Twelve New Brides Grace Afro's Eighteenth Dinner

With Lula Jones Garrett

AWAKE BETIMES to Christmas in Baltimore! Steps scrubbed to a glistening white just a-waiting their blankets of snow. Windows holly-wreathed and housewives-humming as they cut hundreds of traditional Christmas cookies. Stores jammed and the narrow shopping streets crammed with shoppers. Even the mendicants with smiles on their faces. A Santa on every corner and adults jolting with kiddies at the toy show-windows. There's nothing like smalltown, big-town Baltimore in her holiday dress.

* * *

Cupid did a rushing, if one-sided, business around the old-home (AFRO) plant this year, with twelve brides numbered among the first-time guests at the annual dinner held on Saturday.

The annual AFRO DAY, the one day in the year on which employees lay down their work (that is, except beating up their gums in the seminar), is another marked-on-the-calendar event, for immediately afterwards all the little girls and boys rush out and do their Christmas shopping. It's bonus day, too, you know.

But to get back to this Cupid business, eleven outside girls speared husbands from the rank, including, Mesdames B. T. Gillespie, Noah Thompson, William Grayson, Howard Murphy, Medford Reynolds, Joseph Shephard, Leroy Fears, J. Nelson Fortune, J. Robert Smith, Charles White and Clarence Jackson. The sole AFRO woman who garnered a husband was Bettye Murphy Phillips, whose newly-acquired is also in the staff rank. And a likely looking set these new brides are. In their swankiest bibs and tuckers, they lent no-end of decoration to the dinner. All of them were on hand except Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Shephard, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. White.

The tables were prettily arranged in gleaming white and silver, candles and flowers; programs, cleverly done with cartoons of various employees and employers by Francis Yancey and illustrations by Ralph Matthews and Ruth Jenkins; and imitations of others given by Clarke Burke.

IN THE MAIL

From Juanita Jackson Mitchell, St. Joseph Hospital, St. Paul, Minn.: "We have a son! A great big bouncing boy, weighed eight pounds, four ounces at birth and measured twenty inches long. He's named after his daddy, of course, and he thus becomes Clarence Maurice Mitchell, 3rd. He arrived December 14, at 10:58 p.m.

"You should see him. He's a lovely combination of us both. He has his daddy's handsome (amile) features, a head shaped like Mitchell's, black hair like mine, big black eyes and a red-dish tan color which I'm hoping will turn into a deep rich brown. Out here in the great Northwest the Mitchell family is riding the crest wave of happiness.

"P.S. The Mitchell-Jackson wedding party has been quite creative so far. Johnnie Mae Berry (Ted Berry, Cincinnati attorney) has a baby girl; Marian Downs (Karl Downs of Pasadena, Calif.), a baby girl; Annie Wiggins Brown Petit (New York doctor's wife), a daughter; and the bride and bridegroom, this boy. Not bad, eh?"

ON THE CAMPUS

The Notre's Club of Morgan College entertained its new members at a gala party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Coleman, Friday evening.

The new members spent the week before on probation and were formally accepted into the club at the party. They are: Georgette Babbit, Marian McClung, Dorine Young, Florence Waters, Joy Mitchell, Odessa Spaulding and Emily Peck.

Helen Coleman, in the capacity of hostess, had rather a busy time, but Vestah Wilson, who had as her guest James Clark, one of Morgan's popular Jerseylites, gave her a helping hand.

Ella Burnette, the president of the club, divided her time between Bruce Edmy and the duties of her official capacity. Hazel Thompson would have captivated every heart at the party had not the versatile George Barrette occupied her time.

Maud Wilson, daughter of Llewellyn Wilson, instructor of music at Douglass High School, invited Lawrence Green. He is known as "Bubbes" to the coeds. Lourcretia Friaby, tiny bit of femininity, came with Edward Reeks, who as usual, "took the party." The inseparable couple, Horace Kee and Elmyria Smith, seemed to forget that the rest of the people were there. Muriel Callaman, she's a "Mrs." you know, came without her hubby but seemingly had a swell time.

Well-liked and popular Myrtle Gale, the girl from Massachusetts, had a lovely, lovely time, too. Mrs. Patricia Spaulding Taylor, who was official chaperone, brought along Albert Spaulding, former Howardite, and a very handsome young man in the bargain. The budding romance of Overton Jones and Gladyse Waters had its debut at the party — now every one knows they are that way.

Milford Elzie, Pierce Hampton, Henry Robinson, Hayes Allen, Ivan Tucker, John Geary, Stanley Burdnell, Earle Crippen, and James Gilliam acted as escorts, respectively, for the new members.

Refreshments were served buffet style and the boys and girls did justice to everything, for not even a morsel remained when the fun was all done.

The club is a religious as well as social club. It was founded four years ago and since that time has been one of Morgan's most active groups. It is customary for them to give aid to the poor at Thanksgiving and Christmas time, to sponsor a sunrise service at Easter and, in general, perpetuate Christian and social good will on the campus.

The officers and members are:

President, Ella J. Burnett; vice-president, Pauline Spaulding Taylor, secretary, Hazel V. Thompson; treasurer, Gladyse B. Waters;

Helen Coleman, Vestah Wilson, Maud Wilson, Myrtle Gale, Lourcretia Friaby, Elmyria Smith, Muriel Callaman;

Florence Waters, Georgette Babbit, Marian McClung, Dorine Young, Joy Mitchell, Odessa Spaulding, and Emily Peck.

The project is being sponsored by the dormitory council and this year the contest will be closed to campus women.

Mrs. Sarah Neely of Philadelphia, Mrs. Mamie Cross, Mrs. Mabel Braxton, Mrs. Jesse Nichols, Mr. Nichols and Dr. Robert Jackson garnered the prizes when the Swastikas meet on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William White were hosts, and playing were: Dr. and Mrs. John Cooney, Mrs. Myrtle Fax, Mr. and Mrs. George McMechen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. James Hall, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Joseph Bunce, Mrs. Sallie Logan, Mrs. Violet Nixon, and Mrs. Everett Knox.
