Major Wallace Heads Marine Air Squadron

planes is headed by Major B. F. Johnson.

Major Wallace was born at Church Hill on August 6, 1935, the son of Mr. W. L. Wallace and the late Mrs. Wallace. Following his graduation from Washington College in 1917 he was appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Reserve Corps, and was transferred to the regular Marine service in August 15, 1918

He entered aviation in 1921, qualified as a naval aviator at the United States Naval Air Station at Pensacola, and has since flown almost 3,300 hours. He has served with Marine Corps squadrons in Santo Domingo, the Philippine Islands and China, as well as in San Diego and Quantico, Va.

In 1931 Major Wallace was selected to command the first Marine Corps squadron to serve aboard a Naval Aircraft carrier. As the commander of this squadron he had the distinction of being the first Marine aviator to land aboard a carrier at night as well as in the day time.

In 1932 the plane which Major Wallace was piloting caught fire during a gunner flight and he was forced to jump, thus becoming a member of the famed Caterpiller Club whose one qualification for membership is that one's life must have been saved by a parachute when a plane went wrong. The Major landed in the Pacific Ocean about five miles from land. Although badly burned, Major Wallace managed to stay afloat until picked up by a nearby naval vessel.

Major Wallace commanded VB Squadron 6M in the winter of 1936 when that squadron a sa part of Aircraft One, Fleet Marine Force made the remarkable flight from Quantico, Va., to Culebra, Cuba, for the annual military maneuvers and flew back. This was the longest flight ever attempted by such a large number of planes.

Among the decorations held by Major Wallace are the Victory Medal, the Expeditionary Medal and the Yangtze Medal.

Fire Destroys Cappa Home At Bloomfield

A blaze which spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save any of the contents of the building, destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cappa, on the "Bloomfield Farm," of John H. Chambers, near Centreville, last Sunday about noon.

The blaze was discovered by Pearl Cappa, thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cappa, who gave the alarm. Mrs. Cappa and her three daughters, Catherine, Marguerite and Pearl, and young son, John, were in the kitchen of the home, when the young girl went to the front of the house and discovered the room in a blaze.

Mr. Cappa was at the barns on the Bloomfield Farm, where he is employed as dairyman. By the time the family had been able to notify the father and the Good Will Fire Company, of Centreville, it was too late to save either the building or furniture. All the clothing of the family was also destroyed.

Clover Not Field Crop Until After Revolution

Although mention of red clover is found in early colonial history, it probably was not until after the Revolution that farmers planted it as a forage, hay, and soil-building crop, according to records in the Bureau of Plant Industry.

An early history of Pennsylvania (about 1730) reports that little seed of any grass was sown, as the plow seldom was used to prepare for meadows; that red and white clover were propagated only by manure. But clover had been introduced before that. It was reported in the fields of Long Island in 1679. In 1749 it was growing on the hills and in the woods of New York.

A Philadelphia writer remembers a bullock that was ill because of eating too much clover and says "as clover was only then (1735-40) making its entrance into the neighborhood, they were all strangers to its effect."

From the early history of Virginia it is obvious that the production of hay was not of any great importance. Agriculture centered about tobacco. New lands were sought rather than methods of improving worn-out soil.

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)
