Just Published,

In five large octavo volumes, and for sale by G. Hill, M. Conrad and Co. S. Butler, J. Rice, Bonsal and Niles, G. Douglas, and Warner & Hanna,

Blackstone's Commentaries,

With Notes of Reference to the constitutions and laws of the federal government of the United States, and of the commonwealth of Virginia: with an appendix to each volume, containing tracts upon such subjects as appeared necessary to form a systematic view of the laws of Virginia, as a member of the federal union.

BY ST. GEORGE TUCKER,

Professor of law in the College of William and Mary, and one of the judges of the general court, in Virginia.

IT CONTAINS,

I. An introduction, or preface.

II. Notes on such parts of the commentaries as treat on subjects which relate to correlative powers, delegated by the constitution and laws of the federal government, or of the state of Virginia; shewing in what instances the principles of the British constitution, the maxims of that government, the general customs, or common law of England, acts of the British parliament, and particular customs, or prescriptions, have been adopted or confirmed; altered and amended; or wholly changed and repealed, by local circumstances, political considerations, or the express provision contained in our constitutions and statute law.

III. To each volume of the Commentaries, there is an appendix; into which are introduced notes of a more considerable length, which could not conveniently be inserted in the body of the work, and short tracts upon some subjects arising out of our own constitution and laws.

IV. The appendix to the first volume contains 1. A discourse on government. 2. An enquiry into the obligation and authority of the common law and statutes of England, in the United States respectively; and whether the same be the law of the federal government of the United States or not. 3. A view of the written law of the commonwealth of Virginia as partaking of the constitution and laws of the federal government, and treaties made thereby; as well as of its own particular constitution, and acts of its legislature; together with such acts of the parliament of Great Britain, as may be still supposed to have any force or obligation therein. 4. A view of the constitution of the United States; its relation and connection with the state constitutions; a brief examination of their respective powers; a short parallel between it and that of Great-Britain; an examination of some of its defects; and a view of the amendments thereto proposed by the several state conventions; and of such as may still be proper to be taken into further consideration. 5. A short view of the constitution of Virginia; an examination of some of Mr. Jefferson's positions respecting it; some hints with regard to an amendment of it, &c. 6. Observations on the right of conscience and the freedom of the press, in the United States of America. 7. A view of the origin, progress, and present state of slavery in Virginia, with a plan for its gradual abolition. 8. View of the laws respecting glebes and churches in Virginia.

V. The appendix to the second volume contains a short abstract of the land laws in Virginia, with a reference to such as are not to be found in any general code. 2. A discourse on the law of descents in Virginia. 3. An engraved copper-plate table of descents according thereto. 4. A table shewing the manner in which estates in parcenary shall be divided pursuant thereto. 5. A view of the laws respecting escheats and forfeitures, passed during the revolutionary war, and of the rights of foreigners to hold lands in Virginia. 6 A view of the laws respecting slaves as property. 7. A discourse on the subject of the laws restraining usury.

VI. The appendix to the third volume contains a short view of the courts of the United States, and of the commonwealth of Virginia, which all is regulated: strictures on the trial by jury in Virginia under the existing laws.

VII. The appendix to the fourth volume contains an abstract of the criminal jurisdiction of the federal government, and of the commonwealth of Virginia; and a short discourse on treason.

VIII. The tracts mentioned in the fourth section—together with the editer's preface and the commentator's introduction, being all attached to the first volume of Blackstone, are, in this edition, divided into two volumes—the preface and introductions, and the five tracts first mentioned in the fourth section, are attached to the first volume, and the other three tracts mentioned in the same section, make the appendix to the second volume.

☞ The notes dispersed throughout the work will amount to fourteen or fifteen hundred. Those which refer to the constitution and laws of the United States are very numerous.

A selection of the most applicable of Christian's Notes is printed under their proper references.

A Proposal,

By WM. YOUNG BIRCH & ABRAHAM SMALL, of the city of Philadelphia, for publishing by subscription, that celebrated work

GIBBON'S HISTORY OF THE

Decline & Fall of the Roman Empire:

Together with Memoirs of the Life and Writings of the author.

NO book could be offered, which stands in less need of encomium and recommendation—It has been read in almost every European language—The history of the long and interesting period from the reign of Augustus to the taking of Constantinople, and the death of Mahomet the IId. is no where else to be found in the shape of regular and well arranged history. The publishers presume to hope, that they do a service to their country in giving an edition of it from the American press. They will briefly speak of their intentions, and the superiority of this edition.

1. It will be the most complete edition of Gibbon extant—Because it will be enriched with the memoirs of his life and writings, written by himself. This will be an addition to the London copy of nearly 200 gages

2. It will be about one-third cheaper than the London copy.

3. It will be executed in the best style. The publishers, with confidence, recommend to the public an inspection of the books published by them within the last three years—They are, Russell's Ancient and Modern Europe, 7 volumes—The Domestic Encyclopædia, 5 vols. and Tucker's Blackstone, 5 vols. They promise not to degenerate.

Conditions:

I. It shall be printed from the last London edition, and be published in eight octavo volumes, during the year 1804.

II. It shall be delivered to those subscribers who take it in volumes, at two dollars per volume, in boards.

Those who wait for the completion of the work may have it either at sixteen dollars in boards, or in a good and handsome binding, at twenty dollars, payable on delivery.

It will be enriched with two whole sheet maps—one of the eastern, the other of the western part of the Roman empire—A Map of the parts of Europe and Asia adjacent to Constantinople, and an elegantly engraved Head of the Author.

☞ Subscriptions will be received by the booksellers in Baltimore. Dec. 1. eo

Distillation.

Notice is hereby given,

THAT I have obtained letters patent of the United States, dated August 2d, for the following particular construction of STILLS:

The still set up has the shape of a cylinder, surmounted with a cone, the basis of which exceeds by a few inches the circumference of the cylinder.

The cylindrical part is the body, the conical part is the cap. At about the fourth part of the summit the cone is cut transverselly, which forms the mouth, this is covered or shut by the rest of the cone. On the top of this cover is fixed a small cylindrical vessel, which, during the operation, ought to be constantly supplied with water; which, issuing by small holes at the bottom of this small vessel, spreads all around the surface of the cone, & cools it at the desired temperature. This water is received at the base of the cone by a circular external gutter, from which it escapes by a channel.

To a large oblong aperture cut in the breast, and from the basis of the cone, a flat pipe is adapted, tapering in the form of a common neck, by which the spirit is discharged into the cooler. The cooler is a long flat pipe, horizontally fixed in a trough, which must be continually supplied with fresh water. The dimensions of this cooler are, in length about three times the diameter of the still, in breadth one-eighth, and no more than one inch thick or high.

The depth of the cylindrical part is optional. The spirits raised by the heat, whatsoever way applied, evaporate freely, are instantly condensed by the contact of the cone, and run by the gutter and the discharging pipe into the cooler.

In the distillation of grains, a wooden mover, in the form of a circular rake, keeps the contents in agitation, and prevents their sticking—this mover is fixed to a metallic rod running free through rags, compressed in a little box, terminating the summit of the cone. By this operation, which does not require the strength of a child, they prevent the loss of the spirits which rise while the mouth is kept open in the ordinary way of whiskey stills.

Amongst other advantages of these stills, constructed (beyond contradiction) upon the true principle, the operation of distilling may be entirely performed, every thing equal, at a temperature more than 25 degrees lower than in the common stills.

I will shortly publish an explanation of the principles and advantages of this plan, a comparison with the stills now in use, and an account of experiments* in different kinds of distillations.

In my patent is specified the right of fixing caps upon my principle to old stills, which will give to them all the advantages of the new method, in the exact proportion of the diameter of their mouths to the larger diameter of the body.

L. GEANTY.

* In different operations performed in presence of many respectable citizens of Baltimore, a still of twelve gallons has proved to run faster than any common still of eighty—its contents being only at 180 degrees of Farenheit's thermometer, which is 32 degrees below boiling water.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

LOST last night from the stable of the subscriber at Bellvue, supposed to be stolen, a large bright sorrel Horse, between 4 & 6 years old, about 16 hands high, trots, paces and canters; has a white face, and a large quantity of grey hairs interspersed over his body, with the sorrel; has a remarkable white spot on one side of his neck; his near hind foot a little white. His marks, however, are not exactly remembered, as the present owner has not had him long. The pastern joint of the off fore ankle, shews visibly the mark of a recent sore. For the horse alone, if brought home, eight dollars reward will be given, and for horse and thief, if stolen, so that the culprit be brought to justice, the above reward and all reasonable charges will be paid.

For Sale,

THE Valuable ESTATE called Sparrow's Point—It contains about one thousand acres of land, situated on Patapsco river, about eight or nine miles below this city, in Baltimore county. One tract extends on the river more than a mile from the mouth of Bear creek, to another creek below, and contains about seven hundred acres of very uncommon fertile soil, with a valuable proportion of timber land, on which are various kinds of the most valuable trees. This, with its convenience to so flourishing and well established a market, must render it an interesting object to any who may be inclined to purchase land so truly valuable.

Also is offered,

Another tract not half a mile distant from the above, containing about 300 acres of soil equally valuable, with a considerable proportion of heavy timber.

To accommodate purchasers the above tracts may be divided into smaller farms. And the many advantages that they command will be better ascertained by viewing them, than offering any further description, as they are too numerous to be pointed out by an advertisement. Apply to the subscriber at No. 11, Charles-street, who will furnish plats of the above, and treat with any who may be disposed to purchase.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber, on the 29th October, 1803, living in Anne-Arundel county, on Elk Ridge, near Richard Owings's mills, in the state of Maryland, a dark mulatto Negro Man, named SAM, about 30 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, tolerably slender made, thin visage and small eyes; has middling bushy wool; his knees bend a little back; when strictly examined stammers, and apt to tremble. Took with him a white linen shirt; a pair of brown thickset breeches; one pair of coarse country-knit stockings, half worn; one pair of coarse double-soled shoes, nailed, half worn; a deep blue broad cloth coat, not much worn, double-breasted, with white metal buttons, and pockets out side; one coarse blue round under jacket, double-breasted, with white metal buttons, the pockets a little torn; one white country cloth short coat, half worn, with yellow buttons, and pockets inside; one fur hat, half worn; one white muslin handkerchief, and one red and white silk ditto. He is an artful villain, and I make no doubt he will change his name and clothes. His parents live in or near Annapolis. I will give the following reward for the above fellow: if 10 miles 10 dollars, if 20 miles 15 dollars, if 40 miles 30 dollars, if 80 miles 40 dollars, and if out of the state the above reward, including what the law allows if brought home, or secured in any jail, so that I get him again, agreeably to the above distances.

And also ran away, some time in August, 1800, a mulatto man named GEORGE, 25 years of age, 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, full faced and well made; is middling bow-legged, wore long wool, has a small scar over one of his eyes; he is a pert spoken fellow, lisps a little, and when strictly examined is apt to look down; is very fond of liquor and playing on the fiddle. I have understood he has been seen in Meadville-town, in the county of Crawford, state of Pennsylvania. Sometimes he has passed by the name of Henry Robinson. I will give 150 dollars to any person delivering said mulatto George to me, or 120 dollars for securing him in any jail, so that I get him again. Paid by

THOMAS WORTHINGTON,
(Son of John.)

N. B. I forewarn all persons whatsoever from harboring, employing or carrying off said negroes, as they will be dealt with according to law.

"Air-Pump Vapor-Bath."

THE following are a few cases out of a great number which have occurred during the proprietor's practice in America, and which he flatters himself will be considered sufficient to convince the afflicted in particular, and the public in general, of its efficacy in disease, more especially in many where medicine can have no beneficial effect without its powerful agency:

GOUT.

A gentleman about 60 years of age, who had been troubled with this disease upwards of 35 years, was relieved from a severe paroxysm by three applications.

Another about 45 years of age, who had been subject to this disease many years, was also relieved from a severe paroxysm in the course of a few applications. It is to be remarked, that when this apparatus is applied to persons afflicted with this disease, that debility (the general consequence) does not ensue.

Another about 35 years of age, who had been lame upwards of three months, after a fit of this disease, arising from debility, was perfectly relieved by three applications.

Another about 25 years of age, who had been lame upwards of three months, arising from debility succeeding a fit of the gout, was relieved by two applications.

PALSY.

Another about 40 years of age, who had been afflicted with this disease upwards of 15 months, during which time he never articulated a single word, or even turned in bed without assistance, was cured by the application of this apparatus. His whole right side was affected; the fingers of his right hand were much contracted; his arm he could raise no higher than to carry his hand to his mouth; his left side was also affected from the knee to the extremeties—In the course of one week his speech was restored, in one month he walked with the assistance of crutches, at the end of two he needed only the assistance of a stick.

A lady about 40 years of age, who had been afflicted with this disease upwards of three years and an half, in the course of which time she had recovered the use of her feet; the use of her right hand was, however, not restored, for during that space of time, she had never been able either to cut her victuals, use a pen, or even pick a pin in any part of her dress; her side had also recovered but very little of its natural warmth; her hand she could raise no higher than the crown of her head—In the course of one month the lady was restored to health and the use of her limbs.

RHEUMATISM.

A gentleman about 27 years of age, who had been afflicted upwards of 24 months with this disease, after trying various remedies without success, had recourse to this apparatus. He was affected in his feet and ancles, in his back, shoulders and loins, to a most violent degree, and at the same time labored under a very severe strangury. He was so extremely ill that he could not remain from off the bed more than half an hour at a time—In less than one month he received a perfect cure

Another about 30 years of age, who had been afflicted more than six months with violent constrictions across the chest, rheumatic pains in the neck, back and loins, accompanied by a general debility; his skin parched, hard and dry—was cured by three applications.

Another about 50 years of age, who had been afflicted upwards of five years with rheumatic pains in his head (and that to a most violent degree at every change during the winter months from open to cold weather) was cured by three applications.

Another about 45 years of age, who had been afflicted upwards of three years with swelling in his legs and ancles, attended with debility and inflammation, for which he had found no remedy, was cured by six applications.

Another about 36 years of age, who had been lame upwards of six months, in consequence of a sprained ancle, and which was very much swelled and inflamed, was cured by three applications.

A young woman about 22 years of age, who had been deprived of the power of using her needle for upwards of nine months, (of the cause she could give no account) was cured by two applications.

Aware of the delicacy necessary in mentioning names, their insertion is omitted, as the proprietor has the privilege of making personal references whenever he finds it requisite. All persons desirous of further information respecting the nature and effects of this Bath, will please to apply to Mr. HEBERT, (Proprietor,) No. 13, Calvert-street.
