienced waitresses, lovely ones too, and food that am.

• • •

Jimmie Bryant, producer-comic and popular emcee is doing his bit at the COMEDY CLUB where Marion Miller, a tragedy in songs; Dot (the real) McCoy, the incomparable bit of versatility; Robert Bell, the personality lad; Estella Young, the human dynamo, and Vernon Hutchins, carry on to the tune of Ed Wharton's orchestra.

The Thursday night cocktail parties for ladies are just too much.

• • •

Jimmie brings together for the PLANTATION'S new revusical Daisy Navarro, who astounded the stroll as femme impersonator No. 1, singing the songs that shock and thrill you.

Baltimore's well dressed damsel of song and dance fame, Helen (Lynn) Colburn, Vi. Blanche, and Agnes swing out to the music of the Thornton (Percy and Bob) Brothers' orchestra.

• • •

SONNY'S CAFE is as ready as they make them. This quiet spot is famous for its mixed drinks by Charles Carr and delicious ham sandwiches.

Fremont Shows "Underworld," All-Sepia Film

"Underworld," an all-colored picture featuring Bee Freeman, Sol Johnson, and Oscar Polk, who had the role of the Angel Gabriel in "The Green Pastures" will be the feature at the Fremont Theatre, Sunday and Monday.

Others in the cast are Slick Chester and Ethel Moses. Of particular interest to movie-goers will be the appearance of Dot Sauliers, who is regarded as a singing and dancing "find."

Her first appearance in films was in "Underworld," and after the showing of the picture, she was immediately grabbed by a talent scout for United Artists, and had one of the leads in Walter Wanger's "Vogues of 1938," and in "52nd Street."

For Tuesday and Wednesday, the picture will be Zane Grey's "Thunder Trail" with Charles Bickford, Marsha Hunt, and Gilbert Roland and the cast.

A second feature for Tuesday and Wednesday will be "Sophie Lang Goes West," with Gertrude Michael, Lee Bowman, Sandra Storme, Larry Crabbe, and Robert Cummings in the cast.

ACTORS' GUILD INSTALLS OFFICERS IN NEW YORK

CLAUDE HOPKINS SET FOR TOUR

NEW YORK—Claude Hopkins, the wizard of the piano, and his internationally famous orchestra, have been set for a long tour of dance engagements which will take them to the far South and Southwest.

"Sophie Lang Goes West" and "Angel" at the Lafayette

The picture at the Lafayette Theatre for Tuesday and Wednesday will be "Sophie Lang Goes West," with Gertrude Michael playing the role of Sophie, notorious as a jewel thief.

How she escapes from police and hides on a West-bound train, on which a man is wearing one of the most precious stones in the world is told in a very interesting manner.

For Thursday and Friday, the picture will be "Angel," starring Marlene Dietrich.

The story tells what happens when romance between a couple grows dull, and the wife spends an evening with another man, just to make life a little more interesting.
