

which

man Malice aforethought, did strike, giving unto him the two said George Parkman then & there with the hammer ; that aforesaid by the stroke aforesaid in manner aforesaid

Part in & upon the head of him the said George Parkman to feel one mortal wound, of which said mortal wound he the aforesaid did said George Parkman, that there instantly died in dignity And so the Jurors aforesaid upon their oaths aforesaid do say that the said John W. Webster him the said Part killed. George Parkman in manner & form aforesaid that there was said feloniously & of his malice aforethought did to that kill & murder against the peace of said Common in the wealth and Country to the form of the Statute in such

Part case made and provided Part And the Jurors aforesaid afore upon their oaths aforesaid, do further present, that they find the said John W. Webster, at Boston aforesaid in the County of hammer said on the twenty third day of November last past in & and the upon the body of the said George Parkman feloniously

Part Parkman withfully and of his malice aforethought did make an assault Part and that the said John W. Webster then & there with his hands & feet of his him the said George Parkman feloniously, withfully &