and secure the blessings of liberty for our people.

Equal Protection

"The free and appreciate enjoyment of the various fundamental civil rights embodied in the amendments of the Constitution are the very basis of any democratic form of government, local or otherwise. Foremost among these fundamental guaranties is that of all persons to be accorded the equal protection of the laws and due process of law.

"It is the high purpose of this bill to make a reality of these fundamental guarantees in a situation where notoriously they have been naught but shameful mockeries. We seek to insure that every man, however humble and whatever his race or creed, is given a fair trial by his peers when accused of crime.

Need Never Be Invoked

"As I have repeatedly said, this bill need never be invoked if the States do their duty under the Federal Constitution. It applies only where the officers or subdivisions of the States have failed in that duty.

"Every Senator has expressed his horror of lynching. The overwhelming majority of Senators favor this legislation. I plead with each and every one of them to vote for cloture, so that the debate may be brought to a prompt conclusion.

"In the present circumstances, a vote against cloture is bound to be regarded as a vote against this bill, whatever their reservations or protestations may be.

"I plead also with those who are opposed to the measure, not to let their opposition take the form of frustrating the people's constitutional right to declare their will on this important public question through their elected representatives.

"There can be no question of the fullest possible consideration has been given to this bill. I plead with all Senators, whatever your views on the merits of the bill may be, let us have an opportunity to vote. Only in that way will we vindicate the essential principle of representative government."

Barkley Hits G.O.P.

Senator Barkley, in his speech, hit the G.O.P. and Minority Leader McNary of Oregon for refusal to vote for cloture on the last attempt to limit debate. He exposed McNary's record in voting for cloture on eight previous occasions.

Senator McNary attempted to toss the remarks off lightly by making a joke of the charge.

Created by Democrats

To the Senators who opposed cloture as undemocratic, Mr. Barkley pointed out that it was the Democratic party which put the gag rule in the Senate procedure and that it was a portion of the platform on which Woodrow Wilson rode into the White House.

"The nation wants the Senate to expedite time in carrying on its business," he declared, "and all efforts to dignify the present action by calling it a debate is futile. Call it by any name you wish," he insisted, "it is still a filibuster to keep the people from expressing their desires through their representatives.

"There is no such thing in America as a perfect democracy. All the people cannot express their desires at any one given place. It is therefore necessary to allow their representatives to reflect their feelings by voting for them.

"If we debate this bill for a year, I doubt whether any Senator will change his vote. The speeches that have been made here during the month of argument have not electrified anybody—they may have almost electrocuted some of us, but that is all.

Chamber Empty

"The reason this is a filibuster and is recognized as such by all concerned is the fact that the chamber is practically empty whenever Senators pretend to be discussing it. Everybody leaves and even the desks would leave if they were not nailed down."

He urged all to vote for cloture so that the measure could be voted upon.

Court Grants Painter $181 in Painting Dispute

Case Hinges on Whether Structure Was One Building

WASHINGTON

Allen F. Jackson, a painter, 310 John Marshall Place, Northwest, was given a judgment in Municipal Court last week for $181 against Thomas Frazier, undertaker of 389 Rhode Island Avenue, Northwest.

The case turned on the question whether the structure at the corner of Florida Avenue and Fourth Street, Northwest, was two buildings.

Fight Over Painting

Judge George C. Aukam, who presided at the trial, instructed the jury that if it believed there were two separate houses and the contract called for the painting of the building at 389 Rhode Island Avenue, Northwest, Jackson was entitled to the full amount of the contract.

Jackson claimed that he had submitted a bid to paint the building at the Rhode Island Avenue address and the adjoining building at 391 Florida Avenue, Northwest for $560.50. This bid was not accepted.

Sued for Balance

He said he submitted another bid to paint and redecorate the Rhode Island Avenue building for $331, which was accepted. He was paid $150 on account of the job, and sued for the balance.

Frazier's defense was that the job, and sued for the balance.

Jackson did not paint the sides of the building on Florida Avenue and on Fourth Street, Northwest.

J. Flipper Derricotte, attorney, represented Jackson, while Frazier had Leonard A. Block, white attorney.

rested and later brought back to Baltimore.

Testifying also was Miss Pearle Mitchell, who was shot in the Judges Chestnut, Dennis, Frank, and Attorney General Herbert, R. O'Conor.

Mrs. Carter to Speak

Of particular interest, Callaway says, will be the address of Mrs. Eunice Hunton Carter, whom district attorney, Dewey, has authorized to be present.

Mrs. Carter, who heads an important department in the office of the district attorney, and whose eleven assistants include a relative of Chief Justice Hughes and a daughter of the late head of the Consumers' League, Mrs. Florence Kelley, is well known in Baltimore and will no doubt be greeted by a record group of women.

In view of the record crowd that is expected at the affair, school officials have made arrangements that seats be reserved for organized groups representing clubs, churches and societies. Occupants of these seats must be in their place by 7:30, however, they say.

The faculty and officials of the school will occupy seats in the choir. General music arrangements will be under the direction of Houston Jackson and Mrs. M. S. Callaway. The City-Wide Young People's Forum trio will sing two numbers.

85,000 Signed Cards

Several months ago, Callaway sent out cards to adult citizens in Baltimore asking them to sign and return as endorsement of the movement to obtain colored police. Around 85,000 of these cards have been returned, and these signers will be invited to add their endorsement by presence that night.

foot by the first bullet which missed its mark.

Didn't Mean to Kill

Ennels pleaded that he did not mean to kill his sweetheart, but admitted that in a surge of jealousy he lost control of himself.

Asked why he was carrying a loaded pistol on the day of the shooting, he stated that he was planning to get the pistol greased for the Fourth of July. He admitted having carried the weapon on other occasions.

He was represented by Dallas F. Nicholas, who contended that Ennels' crime was not that of premeditated murder, and that he merited favorable consideration by the court.

No Other Course

Judge Ulman stated that with the testimony of the defendant before him there was no other course he could take but to find him guilty of murder in the first degree. He stated that he did not think he should hang, however.

MARYLAND SENATORS LINE UP WITH DIXIE

Tydings Puts on Arm Around Tom Connally, Chief Antilynching Bill Opponent

Both Maryland Senators lined up with the South in voting against ending debate in the Antilynching Bill on Wednesday.

Senator Millard Tydings came on the Senate floor at 12:45 and talked to Senator Pat Harrison (Dem. Miss.), went back to his chair and put his arm around Senator Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.). Both men are leaders of the filibuster.

Senators Tydings and Connally went out to the cloak room together and came back together. Both voted to allow the filibuster to go on.

Senator Radcliffe Late

Senator George Radcliffe (Dem. Md.) came in the Senate chamber a little past 1 p.m., the hour set for the vote.

He talked to Senator Byrnes, (Dem. S.C.) and Senator Byrd, (Dem. Va.). Senator Byrnes is also a filibuster leader. All three voted against bringing the Antilynching Bill to an immediate vote.

TRANSIT COMPANY HALTS FREE USE OF TRANSFERS

WASHINGTON.

The Capital Transit Company introduced a system of dated transfers which put an end temporarily to the wide-spread use of interchanging transfers.

The company had raised the price of the weekly pass to $1.25, and raised the price in tokens to six for 50 cents, yet with all this when the reckoning came, it was found out that the company's revenue had fallen far short.

The trouble was that those who got a transfer would continue to ride and tell the last receiving conductor that they were going to use the transfer again.

The result was that the transfer ticket would be kept all day and used in the evening on the return trip home.

Pupils in the schools would exchange their transfers with others, and where one would ordinarily pay 25 cents a day for car fare, he would pay 10 cents and in some instances one would ride free on the transfer of another.

Now the transfers bear both day and date.

Loyalist Vets Blast 2-Faced Filibusterers

WASHINGTON

Two-faced American lawmakers who signed a letter praising the Spanish Loyalists on the one hand while waging a filibuster against the Antilynching Bill on the other were rapped in speeches at a testimonial banquet sponsored by Friends of the Spanish Democracy, Saturday night.

The banquet held at the Gingham Club, 1423 Pennsylvania Avenue, was attended by four colored veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, who have recently returned from the Loyalist front.

Congressmen at Banquet

John T. Bernard and Henry Tygan, both Farmer-Laborite members of Congress from Minnesota were among the 400 guests, with the former serving as toastmaster.

The colored veterans were: Paul Williams and James Peck, both aviators, and Walter Garland, lieutenant in the infantry; and Sergeant Douglas Roach of the machine gun corps. The latter described the part played by colored heroes at the front and recounted the part the race has taken in other wars for democracy.

Ellender Rapped

Roach singled out Senator Ellender of Louisiana, one of the sponsors of the letter, for an individual blasting.

While in the city, Lieutenants Williams and Peck were house guests at 2011 First Street, Northwest; Lieutenant Garland was at 1436 R Street, Northwest, and Sergeant Roach at 609 Roxboro Place, Northwest.

Saw 5 Months' Service

Lieutenant Williams is from Los Angeles, Cal., and is a graduate in aeronautical engineering; while Lieutenant Peck, a resident of Pittsburgh, is a graduate of Curtis Wright Flying Service School and Cleveland Institute of Aviation.

They both saw more than five months' service in Spain, and were the only two American colored aviators to serve with the Loyalists.

To Go to China

At present, they are staying in New York at the Broadway Central Hotel, but hope to leave within the next month for China, to join the Chinese forces.

Peck, who is also writing articles on aviation, was elected a delegate to represent Pennsylvania on the National Committee, while Lieutenant Garland, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was elected treasurer, and Sergeant Roach from Boston, Mass., adjutant commander.

Paul Burns, white, is the commander.

Bishop and Mrs. Wright will spend at least a month traveling in the South following the council meeting in Alabama. He said he would spend some time in New Orleans, and Jacksonville, Fla.

The main points in the case woven about Hammond, who lived at 10 W. York Street, were the finding of a pair of shoes said to have resembled those once worn by Hammond, and a flimsy identification by several witnesses whose credibility was questioned by the defense counsel, J. Howard Williams and H. S. Copeland, Enfield, N.C.; R. H. Peoples, Indianola, Ind.; C. L. Whitfield, Baltimore.

Women Seeking Telephone Jobs

Renewing a similar request made several years ago, the Northeast Women's Club last week asked the Bell Telephone Company to train and give employment to some colored women as telephone operators in the District.

The organization pointed out that at the time it made a similar request previously there was no need for additional employees as the dial phone was being popularized, but with the many newly established exchanges the need is apparent.

It also cited the large number of colored families spending money with the company.

Girl, 15, Cripple for Six Years, Still Hopes to Walk Again

Alfreda Twine, 15-year-old invalid, of 1617 E. Madison Street, who has been stricken with some form of rheumatism for the past six years, is determined to overcome her infirmity and be an artist.

With rays of sunshine emanating from her little round face, the child invalid, whose complaint has baffled the best medical minds at Johns Hopkins Hospital, still has the highest and brightest hopes for recovery.

Though unable to move her limbs, she gladly welcomes the day when her teacher calls to instruct her in bed. Her instructress is assigned by the department of education to teach her, and she has just completed her 5th grade.

Club Interested

Among the groups that are interested in the welfare of the youngster is the F. E. W. Harper Thrift Club, Inc., of which Mrs. Laura Smith, 1809 Druid Hill Avenue, is president.

The organization is concerning itself in gathering funds to purchase a wheel chair and any other form of aid and assistance for the girl.

Victim Since Nine Years

In a letter directed to the Harper Thrift Club, the little girl wrote:

"I was born July 24, 1923. When I was 9 years old, I became a victim of a form of rheumatism which has left me an invalid. I'm unable to walk or use my arms and body in any way.

"Dr. Ralph J. Young has been my physician since birth except for two years that I spent in Johns Hopkins Hospital and the Kernans Hospital for Crippled Children.

Father Is Dead

"I live with my mother, grandmother and 16-year-old brother. My father has been dead for nearly twelve years.

"I hope I may be able to walk again, as I once did. Thanking you for anything that you may do for me, yours very truly, Alfreda Twine."

Officials of the club informed the AFRO that they would appreciate any help directed to them for the unfortunate girl.
